

LETTERS FROM OUR COUNTRY CORRESPONDENTS

UPPER SANTIAM EVENTS

It has been cold, colder, coldest.
Parties are storing ice in Mill City to sell next summer.

Slush and ice came down the river, collected in the log pond to the depth of two feet. It congealed and they had to saw a channel to drive logs through.
Mr Devenham, who has lived in Mill City for a quarter of a century, fell heir to a big farm in Michigan. He, his wife and married daughter, Mrs Tracy Tunncliffe, have gone there. After a short time Tracy resigned as conductor on the Hammond road and left to go there.

Mrs Grier has returned to her home in Gates where she was born and reared.

Inventions never cease. Manager Shaw, Supt Olen, and Auditor Holt had boxing put in four push car wheels, put them in place of the wheels on their automobile, and now they ride up and down the railroad attending to business at any time of day. There is no turn table at the front and it looks odd to see the auto coming backwards down the track.

Miss Jessie Barnes came up from the state office to spend Christmas at home.

Judge Kelly's good natured looking phiz was seen in Mill City recently. He was with the Grier jury. The jury were an intelligent looking body of men.

Mill City and Gates know how to get on the map. Mill City is the hub of the merry-go-round and Gates is the land wagon.

Are you playing the "glad game?" Have you read the book called Polly Anna? It ought to be in every school library, and a copy in each home where children are reared. Polly Anna was a half grown girl that always found something to be glad about. She called it the "game"—the glad game. She was glad when the sun shone for various reasons; she was glad when it rained because it made the flowers bloom and the grass to grow. When the automobile struck her she was paralyzed for a time. Her aunt and the doctor did not tell her that her spine was hurt for some time. After a while she recovered enough to realize she was hurt. She said, "So its hurt I am, and not sick. Well, I am glad of that." After a time she realized that she could not move her feet and thought her legs were broken. She said, "I'm glad that it is my legs are broken, they can be mended." "I am glad it isn't smallpox. That would be worse than freckles." "I am glad that it isn't whooping cough. I have had that and it's horrid." "I am glad it is not appendicitis nor measles, 'cause I've had them. They're catching—the measles, I mean. I've been thinking of many things to be glad about since I have been lying here and looking up at that rainbow." Play the glad game. If someone lies about you, give him the glad hand and tell him you are glad he did not tell the truth about you. Invite friends in and feast them on spare ribs and karnokes. Pay "ye printers" on back subscription and make them glad. They will eat their New Year's chicken in great glee. Of course editors cannot afford turkey unless invited out. Play the game and make the world better.

Solomon concluded it was not best to come back to Mill City and went to British Columbia.

Prof Asa Hirona and Miss Grey are having a fine school at Gates. Asa visited "ye scribe" recently and we played the glad game.

Mr and Mrs Ed Wolfe of Gates have moved to Portland.

Farmers Union Comes Back

Scio, Oregon, Dec. 28-1914.
In answer to the Scio Tribune article of Dec. 3, 1914 entitled "A Gross Misrepresentation," we think that the Scio Tribune is rather misinformed about The Farmers Union.

The Union is attending to its own business and believes others are entitled to do the same. The Union has not done anything for the Scio Tribune and has not done a thing against it, for that is not a part of our business.

The Tribune claims he is friendly to the Farmers Union, and we don't see why any publication should be unfriendly to such a noble order. The Unions' business is not conducted to antagonize the Local merchant for. The Union, simply buys its supplies where they can get them at the lowest prices, which is very natural for any Individual or Corporation to do and that is one of the objects of The Farmers Union. That being the case, we don't see where antagonism comes in, for we don't care how they run their business. We only attend to our own and don't see why there should be any friction between The Union and the Local Merchant.

Thanks to, The Scio Tribune, for acknowledging that the Farmers have a right to be organized.

—Ex President of Richardson Gap Local 102.
