

LOCAL NEWS BREVITIES

Gasoline is still being doled out a gallon or two at a time.

J. D. Densmore is building an addition to his warehouse at West Scio.

Reports from Ed Wesely are that he is gradually regaining his health.

The Hotel Scio now sports an electrically lighted sign.

Nick Enders has purchased a fine new engine and will be Johnny on the spot for road work and threshing.

Miss Neva Thayer is visiting her grandfather, Uncle Ben Irvine, at Lebanon this week.

Henry Shelton has put in a new crosswalk on Main street adjoining the Scio garage.

Miss Mary Wesely has had new sidewalks built on two sides of her residence property on Main street.

Vilas Philippi fell and stepped on himself the other day and now has a slight impediment in his walk.

Miss Inez Pomeroy a school teacher from Kimberly, Idaho, has been busy visiting relatives in and about Scio for the past month.

The interior of the market of Shelton & Large has been re-arranged, presenting a better appearance and being more convenient.

Mrs. Elsie West and daughters of Pendleton are visiting Mrs. West's sister, Mrs. Bessie Shelton.

A. E. Randall of the local postoffice purchased a Dodge auto last week in which to give the postoffice force occasional airings.

Mrs. Arena Bilyeu and grandson Gail came over Monday and remained until the following day. Her Scio friends think she would like to return here to live.

As Lou Conser is a bachelor, The Tribune last week was misinformed as to him "and his wife" having a baby son. It was Wayne Conser and wife who were visited by the work.

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Denny were in town on press day of last week. Mr. Denny is taking electrical treatment and is improving slowly, he thinks. He is very anxious to visit the coast this summer, as usual.

Grandma Compton is reported to be "poorly." Her advanced age makes any indisposition on her part a source of anxiety to children and friends.

We are informed that Merle Cyrus who had a finger amputated a few days ago, is seriously ill from the poison infection. It may result very serious, indeed.

Mrs. Mary J. Kelly, an Albany pioneer and mother of Circuit Judge Kelly, was buried in Albany Tuesday afternoon. Besides the judge, the only other child is Mrs. C. C. Hogue of Klamath Falls. Mrs. Kelly was, before overcome by old age, very prominent in Albany public affairs and society doings.

Station master Bragg of West Scio says he has too much work to do to get lonesome. The shipping business continues a steady growth at the West Scio station. Only by comparison with the past can the percentage of growth be shown.

Miss Neva Thayer has returned home from spending the winter with her sisters, Mrs. Ada Z. Wiglesworth of Ellensburg, Wash., and Mrs. Elsie West of Pendleton. Mrs. West and daughters Geraldine and Zella Louise accompanied her.

"Bessie," said her mother, "why is it that you and brother are always quarreling?" "I don't know," returned the child, "unless I take after you and brother takes after papa."

"There's something about the sea that makes one sad," said Chris.

"Yes, it's seeing the wind blowing the froth over the bar," said Josie. They ought to know for they just came from Newport.

Lincoln Couey of the Alberta country was visiting his brother John of pear Scio. Link went to Alberta many years ago and has grown rich raising stock and wheat and in the acquirement of several sections of land. Many years ago, when he was a kid, Link was a pupil of this editor.

H. E. Tobbie from Tekoa, Wash., has been employed as principal of the Scio public and high schools for the coming school year. He called on The Tribune Friday afternoon of last week. Prof. Tobbie is a fine appearing young man and inspires one with the idea that he is a teacher and a director of thought. He has rented the Ed Wesely house and expected his wife and two children to arrive Saturday.
