Clyde Rodgers took a truck load of lambs to Portland Sunday evening.

John Sticha is helping out in the Wesely store during the absence of the proprietor.

A number of Scio people attended the Turner convention Friday evening.

Mrs. Sarah Morris and Mrs. P. H. MacDonald drove to Stayton Wednesday.

It is reported that Henry Kinzer of Crabtree had a heavy paralytic stroke last week.

Mrs. S. L. Brown and children of Newberg are visiting at the home of her brother, E. D. Myers.

Riley Boyd, formerly with the condensery, was on our streets Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Ewing and son Moyer left Monday for a camping trip to Cascadia.

Miss Grace Gill left Tuesday evening for Lebanon to visit her brother and attend chautauqua.

Mrs. Jennie Warner has gone on a prospective two months' visit to The Dalles and Moro.

Mrs. A. J. Bilyeu and daughter, Miss Nita, were visiting Mrs. John L. Kelly on Wednesday.

Mrs. Rebecca Morris left for Albany Wednesday evening whence she will go to Wendling to spend most of the summer with her son.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Myers drove to Newberg Saturday to spend the week end with Mr. Myers' sister, Mrs. S. L. Brown.

Kreso Dip, recommended by the O. A. C., at Kelly's Drug Store.

Henry Kinzer, who recently had a stroke of paralysis on the entire left side of his body, is slowly improving.

A coat was found on the road from Scio to Lebanon on Friday. Owner can have the same by calling at this office and paying for this ad.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Wesely went to Portland yesterday. Joe thinks he is entitled to a vacation and they won't come home for several days.

Monday was a scorcher in Scio. Damage to spring grain is feared, but that planted early seems safe from damage.

Since the bathing season opened on Thomas creek fishermen in that vicinity are numerous, though they never were known to catch a fish in that particular locality.

So great has been the demand for home baked goods put up by the Scio hotel people that they have opened a salesroom on Main street where fresh goods are kept.

W. D. Reed and sister, Miss Reed, expect to start on a trip to the Spokane country for a two weeks' visit to relatives Saturday. They will go by auto via Seattle.

D. C. Thoms, who is trying awful hard to be sick, thinks a trip to the coast or the mountains would be good medicine for him to take. It would at least be pleasant to take during these hot days.

Word has been received that at the fourth of July doings in Camas, Wash., Mrs. Clarence Pepper (Clara Shelton) won a $5 prize in the nail driving contest.

Bert Hollis and family and Miss Lulu Clark and Arthur went fishing up Bilyeu creek Friday. The results were not very encouraging as all the fish they had to show for the trip were three small trout.

Editor and Mrs. G. W. Humphrey of the Jefferson Review and their son Don and wife of Roseburg, drove over from our Marion county neighbor Thursday evening of last week, making The Tribune family a short call.

Riley Boyd is in town negotiating for several small tracts of timber land. If he succeeds, two portable sawmills will be established. The demand for lumber which will continue for several years is the instigating cause of the enterprise and Riley says there is plenty of money behind it.

Home Bakery.—The Scio Hotel has instituted a home bakery. Pies, bread, buns, cakes, cinnamon rolls, etc. Orders will be filled any day of the week except Saturday. Leave order Friday for what you want on Sunday.

Our readers will find food for thought if they will read Leonard Gilkey's article on first page.

The Scio Lumber and Logging Co. has completed a big tank into which floats all the lumber coming down the flume.

Hogs reached a price hitherto unknown in Portland this week, $22.25 per hundred being the market. It will not be long until the squeal is canned and become a feature in the "movies."

A private letter from our old friend Uncle Ben Irvine of Lebanon informs The Tribune that he is enjoying his usual health, nevertheless his advanced age. The Tribune has regarded Uncle Ben as a personal friend for more than 40 years. He is one of Linn county's substantial pioneer citizens with a name without blemish, and as he approaches the sundown of life is as jolly as in his younger years.

Republican leaders are preparing to announce that they will not make the league of nations a partisan, but a party issue. Why not be plain and honest and admit that it is to be a republican issue?

Elihu Root provided for the senatorial "robins" a plan for amending the league of nations covenant, but no one has been found to supply the courage required to execute it.

Don't forget that if President Wilson had pleased the reactionary republicans in congress he would have disappointed nearly every one else.
