Possibly About You

A Shanks of Shelburn was a Scio visitor Tuesday.

Mrs Bert Hollis and Miss Lulu Clark of near Jordan were trading in Scio Saturday.

Our 13 acre ranch, a bargain; only $1800, terms. J M Meiklejohn. 1-4

Just remember that the News office sells typewriter ribbons and carbon paper cheaper than anyone else in Linn county.

The C E's are going to fence their tennis court with a fence 12 feet high to keep trespassers out and tennis balls in.

Too much trouble to go to church and get dinner the same day? Get Sunday dinner at the Scio Hotel.

Services at the Christian church Sunday were attended by the largest and most appreciative audiences since taking the work here. The interest is growing in spite of the fact that this is hot weather and vacation time. Services next Sunday at Kingston. - V K Allison, minister.

Watch Morrison's window and you will see in a few days a stunt in enamel ware never undertaken in Scio before. A $50. range will be given away free with 300 pieces of enamel ware. I have the range in stock, but the granite ware has not showed up yet. It will be in any day. Save your purchases of granite ware for a day or two. - N I Morrison.

The News is in receipt of the following letter from Mrs A R McDonald at Ocean View. "I write to tell you that Mr McDonald and I are here on the ocean with a nice camp in plain view of the beach, with vessels passing very often. We have the finest of fish of different kinds, fresh crabs, clams, rock oysters, smelt and other things too numerous to mention. We are in the best of health and are anxious to hear from the folks at home. The mail comes in every day, but we have looked in vain for a letter. Please send the Santiam News to us. We expect to be here a month or more."

Della Rae, the small daughter of G L Sutherland, had the unenviable distinction of being kicked under the eye by a jack rabbit Monday morning. Mr Serfling who was passing the Sutherland home scared up the rabbit and little Miss Sutherland ran out to stop it and when Mr Jack got to her he decided to go the other way and right about faced, striking her under the eye, leaving a painful gash. The long eared mule has quite a reputation as a kicker, but this is the first case that has come to our notice where the long eared rabbit has imitated his heel work.

Miss Gertrude Delancey of Albany is visiting Miss Vella Brenner and other former school mates here this week.

Mens straw and light weight summer hats, just what you need for the warm weather, at Hibler & Gills.

E C Shelton arrived home from Breitenbush the last of the week and expects Mrs Shelton to follow him next week. He reports that she is receiving much benefit from the baths there and is considerably improved in health. There were ninety people at the springs when he left there.

F M Shores, the well known auctioneer who lives between here and Lebanon, was in town Tuesday, accompanied by his guests, V K Froula, principal of a Seattle high school, and F D Chada, who is editor of a Bohemian newspaper at Baltimore, Md.

Wm Brenner was very busy last week putting up his winter hay and seemed very proud of the fact that he was working. The News promised to give him a nice write-up, but as his energy gave out and he has been sitting around in the shade all week, it is all off and no special mention will be made of it.

The house occupied by Mrs J N Jones and Forest West and wife near Sanderson bridge was totally destroyed by fire early Monday morning, together with most of the contents. There was a small amount of insurance on the building. Mr West built a fire in the cook stove before going to the barn and the building was soon discovered to be in flames, and the women who had not arisen escaped from the house in their night clothes. The loss falls very heavy on both families.

Roughing it De Luxe, whatever that means, is the way the News family put in last Saturday and Sunday. We took a horse, buckboard and tent and camped above Bert Hollis' place near Jordan, and enjoyed every minute of the time until the horse decided Sunday evening that the vacation had lasted long enough, broke loose and hit the trail for Scio at forty miles an hour. Right there was where our good friends came in. Mr Hollis phoned down the line and John Shimanek's stopped the critter, and returned it to the Hollis place where we located it securely tied in a shed Monday morning, enabling us to get back to town on schedule time, right side up with care. The latch string will be out at the News office for the Hollis and Shimanek families any old time.
