The Scio business directory is crowded out for the present on account of an extra lot of advertising.

Some of the writer's friends (7) have been amusing themselves by telling around that he will not attend the school meeting next Monday afternoon.
Just what their aim is by circulating this clever bit of humor we are at a loss to fathom. However, for their benefit, we will state that we will be at the school meeting if "The Committee" (one m) does not finish us up in the meantime.

A Scioan who visited the strawberry fair at Lebanon told the writer of being routed out of his bed at 2 o'clock in the morning when police officers searched the Oregon and St Charles rooming houses for booze, and it is said women and girls were subjected to the same treatment.
Nice way to treat visitors, that.
Enforcement of law and order are necessary to the welfare of any community, but if it must be secured in this manner, looks like they had better cut out their fair and not cater to visitors.

With all due humbleness and modesty we suggest to our erstwhile friend, the Bell Wether, that he look to his fences. Many of the pickets are rotten, many have been torn away by the ruthless hands of vandals, and some of his choicest lambs have strayed far from the fold to the green pastures on the hills where the bright sun shines and the birds sing the livelong day, never to return to the dank and noisome swamps where they were wont to browse. And a murmur is borne on the ambient air that his bell is rusty and cracked, and no longer tinkles with its pristine sweetness that lulled the flock to peaceful slumber, or caused them to follow blindly where he led.
Verily, things are going to the devil, and with apologies to our friend, the Y J, hell is to pay and no pitch hot.

Serena A. Fleener

Serena A Fleener was born in Harden county, Kentucky, Nov 9, 1835 and moved with her parents to Cincinnati, Ohio, in 1838; was married to Charles D Woodmansee in 1854; crossed the plains by ox team in 1859.

To this union nine children were born, four of whom and their father preceded her to the great beyond. The father died near Bieber, Cal in 1879, two children died in infancy, C F Woodmansee died in San Francisco in 1894 aged 39 years and A D Woodmansee died at West Scio in 1902 at the age of 31 years.

Those left to mourn the loss of their mother are Mrs Julia Hendricks, Red Bluff, Cal, Wm H Woodmansee, Chico, Cal, Mrs Ella Munkers, Scio, Edwin A Woodmansee, Blodgett and Mrs Mary Munkers of Albany.

Mrs Fleener was married the second time to S P C Fleener at Bieber, Cal in 1888. They came to Oregon in 1889 and settled near Scio where they resided for a number of years. Some 12 years ago they moved near Albany, and went from there about eight years ago to Blodgett valley, Benton county, where Mr Fleener died in 1911.

Some four or five months ago she came to Albany to her daughter Mrs I A Munkers, where she could receive medical aid. Her three daughters were with her almost continuously the last three months of her life, when the best of medical skill and care was given, but death finally claimed her in the sunset of life, on May 29, 1914, at the ripe old age of 78 years, 6 months and 21 days. Thus another one of our dear old pioneer mothers has passed away.

Mrs Fleener's life had mixed with it some sad and rather remarkable history. Her maiden name was Me Iain and her parents died soon after their arrival at Cincinnati, when she was about three years old and the children were separated, the subject of this sketch being adopted as was also her sister. Serena and her foster parents moved out west in 1841, and for the long period of 65 years the sisters never heard of each other, each thinking the other dead.

While living at Tangent a few years ago Mrs Fleener met a man direct from Cincinnati and in conversation told him of her remembering having a sister 8 years old when she left Cincinnati. He advised her to advertise and she sent a letter to the Cincinnati Enquirer, and by this means these long lost sisters were brought in touch with each other, and soon a visit was planned. Mrs Fleener went to Cincinnati and found her older sister, Mrs Sophronia (Mc-Clain) White still living there. A year later Mrs White visited her sister at Tangent. Mrs White died last July.

Mrs Serena Fleener knew all the hardships of pioneer life, having always worked hard and raised a large and respected family. Her remains were laid to rest in Franklin Butte cemetery near her old home at Scio, amid a host of sorrowing friends and relatives. Rev H Albers of Albany conducted the funeral ceremony at her request.

Annoying Both Ways.

A New York society woman at a recent benefit of the Authors' society in New York said to a reporter:

"I like to see authors work together in harmony. Authors are prone, you know, to be a little bit unfriendly. I said once to a noted playwright, 'How is it I never see you at any of your confreres' first nights?'"

"Well," he replied, "I'll tell you.
If the play is bad it annoys me, and if it's good it annoys me too."— Washington Star.

Time to Quit.

Two old Scotch fishermen, having imbibed overmuch, were on their way home, and, being overcome with a great desire to sleep, they accordingly stretched themselves on the warm beach sands and were soon slumbering heavily. The tide crept in, awakening the one nearest the water as a wavelet dashed a quantity of the salty liquid into his mouth.
Half asleep, he started to arise, saying, "It's time we wis awa' oot o' this house. They're changin' the drink on us."

Cheering Him Up.

There is a young lawyer in a town which shall be nameless. He has little or no practice and is at present feeling discouraged. On leaving his office the other day he placed a card on the door on which he had neatly written:

"Will return in an hour."
When he came back he found written on the card the words,
"What for?"—Chicago News.
