THOMAS CREEK JOTTINGS

Mr and Mrs S B Cole spent Sunday with their daughter Mrs R C Pepperling.

Mr and Mrs John Shelton of Jordan spent Sunday at the home of Mrs Shelton's father Ed Fleming. We will remember Mrs Shelton as Miss Hazel Flemming.

Mr Frisktl enjoyed a visit of a few days with his brother and children who came over from near Waterloo.

John Calavan is having a tussel with the La Grippe this week.

Miss Lola Westenhause spent the week end with her sister Mrs C Rodgers.

Mrs James Burton went to Albany last week where she will remain for some time at the home of her son Warren Burton.

Mesdames John Bender, Jake Weidman, Mick Endres, Criss Silverneigl and daughter Miss Minnie were Sunday visitors at the Frisktl home.

John Bender met with a very painful accident Friday when he became entangled in some way in his engine while chopping feed. His shoulder was dislocated and he received several bruises about the body. Dr Prill was called and he is getting along as well as could be expected.

Frak Lindesman who has been in a very critical condition with pneumonia is reported a little better.

The infant daughter of Andrew Saulsler is very low with pneumonia.

Several from these parts attended the general telephone meeting held at Scio Sat.

Mrs Jake Weidman spent Monday at the home of aunt Nancy Bilyeu.

Conard Westenhause and Wilbur Flemming spent Sunday with Wilbur's brother Tom of Kingston.

Quite a crowd gathered at the home of Jess Rodgers Sunday eve where the time was well spent in music and songs.

There were church services at the school house Sunday. A good sized crowd was present.

The 13 year old daughter of Mr Trisktl is very low with pneumonia. There is very little hope for her recovery. Every thing that medical skill can do is being done.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy Most Effectual.

"I have taken a great many bottles of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and every time it has cured me. I have found it most effectual for a hacking cough and for colds. After taking it a cough always disappears," writes J. R. Moore, Lost Valley, Ga. Obtainable everywhere.

Card of Thanks

Paper is now so high that people are beginning to understand why the ancients inscribed their messages on clay or stone tablets.

Those new dimes are lovely, but it is a pity they did not come along in the good old days, when a dime would buy ten cents worth of anything.

In permitting a shipload of Turkish tobacco to come to this country, the entente allies have shown that they admit the neutrality of the Turkish cigarette.

Too old to be funny, a stage comedian killed himself at Chicago. Such a tragedy is no joking matter, but there is a whimsical thought suggested that even a comedian cannot afford to lose his sense of humor.

John D. Rockefeller is credited with having gained $5,000,000 in a single day. With that chap's luck and his appetite we feel we'd take an extra glass of milk by way of celebrating.

The Duetchlund, it is said did not travel along the floor of the ocean on its latest trip, but was visible most of the time, so would it be all right to speak of it as having sailed on the roof of the ocean.

Bad Habits.

Those who breakfast at eight o'clock or later, lunch at twelve and have dinner at six are almost certain to be troubled with indigestion. They do not allow time for one meal to digest before taking another. Not less than five hours should elapse between meals. If you are troubled with indigestion correct your habits and take Chamberlain's Tablets, and you may reasonably hope for a quick recovery. These tablets strengthen the stomach and enable it to perform its functions naturally. Obtainable everywhere.

ANCIENT MARINE DRAMA.

One of the Most Fateful Battles in the World's History.

Keratsini is a Greek village that overlooks waters upon which was fought one of the most momentous battles in the world's history, one which helped to preserve Greek civilization from Persian spoliation. The National Geographic society issues the following bulletin on Keratsini and its historic environs:

"It is less than an hour's walk in a northwesterly direction from the railroad station of Piræus, the second city of modern Greece, to Keratsini. This suburb of the chief seaport in the kingdom is situated at the head of a small inlet in the mainland shore, directly opposite the bay of Ambelaki, which indents the nearby island of Salamis.

"Overhanging Keratsini to the northwest is a hill upon which a powder magazine has been constructed, but which bears the exalted and significant name, 'Throne of Xerxes.' Legend says it was from this eminence that the Persian despot, seated in his silver footed chair, watched the destruction of more than 200 (the Greeks claimed 1,000) of his ships of war by the 'wooden wall' triremes commanded by Themistocles. Some historians identify the rocky promontory of Keratopyrgos, a mile to the west, as the more probable vantage point of observation from which Xerxes saw his hopes of punishing the 'impudent Athenians' vanish.

"The great marine drama which was enacted in these waters fronting Keratsini, probably on Sept. 22, 480 B. C., has been described by one of the foremost geniuses of ancient Greece, the poet playwright Aeschylus, who was himself a participant in the battle. It was eight years later that the dramatist's 'Persæ' (the Persians), in which the victory is so magnificently recounted, was enacted in the theater of Dionysius at Athens. This is one of the seven plays out of the ninety written by Aeschylus which have been preserved.

"Standing on the beach at Keratsini and looking toward the south, the visitor sees the rocky islet of Pyttaleia (Lipsokoutali), barely two miles away. At this strategic point Xerxes stationed 600 picked men, many of whom were of noble and princely blood. They were supposed to lie in wait for the Greeks as they should flee before the Persian fleet. As events developed, however, the Persians were so decisively beaten that in their flight they had no time to think of withdrawing this select body of men. They were left to their fate, a tragic one, for Aristides, he whom the Athenians delighted to call the Just, organized a band of citizens, landed on the island and put to the sword 'The bloom of all the Persian youth, in spirit the bravest and in birth the noblest princes.'

Bodies Turned to Stone.

Human bodies buried in limestone countries are often turned to solid stone by the limewater which penetrates the graves. In other soils there are elements which sometimes so embalm the buried dead as to preserve form and features unchanged. Many such cases are on record. Robert Burns' body was disinterred in 1815 to be removed to a new tomb. To the surprise of all his friends the features were found to be as perfect as at burial. When the body of John Hampden, the famous English patriot and leader, was disinterred by Lord Nugent 200 years after burial the form and features were as unchanged as if the corpse had been recently laid in the grave.

The Habit of Taking Cold.

With many people taking cold is a habit, but fortunately one that is easily broken. Take a cold sponge bath every morning when you first get out of bed—not ice cold, but a temperature of about 90 degrees F. Also sleep with your window up. Do this and you will seldom take cold. When you do take cold take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and get rid of it as quickly as possible. Obtainable everywhere.
