ROOSEVELT HIGHWAY

One of the measures to be submitted to the voters of Oregon June 3 is a highway paralleling the coast from Astoria to the California line. Oregon taxpayers are being asked to authorize the state government to issue $2,500,000 in bonds, providing the federal government will provide a like sum, the state not to issue bonds until congress appropriates the general government's share.

There are several reasons why this road should be constructed. There is not a particle of coast defense between San Francisco and the Columbia river. In case of war with, say Japan, the several small harbors between the above mentioned points would furnish easy landing for the enemy. With a good coast line roadway artillery and troops could be rushed to any point threatened. Also this road would be of great advantage to the life-saving service, and to coast guards to prevent smuggling.

But by far the most important reason is it will develop the entire coast country and make the other coast counties as progressive and prosperous as Tillamook county. There is no reason why Lincoln county cannot be made the equal of Tillamook in dairying.

The building of the Roosevelt highway will open up sections for homes and productivity which are now scarcely less than wilderness. It will add largely to the tax rolls of county and state, which increase will reimburse the state in full for the cost in ten to fifteen years.

The Tribune thinks there is a far greater reason for building along the coast road than there was for building the Pacific highway through the Willamette Valley or the highway along the Columbia river.

The people should vote these bonds. Let it be remembered that this road will cost our state but fifty cents of the dollar expended.

HOGS AND EDITORS.

The Portland market quoted hogs at $20.25 per hundred Monday. If Oregon editors should be measured by the same standard the editor of The Tribune would be worth about $35. Tip Humphrey of the Jefferson Review would be valued at about the same figure, managing editor Piper of the Oregonian would be worth about $40, Jackson of the Albany Democrat $30, and his partner Cronise—well he might be worth $20, but Reagan of the Herald would be worth $0.15. We might enlarge on these estimates, but modesty forbids.

One of the big problems of the war that had to be financed by the sale of war bonds was the laying of mines of a special type to close the northern exit for the German submarines. This line extended from the Orkney Islands to the coast of Norway, a distance of 250 miles, and with a depth of the water 900 feet. Manufacture of these mines in a short time was a big undertaking. There were 70,100 planted in the "North Sea Cabbage Patch," of which 56,570 were of American manufacture. Many Hun submarines were lost trying to get through this barrage. As the average damage estimated for a submarine that made a successful trip was $50,000, 000 and the total cost of the mine operation was $48,000,000, it is mathematically demonstrated that this effort was a paying proposition. The story of bottling the Hun submarines is eloquent of the help rendered by buyers of United States bonds that made possible such a program.

Some people seem to think a newspaper office is a sort of general intelligence office. It isn't. The newspaper man gathers his information from whence he can; but he does not know who have farms to rent, wood to chop, or girls for hire unless they make their wants known in the news columns.

The league of nations and peace terms seem about ready. Germany has been invited to go to Versailles April 25 to sign up. Of course Germany will sign. Her delegates may make a great noise, but they will sign just the same; they can't do anything else.

"Oregon First."

The world war through which we have so recently passed is the greatest event in the world's history. The part Oregon has played will be remembered long after we and our children are dead.

Oregon's military record stands head and shoulders above that of any other state. Oregon was first in the enlistment and had a larger percentage of its population under arms than any other state. The records of the old Third Oregon, the coast artillery, and the 91st division are records which will never die. There is no instance of record where Oregon troops faltered under fire, and the record of our boys in service is 100% perfect.

The record of Oregon's citizenry in patriotic duty has been perfect. We were foremost in drives of every kind, twice leading the nation in liberty loan campaigns. It is a distinct privilege for those of us who stayed at home to be permitted to complete the wonderful record of our boys by making a 100% record in our duties of citizenship. Yet it is a tremendous responsibility, as the people of the state would never live down the disgrace of tainting our military record by failure to lead all other states in this last great patriotic endeavor.

Another Mare's Nest.

Senators who are fulminating against the league of nations covenant on the ground that it would be controlled by the British empire to the point where the United States would have a small voice in its affairs, have evidently not studied the covenant thoroughly. The council is to be composed of "representatives of the United States, the British empire, France, Italy and Japan, together with representatives of four other states" to be selected by the body of delegates.

The British empire includes the dominions and would have only one member on the council like the United States, whether he came from the mother country or one of the dominions. The four members elected by the body of delegates would represent the smaller nations, Russia, Germany and countries carved out of the former central powers. The British dominions would have an equal vote in the body of delegates with all other countries and would add strength to the British empire as a whole. But the United States controls the foreign relations of Cuba, Panama, Haiti, Santo Domingo, thus matching the four British dominions, and if the Philippines should be granted independence they, too, would have a vote and probably this country would control their foreign relations.

The senators have found another mare's nest when they talk of a league of nations packed by Britain against the United States. This country can swing at least as many votes as Britain. If any nation has cause to complain it is France, Italy or Japan, for neither has self-governing colonies or dependent republics to swell its voting power.—Oregonian.

The Alumni Association and its Purpose

There is an expressed desire for an alumni association in Scio and some inquiries have been made as to the purpose of the organization.

Our school is standardized under the state law and should observe all the customary functions of graduation. The purpose of the association is to promote an interest in the school, to link the former graduates with the present and keep alive school interest.

There are at least one hundred people in Scio and vicinity eligible to such an organization. It should include the present graduating class, faculty of the school, all former high school graduates, former teachers, members of the school board, and president and vice-president of the parent-teacher association. If this organization is made it will necessitate a fee from each member of about fifty cents, possibly less.

Scio has been graduating pupils from its school for ten or fifteen years. If you are eligible come out and boost for your school. The customary entertainment consists of music, reading, speaking, banquet, toasts and class reminiscences.

All those interested please meet at the high school assembly room on Wednesday evening, April 30, for the purpose of organization. The organization should have been brot about before but was neglected.

Owing to the fact that The Tribune gives so much space to vindication of the Henningsens this week, our editorial columns are short of our usual comment.

This should be rather an exciting week over in France. The treaty is about ready for Germany to sign; the Boches are sure to make considerable noise before they sign, but they will sign just the same.

The Albany Democrat's Lyons correspondent states that Jordan has a cheese factory of a daily capacity of 20,000 pounds. This is a whole lot of cheese. This writer thinks the estimate is about 18,000 pounds too high.

Game Warden Hawker was over from Albany yesterday looking after law violators.

Scio people are subscribing to the Victory Loan at the Scio bank in a very satisfactory manner. Scio will raise her quota without any general canvass.

Dr. Hobson's call to Stayton Monday was rather expensive. His profits could not have amounted to one-fourth of the cost. He lost an auto tire and rim worth about $70.

Mrs. Henry Bauman entertained her Sunday school class of little tots Saturday afternoon. The twenty-four present report an enjoyable time.

Mrs. Clara Griffin from Sunter, Harney county, Oregon, arrived in Scio Sunday for a visit with her sister, Mrs. E. C. Shelton, and other relatives and friends.

Judge W. G. Thomas of Wrangell, Alaska, arrived in Scio last week for a visit with relatives and friends. He went to Eugene Friday to visit his brother Newton.

The Victory Loan committee for this district requests subscribers to call at the Scio State bank and subscribe to the loan without waiting to be called on by the committee; so please attend to this immediately.

M. E. Roth of Goltra station was over Monday after a supply of flour for home use. He said the excessive rains were delaying seeding in his neighborhood though no one was getting particularly anxious as yet.

Frank Mosier returned from the army Friday. He was wounded with a bullet through the left hip November 1. On January 1 he was started home from France and was not discharged until last week. He has the bullet which caused his four months' hospital record and the limp which he has not yet discarded.

Manager Laber of the S. L. & L. Co. says he made a verbal contract with F. T. Thayer for ground for a terminal for his flume and that there were witnesses present. Everybody interested in the progress of Scio regrets that there is a block to this meritorious enterprise. Manager Laber says that 12 to 15 men will be employed in Scio constantly and his entire payroll will include more than 50 employees.

Fred A. Randall of Scio, was a visitor on April 15 at the big exhibit of Southern California products maintained free to the public in the Los Angeles chamber of commerce. He also attended the lectures and moving pictures that are part of the daily program. The exhibit is the largest of any in the country maintained by a commercial organization. Before returning home Mr. Randall expects to visit several of many other places of interest in the southland.

Notice of Final Settlement.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned, as administrator of the estate of Daniel Neal, deceased, has filed in the county court of Linn County, Oregon, his final account as such administrator and that said court has fixed Monday, the 26th day of May, 1919, at the hour of 10 o'clock in the forenoon of that day as the time for the hearing of objections to said final account and the settlement thereof.

Any and all persons having objections to said final account are hereby notified to be present at said time in the county court room, in the court house, in the city of Albany, Linn County, Oregon, and then and there make such objections.

HENRY NEAL, Administrator of said Estate, Hill & Marks, Attorneys for Administrator.
