Landford Smith thinks there is not enough in the Scio hotel to require the services of the entire Smith family so he is considering leaving the women to run the hotel and he will go elsewhere to work as a chef.

We are informed that the sale of the Lindley place to the Scio L. & L. Co. has been concluded, the abstract of title being found good. Work on the flume is to be recommenced at once or as soon as a force of men can be secured.

Scio country is developing in the dairy line, not less than 100,000 pounds of milk being extracted from the cows daily. Cream is being shipped daily to Portland creameries; the condensery and cheese factory at Jordan use the balance. The number of cows is not increasing materially but the quality is. Dairymen are learning that a good cow means money and a poor one expense.

We know the grass growing on the sides of the streets and country lanes is tempting to those who have no pasture or too much stock for the pasturage you have, but you know that it is forbidden by law to turn stock at large; to do so is sure to cause unpleasantness between neighbors. If your stock trespasses upon your neighbor he will be apt to take up the same and cause you expense. If you must pasture the streets and lanes, herd the stock.

The Linn County Fair will get $1605.08 from the distribution of the 1-20 of a mill levy on the assessed value of the property of Linn county, plus an equal distribution of the excess of $15,090 that might fall to any one county under this apportionment. Now if the county court will come through with the same amount as appropriated by the court for last year, the fair board can get busy in preparing for the 1919 fair.
