A Problem

Editor Santiam News:--

Now that we have farm loans under the rural credits law I find quite an interesting problem which I am asking for a solution through the columns of the News.

I have given this problem to some of our teachers and ex-teachers but have not been able to get what I think is a correct solution. Perhaps some of the H S students may become interested. As well farmer should be able to figure for themselves. Farm loans under the Rural Credits bill will be computed in this way, different from simple interest payments. I don't claim to be able to give the correct solution now though in my school days I could. Anyway I will wait to hear from some one who can: "Give rule for computing the equal annual payment to discharge a debt, the term and rate given. Example: A buys a farm for $4500 agreeing to pay for same in four (4) equal annual payments, money being worth 6 per cent. What was the amount of payment to be made?"
