Telling the Bumps.

The antiquity of palmistry is in striking contrast to the modernity of "telling the bumps," with which it is often associated in popular estimation. Wrongly associated, since the phrenologist merely reads character without attempting any predictions of the future. Phrenology was invented by Gall, the German physician, who as a boy had studied the heads of his schoolfellows. Gall gave his first lecture in 1796, but six years later his teaching was prohibited by the Austrian government. Phrenological societies were soon formed in London, and the science, after being "refuted" by Lord Jeffrey and others, gradually made headway.—London Chronicle.

Courtship in Holland.

The etiquette of Holland is exceedingly strict in all classes. The young girl is most carefully chaperoned, and she never goes anywhere, even to church, unless accompanied by her parents, some male relative or other equally trusted attendant. At a dance the parents sit round the walls sipping their coffee or wine, and the young men must make the best of their chances in the opportunities afforded by the dance, for when it pleases the guardians to depart there is no help for it, but the girls must go too.

Habit of Saving.

It takes a strong character to form the habit of saving money from a small income, yet it can be done. No man ever regrets having formed the habit of saving, though many regret that they never did form the habit. "If I only had!" is the sad wail that is heard from many lips, while the words, "I am glad that I did," are rarely heard in this day of extravagance, outside show and exaltation of the things that are fashion for the hour and soon pass away.

Airplane Plant Seeds.

The condurango plant in Peru produces a seed pod from five to eight inches long, filled with seeds which are small aeroplanes in construction. The seed proper is an oval one, about the size of a small split pea. The planes extend from the seed like the wings of a butterfly or aeroplane. When the pod bursts hundreds of these seeds will sail off on a gentle breeze anywhere from 100 yards to half a mile.

The Best Recommendation.

The strongest recommendation any article may receive is a favorable word from the user. It is the recommendations of those who have used it that makes Chamberlain's Cough Remedy so popular. Mrs Amanda Gierhart, Waynesfield, Ohio, writes, "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has been used in my family off and on for twenty years and it has never failed to cure a cough or cold." Obtainable everywhere.
