BETTER TAKE THE PAPER

An Eastern exchange gives the following account of what happened to a family so stingy to take their home paper.

"We once knew a man who was too stingy to take the news paper in his home town and always went over to borrow his neighbors paper.

"One evening he sent his son over to borrow the paper, and while the son was on his way he ran into a large stand of bees, and in a few minutes his face looked like a summer squash.

"Hearing the agonized cries of the son, the father ran to his assistance and in doing so he ran into a barbed wire fence, cutting a handful of flesh from his anatomy and ruining a $4 pair of trousers.

"The old cow took advantage of the hole in the fence, got into the cornfield and killed herself eating green corn. Hearing the racket, the stingy man's wife ran out of the house, upsetting a four gallon churn full of cream into a basket of kittens, drowning the whole flock. She slipped on the cream and fell downstairs breaking her leg and a $19 set of false teeth. The baby, left alone, crawled through the spilled cream into the parlor and ruined a $40 carpet. During the excitement the daughter eloped with the hired man, taking the family savings bank with them."

Ed Fleming informs the News that $130, has been subscribed in cash and $242 in volunteer work for the proposed new road out east of town, in case the county court grants the road.

Geo. Roth who left for California last fall, returned to Scio last Monday. He reports that California is a good place to stay away from this year if a fellow is looking for work and short on his bank account.

De Los Conser of Northern California was here the first of the week when he made the sale of his 40 acres on Crabtree Creek to Henry Martin.

How to Prevent Bilious Attacks

"Coming events cast their shadows before." This is especially true of bilious attacks. Your appetite will fail, you will feel dull and languid. If you are subject to bilious attacks take three of Chamberlain's Tablets as soon as these symptoms appear and the attacks may be warded off. For sale by all dealers.

Settling the Account.

Here is a story told of a certain wealthy but eccentric earl. On being reminded by a west end hatter that a small account was overdue he called at the shop and interviewed the manager. "You state," he said solemnly as he stood over him shaking his finger, as though warning him to be careful, "that this account is overdue. Remember that a bill of exchange or a bill of acceptance may become overdue, but a tradesman's account—never! A gentleman pays when he thinks he will or when he has the money, but to show that no ill feeling exists I will pay the account—and take another hat!"

Hit Both Ways.

Mr. Bullion—I wish that elder son of mine would get married and settle down. But, confound it, the young fellows of today don't seem to have any regard for the marriage relation at all.

Friend—That's right. By the way, how is the younger son doing?
Mr. Bullion—Rotten! It just cost me $20,000 to have his marriage annulled, and I had the toughest job of my life doing it.—Puck.

Hard Luck.

Cholly—What's the matter, Frank dear boy? Frank—Oh, Cholly, Ethel tells me she loves another. Cholly—What hard luck after your devotion! Frank—Hard luck! Why, Cholly, in the last six months her father's dog has bitten me nine times!—London Express.

Engineer's Advantage.

"It must be hard work to run a loco motive."

"Yes. But think of the satisfaction in being able to get off in front of the first car instead of lagging a suit case the length of the whole train."—Washington Star.

Consolation.

Stout Party—He called me a colossal ass. Friend—Well, you are large, you know.—London Mail.

Sassy.

Lady—Why, you naughty boy! I never heard such language since the day I was born.

Small Boy—Yes, mum. I s'pose dere wuz a good deal of cussin' de day y'u wuz born.—London Tit-Bits.
