

It doesn't make any difference whether you want to buy anything or not it will pay you to come to Scio and see a busy day at

Morrison's Hardware Store Next Saturday, April 24

And Take in The

given at the local theatre by Morrison. Kids don't forget the date, something doing, now watch close and I will tell you how to get a ticket.

All kids 15 years and under that live outside of Scio be on hand at my store at 1 o'clock sharp and I will give you all a ticket to the show. All town kids of the same age be on hand at 7 o'clock in the evening and get your ticket for the evening show, the afternoon show will be exclusive for out of town people. Older people will be required to make a purchase of some sort. This is simply so the kids won't be crowded out. I want the kids; two performances in the afternoon for the out of town people and one in the evening for the city of Scio.

Boys and girls and grown people can get their tickets with their purchases any time during the day. Every one is welcome. Come, every one will be here.

TWENTY-TWO YEARS AGO

Scio Press, April 14, 1893

Born—Saturday, April 8, 1893, to the wife of M P Long, a daughter.

Pres Cleveland has appointed Hon Chas B Bellinger as United States District Judge at Portland to fill the vacancy created by the death of Judge M P Dedy.

A Lebanon woman who went to Albany to hear Bill Nye, did not get home for over a week. Whether she became hysterical from excessive laughter or lost her reason through extreme melancholia, is not stated.

Early gardens that were planted during the good weather in March in order to do well should be shedded over. We should think corrugated iron would answer the purpose admirably.

Tuesday evening just after nightfall the alarm of fire was sounded and everybody was on hand instantly. The fire proved to be a burning chimney on the residence of Uncle Harvey Shelton which exhausted itself by the time the fire boys were ready for action and no damage was done (neither by the fire nor the boys.) The promptness and alacrity that our boys manifest in getting there when an alarm is sounded is commendable.

April 21, 1893.

Maple tree leaves are just making their appearance.

In the school apportionment of county funds, Dist. No. 95 gets $398.

Mrs Young and Charles Warner have been on the sick list during the week, but are out again.

John Gill, A J Shelton and M V Bilyeu are subpoenaed as jurors to serve at the special term of court to convene next Monday.

Mr and Mrs Abbott desire to express their heartfelt thanks for the sympathy and kindness extend to them during the illness and death of their brother Thomas E Strathoff.

Henry Myers and Fred Morris returned from Moonmouth for the summer they expect to return to the school next fall.

The special session of the U S senate after confirming all appointments of President Cleveland, adjourned last Saturday.

The school district is now fifth in point of number of school children in the county. In regard to school buildings, we are down near the foot of the class. However when our new house is completed, we will be near, if not at the head.

An exchange says: "You'd scarce expect one of my age, in merchandising to engage, and hope to get a paying trade without the local papers aid. And yet I did that very thing. I opened up a store last spring—this month the sheriff took my stock, and sold it from the auction block. Don't view me with a scornful eye, but simply say as I pass by: There goes a fool who seems to think he had no use for printers ink. There is a truth as broad as earth, and business men should know its worth; its simply this: the public buys its goods from those who advertise."

Rheumatic Pains Relieved

Why suffer from rheumatism when relief may be had at so small a cost? Mrs Elmer Hatch, Peru, Ind., writes, "I have been subject to attacks of rheumatism for years. Chamberlain's Liniment always relieves me immediately and I take pleasure in recommending it to others." 25 and 50 cents bottles. For sale by all dealers.

BLITZ WAS MODEST.

Yet Webster Wouldn't Give the Magician a Treasury Job.

During the presidency of Mr. Tyler I had occasion to call on Daniel Webster, then secretary of state.

Glancing at my card, he turned and readily extended his hand with, "Welcome, signor! No hocus pocus among my papers," covering them with his arms.

After explaining to him my object I received the required information. We laughed and chatted for a few minutes, and I was about to retire when I mentioned that I was an applicant for office and hoped I could rely upon his influence in the matter.

"You, a magician, an office seeker, signor?"

"There is only one, sir, I aspire to; all others I should refuse without regard to their emoluments."

"Well, what one is that?" questioned the great statesman in his deep and powerful voice.

"Counting the treasury notes, Mr. Webster."

"The treasury notes, signor?"

"Yes, sir. You might give me 100,000 to count and watch me closely, but you would find only 75,000 when I returned them."

"Signor," he exclaimed, with lively animation, "there is no chance for you; there are better magicians here than you. For there would not be 50,000 left after their counting!"—From "Life and Adventures of Signor Blitz."

She Consulted a Clock.

Girls, as a rule, are not noted for being strong on figures, and one of them was relating recently the mental maze into which she was introduced as the result of asking a perfectly innocent question. She was going downtown on the car one afternoon and queried the conductor as to the time. He withdrew his alarm clock of a watch from a capacious pocket, observed the dial with the care used by a mariner in making an observation with the sextant and then remarked in a portentous tone, "It lacks three seconds of being 2:13." The poor girl was so overwhelmed with the mass of material for a short exercise in oral arithmetic that she waited until she got downtown before trying to find out really what time it was, and then she consulted a big clock, where she had plenty of time to see just where each hand was.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Sentiment Given a Jolt.

Some time ago, just as the happy husband of a few months was about to leave home for the daily office grind, little wifey sailed into his immediate vicinity and gently placed a pretty hand upon his arm. "Harry, dear," she softly said, "haven't you a lock of my hair somewhere in your pockets?" "I have indeed, sweetheart," was the prompt response of hubby, and he affectionately embraced the sharer of his sorrows and joys. "I have it right here in the pocket closest to my heart!" "That's fine, Harry!" delightedly returned little wifey. "Won't you please take it and see if you can match me some puffs when you get downtown?" — Philadelphia Telegraph.

A Bland Reply.

A woman interested in charity work was accustomed each day to pass by the door of a Chinese laundry, wherein there were employed two Chinese. Each time she passed the charity worker would stop for an instant and speak to the boss. "Hello, John," she would call out, to which salutation the celestial would reply, "Hello, lady."

One day she saw only one Chinaman where there had been two, and she asked, "Where is the other, John?"

"Him in hospital," said the laundryman. "Christian gentleman stuck him in the head with a brick."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

A Permanent Thing.

"You have stated," said the badgering lawyer to a witness, "that you were born in 1886; now you say you were born in 1887. That's an incriminating discrepancy, though perhaps you may be able to explain it."

"Certainly I can explain it," retorted the witness. "There's no incongruity there. I was born in 1886 and just stayed born. Why, I'm born yet."—Youth's Companion.
