Merry Moments

As We Journey Through Life Let Us Laugh
by the Way

Getting Even.

A couple of fellows met at the club the other night, and one of them seemed to be feeling a bit put out, don't you know.

"What's the matter, old top?" asked a fellow member.

"I deucedly hate to say it, but Gadsukes has insulted me vilely."

"Rotten bad form in him, I should say. Well, are you going to get even with him?"

"Yes, by Jove!"

"In a perfectly gentlemanly way, I presume?"

"Oh, yes. I have given my chauffeur orders to be rude to his chauffeur the next time they meet."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Pa Just Looked On.

"Did your father ever spank you when you were a boy?"

"Certainly not."

"Was he opposed to corporal punishment on principle or were you so good that you didn't need spanking?"

"Neither. Mother was the man of the house."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Up In the Air.

"What time was it when this trouble happened?" asked the justice.

"Well," replied the witness, "if the sun had been shining it would have been 'bout two hours and a half by sun, but as the sun didn't show his face at all that day I couldn't say for certain just what time it was."—Atlanta Constitution.

Out of His Element.

One of the men in a company of militia made a disparaging remark about the man in front of him. The victim turned with indignation and assumed a fighting attitude. Then the captain remarked sharply: "That will do there. We don't want any fighting men in this regiment."—New York Globe.

Good Start.

"I have joined the Society For the Prevention of Useless Noises," said the old fogey.

"Well, where are you going to begin?" asked the grouch.

"We are going to reduce the number of cheers from three to one," replied the old fogey.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Expensive.

Bill—It costs a lot to get justice!
Hank—Yes, and most folks are better off without it too!—New York Globe.

Suiting the Punishment to the Deed.

Small Sadie—Mamma, baby tried to swallow papa's cuff buttons while you were out.

Mamma—Indeed! And what did you do?

Small Sadie—Oh, I gave him a couple of cuffs.—Chicago News.
