

LOCAL BREVITIES

J. F. Wosely transacted business in Portland last week.

Thirty-five ewes for sale. Enquire of C. U. Sandoz, Scio, Ore.

Clarence Ingram and two brothers of Lebanon, were in town Tuesday.

Wm. Manis, of near Stayton, was doing business in Scio Saturday.

Rev. H. B. Iler moved his household goods into town Tuesday, from the depot at West Scio.

Albany has been designated as the place for holding the next state trap shoot, which occurs on May 15 and 16.

Merchant Balsinger, of Jordan, was in town Tuesday. He stated that business was very good at his place.

We make a specialty of Friendship, Engagement and Wedding Rings. F. M. French & Son, Albany, Oregon.

Henry Stepanek is a pretty good chicken trader, but little Velma Edwards got the better of him on his last trade.

Clarence Tebault, city editor of the Albany Herald, was married to Miss Ruth Eddy, of Roseburg, last Tuesday evening.

Frank McDonald moved up to his Mehama ranch, the first of the week. This will relieve the parsonage so that Rev. Iler can move in.

Losing Craft was down from the upper Crabtree country Saturday. He stated that much of the stock in his neighborhood was getting very poor and some of his neighbors were about out of feed.

Remember Governor Withycombe day in Scio. It is Saturday, February 19. Come and bring a well filled basket, prepared to stay all day. A program and music will be one of the features.

The little town of Coburg, just in the edge of northern Lane county, had an $18,000 fire early Sunday morning. Owing to a low pressure of the water system, but little could be done towards subduing the flames.

Wm. M. Powers, a pioneer of 1847, died at his home in Albany on Monday morning. Mr. Powers was a farmer of near Shedd for a great many years, when he retired and moved to Albany. His age was 88 years.

Mr. White, whose son is an inmate of the city hospital with a crushed leg, reports his son to be getting along as well as could be expected, though several days will yet be required to ascertain if the bones will knit as required.

Rev. Joe Waldrop, who occupied the pulpit the Christian church both morning and evening last Sunday, had good audiences at both services. On Monday evening he delivered a lecture in the same church on "Healing without Drugs."

Abe Powell, though past the ordinary span of life, says he never felt better in his life. Not an ache or pain disturbs his dreams. Abe, you better look out or some widow will catch you for, remember, this is leap year and you are in danger.

The murder of Mrs. Hinkle, an aged Salem woman last week, was most diabolical. No clue pointing to the fiend who committed the crime has yet been found. The officers think someone well acquainted with the family is the guilty one.

Dr. Hobson was circulating a petition the first of the week, asking the city council to restore the all-night light service. The all-night service is very nice and convenient. But where is the money to come from to pay the additional expense without raising the rates?

Rev. Joe Waldrop proposes to establish a drugless cure concern in town.

The Rebecca lodge of this city, will give a Leapyear dance at the I. O. O. F. hall Friday night.

Henry Bilyeu returned from a two-weeks visit to his ranch in Eastern Washington at the close of last week.

Frank T. Tahyer's 12 year old daughter is reported to be dangerously sick. The aid of a professional nurse from Salem was called in Wednesday.

Mrs. Ollie MacDonald entertained a number of her lady friends Wednesday afternoon. Five "500" tables were kept busy and an elegant lunch was served.

The proposed K. of P. band entertainment and basket social has been postponed until further notice, though the project has not been given up.

Owing to the floods, the Oregon Electric was unable to run trains to Corvallis on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week. The Willamette reached the 28-foot stage Wednesday morning.

Ex-Marshall J. N. Weddle, who had been confined to one position in his bed since city election day, is now able to sit up in his room. We will be glad to see you on the streets again, Newt.

Mrs. Rebecca Morris, when going into the woodshed one day last week, was so unfortunate as to have the wood tumble down upon her. One of the sticks struck her about the head and which rendered her insensible for awhile but, it is hoped, no serious injury resulted.

Drugless Healer

Consult Dr. Joe Waldrop at the Scio Hotel and be cured without the use of drugs. My office at the hotel is temporary and I expect to be located more conveniently in a short time.

Dr. Joe Waldrop.
