I have been reading the finest serial story I have read in the past 60 years. It is a quaint, woodsy, trampish, fairy like romance. It is a blending of city and country life. The main characters are an Irish girl and a tramp. It will undoubtedly be published in book form and placed in libraries. Get it and read it. You will read it more than once. The name is "Seven Miles to Arden."

Now that the Russian people have bounced the Romanoffs, let the Germans oust the Hohenzollerns and the English kick out the Guelphs, then the people will come into their own.

The Newspaper

"Born of the deep daily need of a nation—I am the voice of now. The incarnate spirit of the times—monarch of things that are."

"My 'cold type' burns with the fire blood of human action. I am fed by arteries of wire that girdle the world. I drink from the cup of every living joy and sorrow. I sleep not—rest not. I know not night, nor day, nor season. I know no death, yet am born again with every morn—with every noon—with every twilight. I leap into fresh being with every new world's event. Those who created me cease to be. Yet I live on and on. My responsibility is infinite. I speak and the world stops to listen. I say the word and battle flames the horizon. I counsel peace and the war lords obey."

"I am the hands of the clock of time—the clarion voice of civilization. I am the newspaper."—Joseph H. Finn before the ad men's convention in Chicago.
