

LOCAL NEWS BREVITIES

Fred Bilyeu brought two tin lizzies from Portland Sunday.

Seio has an unused church. Why not convert it into a hospital?

Mrs. Tony Rosprafka and sister-in-law motored to Albany Tuesday.

Riley Shelton celebrated his 62d birthday yesterday.

Cliff Compton lost a bunch of keys and wishes the finder to return 'em.

W. G. Conkey and Mrs. C. Seed of Wallaceburg, Ontario, are visiting at the home of John Brock of South Seio. Mrs. Seed is Mr. Brock's sister.

Seio will be able to buy ice at Albany prices this summer, and possibly the same may be delivered at the family home.

Com. Brown of Shelburn was in town Friday driving his handsome gray buggy horse. Evidently his wild oats bin is not yet empty.

The flu has appeared at Shelburn in epidemic form. Dr. Prill reports 35 cases in the town and vicinity though of a mild form.

Newt Weddle will go to Portland this week to take the "baking" treatment hoping it may relieve, if not cure, his rheumatism.

Fred Giselman moved to the Shindler property on the south side, the first of the week, Mr. Shindler having moved to his farm previously.

C. A. Everett was brought home from Portland Monday morning with his condition but slightly improved, was the report.

Flu time is the drug store's harvest. John Kelly has been jumping sideways on that account the past few days.

Albert Shelton has purchased the Harriet Miller home at West Seio, consisting of six acres, for which he paid $700, it is reported.

A new family has come to town. Mr. Halt, wife and four children are domiciled in the Mrs. Pomeroy property on the south side. Mr. Halt has accepted a position at the Seio end of the S. L. & L. Co.

Mill street still holds her average condition for mud, including the carp pond. It may not be the one disgrace of Seio, but it is one of our disgraces at least.

The daily papers note frequently the arrest, conviction and fining of persons in other parts of the state for angling during the closed season. This caution is inspired by the report that about 30 trout were taken from Gopenny a short time ago.

The traditional groundhog could make a first class shadow Monday afternoon, and his retirement to winter quarters for the six weeks following is the tradition. Well, if we have six weeks' rain and it then lets up our farmers will not kick very vehemently, for a lot of plowing was done in January.

Now that the Linn county fair has been removed from Seio to Albany, why may not Seio stage an old fashioned Fourth of July celebration with barbecue accompaniment this year? Linn county people will want some excuse to come to Seio and this will furnish a good one.

The irrepressible John Davendport of upper Crabtree called on The Tribune Tuesday morning. He said that he purchased a thoroughbred Cotswold buck from O. L. Swink of Berlin last fall. So far the result of ewes bred to the purchase have been triplets. John thinks the investment a good one.

Charles Schustbine, an employe of the Lulay Bros. & Geisler Lumber Co., was so unfortunate as to gash his left ankle to the bone with an ax Tuesday morning. It required several stitches to bring the parts together, which Dr. Prill attended to in the afternoon.

Rural Carrier George L. Flanagan says someone left a fine baby girl at his home Wednesday night.

Ex-postmaster Myers of Portland, though removed from office strives to hang on to the job. He likes the $500 per month he has been getting the past seven years. When he was made postmaster Frank thought he became the democratic party of Oregon. He now thinks differently.

Potatoes for sale. C. U. Sandoz. The Pythian Sisters put one over the K. P. boys by giving them a surprise; they broke up the meeting and turned it into a good old fashioned country dance, lasting until after midnight.

Ed Chrz was a Tribune caller last week. He is wondering why the girls and widows are so slow in chasing the little god Cupid.

Somebody borrowed volumes one and two of Eugenic Marriage from Dr. Prill. He wants them returned as he has use for them.

Ed Jones of Shelburn called on The Tribune Monday and pushed his subscription forward for one year. Mr. Jones is one of Shelburn's most substantial citizens.

The Albany Democrat says the postoffice at Thomas was discontinued last Friday. Former patrons will be served by Seio R. F. D. No. 4.

Ballot titles for practically all measures and amendments approved at the recent special session of the legislature for submission to the voters at the special election to be held May 21, are being prepared by Attorney-General Brown, and will be completed early next week.

Federal inspection of the various Oregon national guard companies in Oregon will start about February 15, according to announcement made by Conrad Staffin, adjutant-general. The inspections will be under charge of Colonel Koester, commander of Vancouver barracks.

For Sale—85 acres, 250 White Leghorns, stock and implements. Price $5000. B. M. Myers, R. 2, Box 101, Seio.
