Encouraging Outlook.

large sawmills and the construction of a logging railroad.

Scio has an ideal location for a large sawmill and the ease with which a logging road could be constructed through Richardson Gap warrants one in concluding that activity in this line is near.

Then there is no better location for a cannery than in Scio. There are more than 5000 acres of rich bottom lands tributary to Scio ideal for the production of cannery products. The continuous demand for cannery products is sure to cause the construction of many more concerns of this character and they are sure to be constructed near where suitable lands for cannery products are to be found.

With these enticing prospects why may not Scio be expected to grow and become one of the busy manufacturing centers of Linn county? Scioans are beginning to feel the effects of the outlook now and view the future with optimism.
