

LOCAL BREVITIES

The annual telephone meeting brought a large number of farmers into town Monday.

The Sacramento valley is being flooded with rain with damage to business houses, schools, etc.

We have clubbing rates with all newspapers and magazines. Come and see us before you order.

Norman Long, marshal elect, was sworn into office Saturday, appeared on the streets wearing a star, about noon.

Mrs. Alf Shelton is reported to be dangerously sick at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John Bilyeu, of Crabtree.

J. T. Funk was the first one of our subscribers to come into the office and renew after the first of the year.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Arnold, of Albany and Mrs. Hibler, of Seattle arrived at the home of M. C. Gill, New Year day.

We make a specialty of Friendship. Engagement and Wedding Rings. F. M. French & Son, Albany, Oregon.

Henry Shelton has purchased the Sims pair of mules and he will use them on his freight wagon to and from West Scio.

County School Superintendent J. L. and Mrs. Calavan, of Oregon City, were guests of Dr. and Mrs. Prill last week.

T. M. Holt and nephew, Cletus Holt of Thomas, went to Corvallis Monday to attend the farmers short course at O. A. C.

Geo. Phillips, the Woodburn barber and two sons, came up last Saturday evening and were guests of his brother, Roe, over Sunday.

If you want any of the daily papers, The Tribune will get them for you at Bargain Day rates, providing you pay for The Tribune one year in advance.

Mrs. Hazelton, wife of the head miller of the Scio Roller Mills and who has been visiting relatives in California, joined her husband in this city Saturday.

Miss Nellie Gunsauls and son, Lyle of Lebanon, who have been visiting at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Bilyeu, returned to her home Sunday evening.

The Oregon & Western Colonization Co., owners of the W. V. & C. M. wagon road lands, paid its Linn county back taxes to Sheriff Bodine, this week. The amount was $15,935.39.

Louis Bowerman and family, of Portland, who have been spending holiday week with G. L. Sutherland returned to their home Saturday. The Tribune acknowledges a pleasant call from Mr. Bowerman.

Mike Bilyeu reports that about the same amount of snow fell in Bilyeu Den as in Scio. All told we had, before it settled, about five inches in Scio during the last night of the old year and the first day and night of the new year.

Associate Justice Lamar, of the United States Supreme court, died in Washington, D. C., last Sunday evening. He was appointed to the Supreme bench by President Taft in 1910, being one of the very few democrats appointed to a high office by a republican president.

Every conceivable contraption in the way of a sled was utilized last Saturday and Sunday. It has been many years since Scio had anything like sleighing weather. In fact the proverbial water wagon which is usually in evidence January 1, this year is believed to be a sled.

TELEPHONE CO. HELD ANNUAL MEETING

Every Telephone Line Centering in Scio Was Well Represented Last Monday

Promptly at 11 a. m. the Scio Mutual Telephone Company, which had assembled at the city hall, was called to order by President Couey. About all the business transacted was to reelect Mr. Couey as president, C. C. Wade as secretary and the adoption of a resolution empowering the secretary to discontinue telephone service to a line which continues to remain delinquent in dues.

The directors, one representing each line on the exchange met at 1 p. m., to select a central operator for the ensuing year. The Weddies were reemployed for another year.

Store to Soon Be Ready

T. M. Holt, of Thomas, while in The Tribune office Monday, stated the Farmers Union store at Crabtree would soon be ready for business. A corporation has been formed to finance the business. Mr. Snider, while not yet chosen as manager, is probably the one who will be selected.

Mr. Holt stated that it was the purpose of the company to buy carefully and cautiously, do a positively cash business, but to place the profit on the goods, that interest to the stockholders in the way of dividends would be paid and that while goods would be sold to anyone who desired to purchase, members of the F. U. would be favored.

About two inches of snow fell last Sunday afternoon.

J. F. Wesely made a business trip to Albany yesterday.

A few full-blood Barred Rock roosters for sale at $1.50 each. See E. G. Arnold.

Marshal John Catlin, of Albany, is making a general clean up of liquor stocks in Albany.

P. H. MacDonald and Chas. Wesely returned from attending the obsequies of John Barleycorn in Portland Monday evening.

Frank Collins, who was in business in Albany several years ago, before the county went dry, died in Portland, this week, of pneumonia.

Riley Boyd, formerly of Scio but now at Dilley, arrived in town yesterday morning and will look after business matters here for a week or more.

If you have anything to sell or want to buy anything, lease a farm or other property, try a want ad in The Tribune; it will get results and save you both time and money.

Mayor A. G. Prill's Inaugural Message

Gentlemen, the citizens have enacted a new charter, with the purpose in view of progress, improvement and the upbuilding of the community.

Property owned and controlled by the city requires repairs, improvement extensions, the same as your personal property. In order to secure the best results, and it seems to me a false economy, to allow such property to deteriorate, with a consequent loss of revenue as a result. The affairs of the city should be conducted in an economical manner, consistent with the future welfare of public utilities, and I ask that you give the same careful attention to public matters and affairs as you do to your private interests.

Many improvements which seem expensive for the present, prove to be true economy in the future.

While economy measures which last for a few months only, prove very expensive in after time.

Therefore, I say build well what you do, and leave undone that which you cannot accomplish with permanent results.

Assuring you of my hearty co-operation and support, and asking the same of you, in all that is right and just for a cleaner and greater Scio, and believing that the will of the majority should prevail, I bid you enter your labor with confidence in the citizens of Scio, who have elected you, and in the future prosperity of the Municipality over which you govern.

A. G. PRILL
Mayor.

MAGIC OF IRRIGATION.

Story of the Rice Fields of Southern Louisiana.

In 1883 lowlands in southern Louisiana near the bayous suitable for growing sugar cane, corn and cotton could be purchased for $3.50 an acre, and the prairie lands back from the bayous could be bought for $1 an acre. With almost the first crop under irrigation, however, the values showed a marked rise and have continued to increase. In the first five years the value of the best rice lands rose to $10 an acre, and soon after that it rose to $30 and even $50 an acre.

The first people to plant rice in southern Louisiana, according to the United States geological survey, were the Acadians, who, after their expulsion from Nova Scotia by the English in 1755, settled in considerable numbers in Louisiana. Their cultivation of rice, almost primitive in its methods, was confined to the lowlands along the bayous, the prairies affording pasture for the Acadians' herds of cattle. Few of the lowland areas admitted of satisfactory drainage, and they were too small for profitable cultivation. The crops frequently failed in years of deficient rainfall. Attempts were made to create additional water supplies by building levees across low bays or coulees at points higher than the cultivated areas, but generally either the rainfall proved deficient or the reservoirs were too small.

Little advance was made over the Acadian methods until recent years. Experiments in unusually wet years had shown that the soils of the prairies were adapted to the growth of rice if sufficient water was at hand. This led to the trial of pumps as a means of raising water from the bayous to the rice fields. So successful was the test that pumps were at once installed at many points, and in a few years tens of thousands of acres of previously almost useless land, lying ten to seventy feet above the bayous, were put under cultivation. The first large pump was installed in 1894 on the Bayou Plaque mine, in Acadia parish, near Crowley.

Human Mystery.

Almost every man believes in the mystery of woman. I do not. For men are also mysterious to women; women are quite as puzzled by our stupidity as by our subtlety. I do not believe that there is either a male or a female mystery; there is only the mystery of mankind.—W. L. George in Atlantic Monthly.
