Inspired Patriotism.
The late Senator Hoar was once importuned to lend his influence in behalf of a chronic office seeker. It was not a difficult matter to gratify the ap-plicant's ambition by securing for him a place as consul at a Galician port which was not considered a highly desirable office. The newly appointed official had served but a short time, however, when his wife, unable to withstand the malignant climate, sickened and died. Disheartened and discouraged, he resigned his post and returned home.

Some years later the senator was mildly surprised at being again importuned by the ex-consul, who asked for reappointment to his old berth.
"Perhaps I can do something for you," said Mr. Hoar; "but, considering your tragic experience there, your request seems a little strange."
"I know," explained the applicant, a trifle ruefully, "but, you see, senator, I'm married again."—Judge.

The Uses of Tale.
Talc, derived from serpentine found in various quarters of the world and in many states of our Union, is as a general thing marketed as rough from the mine. It is sawed into slabs, from which are manufactured various objects, or it is ground into powder. A great deal of the ground talc is employed in the manufacture of paper.
It also enters into the making of molded rubber forms and foundry facings and paints, but the form in which it is most familiar is the toilet powder. Not only is talcum dusted into gloves and shoes to obviate friction, but it is also blown into conduits to ease the introduction of electric wire or other conductors. Soapstone is largely employed in the manufacture of laundry tubs and similar articles. The very best grades of talc free from flaves, are used up to make pencils or crayons. This tip is also made from talc.—Harper's.

An Artist's Slip.
Sir John Gilbert was once commissioned to illustrate a short story for a London weekly. When he had finished the work the editor remarked, "Why, Sir John, the story says an officer of infantry soldiers, and here on the block you have given us mounted ones."
"Dear me, so I have," responded the artist, "but I haven't time to do another drawing now. Can't you make an alteration in the story to make it fit in?" The copy was handed to a subordinate to make the requisite alterations, but that gentleman forgot to edit the chapter describing how the soldiers had gained the summit of a steep mountain, parts of which they were obliged to scale withadders.
Horses could not have been got there unless by the assistance of a crane.
Afterward shoals of letters from subscribers wished to know how the cavalry got there.

The Golfer's Wager.
A man who knows baseball, but never played golf, was talking to a professional golfer and remarked that the latter's pet game was at best only a piddling sort of affair.
"Well," said the golfer, "I'll wager you that I can play around this eighteen hole course in fewer strokes than you can throw the ball, and you need not bother to put it in the cup, but throw as far as you can every time." Instantly the bet was made and then the baseball enthusiast began to figure.
The golfer could do the course in seventy-two strokes. To equal that the other would have to make seventy-two throws of an average length of 25 feet, the course being 6,000 yards. For an ordinary man this would be an impossible task.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Applause and the Stage.
In the Komzot Taschenbuch is an article by Felix Weingartner on "Applause," in which the director says:
"The relation between the public and the artist rests on what is rendered by both. The artist gives his strength, his knowledge and the fruit of his life's work. The public can give nothing but its recognition. As the individual has not opportunity to speak his approval, the logical way to show it is by applause." The writer says that he has never known a case where this form of satisfaction on the part of an audience has failed to please, all declarations on the part of modest stage folk to the contrary notwithstanding.
Beethoven resented silence, and Wagner "loved applause."

Teeth of the Sperm Whale.
Instead of having plates of baleen the square nosed sperm whale carries a row of twenty to twenty-five heavy teeth on each side of the lower jaw.
These fit into sockets in the roof of the mouth and assist in holding the giant squid and cuttlefish on which the enormous animal feeds. The squid seldom gets away from the warm currents; hence the sperm usually remains in the tropics.

How to Look Young.

ate with women twenty years older than yourself."

Dear Sir:--

We have a "Liver Salts" that has given such universal satisfaction in such trouble as sick headache, sour stomach, constipation, sleepless nights and all those ailments caused from indigestion, that we want to call your attention to them. First let us assure you that these salts are absolutely harmless; nothing like the strong cathartics that in many cases do more harm than good.
They are a simple remedy for a common trouble, but wonderful in their results.

If you are ever bothered with any of the above ailments we feel sure it would pay you to try a bottle. We have had such wonderful reports regarding the benefit derived from these salts that we do not hesitate to recommend them to our patrons, and to absolutely guarantee them to give satisfaction or we will refund your money.

Unlike the ordinary salts they are very pleasant to take. A tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast makes a delightful refreshing drink and tones up the whole system. Remember they are absolutely harmless. Price 50c per bottle.

Thanking you for past favors, we remain,

Yours very truly,
