

LOCAL BREVITIES

Mrs. Sarah Morris went to Springfield Saturday.

Dr. Dale of Harrisburg, visited Scio professionally, Tuesday.

Clarence Rex, a former resident of Scio, was in town last week.

Miss Annie Johnson, of the public school, spent last Sunday in Albany.

Mrs. J. B. Cowey returned from a two-days visit to Albany Saturday morning.

L. H. Rice, of Portland, visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Rice over Sunday.

Born on January 22 to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lulay, of near Stayton, a daughter. All are doing well.

Fred Ohlemeier was repairing the condenser boiler today. The boiler was defective from the time it was installed.

F. M. Denny, of near Jefferson, was in town Tuesday. He informed The Tribune that he had sold his hop crop at 12 cents per pound.

You can't buy your chicken and other accessories and have Sunday dinner at home for 35 cents. Get Sunday dinner at the Scio Hotel.

Mrs. Aida Hutchison, of Portland is visiting relatives in this city and vicinity. Mrs. Hutchison was formerly Miss Aida Powell.

C. W. Logan and wife, of Logan Montana, are guests at the Scio hotel this week. Mr. Logan was one of Scio's pioneer residents.

F. Morton, proprietor of Hotel Morton and the Combination livery barn at Lebanon, was looking after business matters in Scio Tuesday.

Mrs. Lillie Davis, who has been living with Mrs. John Richardson since last summer, went to Roseburg Wednesday, for a few weeks visit with her son.

T. J. Pettit, who was in town Saturday, reports everything moving along nicely in the up Thomas creek neighborhood and that no damage was yet evident as the result of the late freeze.

When Mr. and Mrs. Barnes moved into the Smith & Smith building and wanted to go to dinner, they had to fall out of the building. The front entrance has since been fixed so that customers can get out and in with ease.

P. H. MacDonald, Carl Cyrus and Fred Bilyeu went over to Albany Saturday afternoon, returning on the following day in the new Studebaker auto for which Messrs MacDonald & Cyrus will be agents for the Scio country.

Bill Brenner was leading a hound dawg around yesterday. He said Mike Bilyeu gave him the hound to replace his mule "Trixie," but he was doubtful about making the mule and the hound work in team satisfactory. He thought, however, that the hound would be more valuable when chasing coyotes than the mule.

D. I. Wareham, of the Crown mines, arrived in town Tuesday. Since leaving here about the holidays, Mr. Wareham has taken to himself a "better half" in the person of Miss Elva McElhaney, of the Waldo Hills and says he is now better prepared than ever to boost the interests of the Crown mine people.

M. Kelly, of near Jefferson and one of the largest and most prosperous grain farmers of the Forks of the Santiam, was transacting business in Scio last Friday. Mr. Kelly has his grain crops raised during the past two years stored in his barns, ready to be disposed of this spring. He will realize double for his 1913 crop and a more than 50 per cent increase for his 1914 product, by holding.

Mike Bilyeu, a prosperous farmer of Bilyeu Den, was in town yesterday.

Thomas Rice, bookkeeper for a large Portland lumber company, was in town today.

G. P. Stiers, of the Crabtree country, was in town yesterday having some dental work done.

M. Sternburg & Co. is now installed in their new store just across the street from The Tribune office.

John Shelton was in town yesterday and reports his family all through with the scarlet fever and without any bad effects.

T. J. Pettit and Ed Flemming were in town Tuesday in the interest of a proposed change of road. If they succeed in their undertaking the road to Jordan will be shortened one-half mile and be placed on higher ground, not subject to overflow.

For Sale—A "Sure Hatch" incubator; also a "Trusty" incubator. Both machines are of 150-egg capacity and in first-class condition. I have, also, brooders to go with the machines. Price for incubator, brooder, lamps, etc., $10. See Wm. Brenner for particulars.

together for the betterment of all our roads. We told them that we would concede to them the right to manage their own affairs on their side of the creek and asked them to give us the same privilege. They seemed afraid that we were after their mail route. We said that we would pledge ourselves not to bother their mail route. They asked for one week to talk it over. We gave it to them and so far as we could see, they employed their time in formulating plans for another fight.

Next, we proposed to give them a list of all the business men in Scio, from which list they might choose five—all their own choice and we would meet before that committee, each side pledging the business men that their decision would not effect our business relations with them and then state our cases. This offer was made personally to Oscar Eichenger and John Shimaneck. They refused. We, also, offered the same parties this: That they choose a man, we would choose one and these two to choose a third and both sides to abide by their decision. They refused and so the fight is on again.

In view of the fact that we have pledged ourselves to open and grade this road, free of cost, and that the parties fighting it are not effected by the change, we believe that we have the moral backing of nine-tenths of this road district. And further. There must be something radically wrong with men who are afraid to trust a jury of their own selection.

THE COUNTY FAIR

By Peter Radford
Lecturer National Farmers' Union

The farmer gets more out of the fair than anyone else. The fair to a city man is an entertainment; to a farmer it is education. Let us take a stroll through the fair grounds and linger a moment at a few of the points of greatest interest. We will first visit the mechanical department and hold communion with the world's greatest thinkers.

You are now attending a congress of the mental giants in mechanical science of all ages. They are addressing you in tongues of iron and steel and in language mute and powerful tell an eloquent story of the world's progress. The inventive geniuses are the most valuable farm hands we have and they perform an enduring service to mankind. We can all help others for a brief period while we live, but it takes a master mind to tower into the realm of science and light a torch of progress that will illuminate the pathway of civilization for future generations. The men who gave us the sickle, the binder, the cotton gin and hundreds of other valuable inventions work in every field on earth and will continue their labors as long as time. Their bright intellects have conquered death and they will live and serve mankind on and on forever, without money and without price. They have shown us how grand and noble it is to work for others; they have also taught us lessons in economy and efficiency. How to make one hour do the work of two or more; have lengthened our lives, multiplied our opportunities and taken toll off the back of humanity.

They are the most practical men the world ever produced. Their inventions have stood the acid test of utility and efficiency. Like all useful men, they do not seek publicity, yet millions of machines sing their praises from every harvest field on earth and as many plows turn the soil in mute applause of their marvelous achievements.

FARMER RADFORD ON WOMAN SUFFRAGE

The home is the greatest contribution of women to the world, and the hearthstone is her throne. Our social structure is built around her, and social righteousness is in her charge. Her beautiful life lights the skies of hope and her refinement is the charm of twentieth century civilization. Her graces and her power are the cumulative products of generations of queenly conquest, and her crown of exalted womanhood is jeweled with the wisdom of saintly mothers. She has been a great factor in the glory of our country, and her noble achievements should not be marred or her hallowed influence blighted by the coarser duties of citizenship. American chivalry should never permit her to bear the burdens of defending and maintaining government, but should preserve her unscathed from the allied influences of politics, and protect her from the weighty responsibilities of the sordid affairs of life that will crush her ideals and lower her standards. The motherhood of the farm is our inspiration, she is the guardian of our domestic welfare and a guide to a higher life, but directing the affairs of government is not within woman's sphere, and political gossip would cause her to neglect the home, forget to mend our clothes and burn the biscuits.

RURAL SOCIAL CENTERS

We need social centers where our young people can be entertained, amused and instructed under the direction of cultured, clean and competent leadership, where aesthetic surroundings stir the love for the beautiful, where art charges the atmosphere with inspiration and power, and innocent amusements instruct and brighten their lives.

To hold our young people on the farm we must make farm life more attractive as well as the business of farming more remunerative. The school house should be the social unit, properly equipped for nourishing and building character, so that the lives of our people can properly function around it and become supplied with the necessary elements of human thought and activity.

Education is a developing of the mind, not a stuffing of the memory. Digest what you read.

Old men have visions, young men have dreams. Successful farmers plow deep while sluggards sleep.

The growing of legumes will retard soil depletion and greatly add to its power to produce.

John Merritt, Agnes Prochaska and Clyde Wann of the 8th grade of the Scio public school, were successful in the late examination, entitling them to diplomas.

Phone the management how many and what hour you will arrive for Sunday dinners at the Scio Hotel.
