KIPPED THE REVOLT.

Dramatic Manner In Which Zelaya Caged the Conspirators.

Zelaya, the extraordinary man who for sixteen years retained the presidency of Nicaragua, only to lose it because he went too far in offending the government of the United States, was never satisfied unless he performed his coups d'etat in the most dramatic fashion possible. This story the New York Sun tells of him:

His spies once brought him information that a revolution was being planned by several of his army officers. They were to meet on a certain evening at the house of one of the conspirators to arrange the final details. While they were eagerly discussing the best way to seize the president the door opened and in walked Zelaya himself.

"Good evening, gentlemen," he said pleasantly. "I heard you had a party here this evening, and I have dropped in to share the fun. Quite a distinguished gathering. You are discussing military matters, no doubt."

He went on, chatting affably for a half hour, while his enemies were torn with fear and suspense. Did he know of the plot? Most of them thought he did and wondered whether they had better not put a bullet in him at once. But he was so cordial, so thoroughly at ease, that they hesitated.

"A toast, gentlemen," he said. "Here's long life to the president of Nicaragua and confusion to all traitors!"

As he spoke he hurled the glass against the window, where it smashed in pieces with a crash. The door flew open and thirty or forty soldiers, who had been waiting outside for the signal rushed in. All the plotters were convicted, but the president dealt leniently with them. Some were imprisoned and some exiled, but none was shot.

Why One Feels "Mean."

The average adult man sustains on every pleasant day an atmospheric pressure of about fourteen tons at sea level when the barometer is at 30, and a drop of an inch or more to 29 and below practically takes off half a ton or more of his load to which he is accustomed. Paradoxically, instead of feeling lighter and freer, man feels its disturbing, depressing effect on his tissues. He has to become adjusted to this alteration from normal tension to one of unusual relaxation. The relaxed condition of unpleasant weather extending over a number of days makes us feel "out of sorts."—Health Service Bulletin.

A Marvel of Training.

Rose had called on her afternoon out to see her friend, Arabella. Arabella's mistress had just purchased a parrot, and Rose was much interested in the bird. "Birds is shore sensible," she observed. "You kin learn them anything. I uster work for a lady that had a bird in a clock, an' when it was time to tell de time ob day it uster come out an' say 'cuckoo' jest as many times as de time was." "Go along. Yo' don't say so," said Arabella incredulously. "Shore thing," replied Rose, "and de mos' wonderful part was dat it was only a wooden bird too."—Harper's Magazine.

To Whom Honor Is Due.

As a pendant to the story of the professor who upon being questioned on the witness stand declared that he was "the greatest living scientist," saying apologetically afterward that he "was on oath," comes the following anecdote from a New England college:

Dr. H. had been unfolding to his class in physics a new and startling idea, and at the end of the explanation one of his students said deferentially, "Is that your own theory, professor?"

"No," the professor replied, "but," he added reassuringly, "it's a good one."—Youth's Companion.

A Useful Mother-in-law.

"After all, a mother-in-law is a pretty good thing to have sometimes."

"What wonderful experience have you been having lately?"

"My wife was afraid to discharge our cook, and she wouldn't go for me, so we sent for Birdie's mother and turned her loose in the kitchen. They smashed some of the furniture, but the cook's gone."—Exchange.

C H Wain returned to his home at Junction City Monday after a three weeks business visit here. He has rented his farm for the ensuing year to Mr Scott who has been living here for some time. Jas Wann, who has had the farm for the past year, will move to town with his family.

Mrs Almina Pomeroy, Mrs E E Crabtree and Mrs Rebecca Morris walked from town out to Newton Crabtree's Sunday morning of last week, which they think is doing pretty well for ladies of their age. However, they were all glad for an opportunity to ride home in the evening.

The Clerk Guaranteed It

"A customer came into my store the other day and said to one of my clerks, 'have you anything that will cure diarrhoea?' and my clerk went and got him a bottle of Chamberlain's colic, cholera and diarrhoea remedy and said to him, 'if this does not cure you, I will not charge you a cent for it.' So he took it home and came back in a day or two and said he was cured," writes J H Berry & Co. Salt Creek, Va. Obtainable everywhere.
