PRESIDENT - ELECT MAY SIT IN SENATE

Should Democrats Carry Ohio Rival Party Member Would Be Appointed Successor.

Washington, Sept. 21.—The possibility that a president-elect of the United States will be occupying a seat in the senate during the coming session of congress, something that has never before happened, is causing the authorities of the capitol building to sit up and think.

If Senator Harding is elected he cannot vacate his seat for at least seven weeks after congress convenes because his year will be needed to maintain the slender republican majority, which is only one with Senator Newberry of Michigan, eliminated for the time being.

Senator Harding cannot resign at least until after the middle of January because his present opponent, Governor Cox, would most certainly appoint a democrat for the interim to March 4, when the regularly elected senator from Ohio would take Harding's seat.

Chytis Leave U. S.

John Chytis has sold his farm near Scio and with his wife and three children departed for Austria for the reason, neighbors say, that the making of wine in the United States is banned. After he located in this country several years ago, Chytis sent to Austria for grape vines. He made wine for family use and had a small wine cellar. One day he gave some to a young man visitor. Chytis was fined. Despite prohibition he believed he had a right to make what wine he wanted to use himself. From that time, neighbors say, he planned to leave for some other place.

Prizes for Cornrowers.

A special bankers corn prize of $50 is offered for the best 100 ears of corn, any variety, exhibited at the Linn county fair October 5-9. This amount will be divided, $25 first, $15 second, $10 third prize. This is given in addition to the fair association premiums of $5, $3 and $2.

The primary object of the bankers corn prize is to promote the growing of more and better corn in the county, and every corn grower should show his appreciation of his local banker's efforts by making an entry in this class.

There are also substantial premiums offered for the best 10 ears of yellow dent, white dent, flint, sweet and popcorn, and entries are solicited in these classes.

Supt. Agricultural Dept.

Court Fixes Wire Way.

The county court Monday granted the petition of the city of Scio to erect a transmission wire line and fixtures from the city's electric power plant on Thomas creek to the city.

The conditions of the permit were that the poles and line will be so placed as not to interfere with traffic, obstruct the road or interfere with its grading, alteration or improvement.

The county court reserves the right to require the city to change its pole line whenever deemed necessary.

Alleged Brawler Freed.

Albany Sept 21—James Ward of Crabtree, who has been in the county jail since Labor day, when he participated in an affray at Sweet Home in which Marshal Story was injured, was released from jail yesterday on $8500 bail while awaiting the action of the grand jury.

Ward was arrested on two charges of assault—on Mr. Story and on Dr. Sehenk, mayor of Sweet Home.

Even a liar will inadvertently tell the truth occasionally. The Oregonian has proven Candidate Cox a liar to its own satisfaction at least. Yet several of Governor Cox' statements have been admitted as truth, in whole or in part. The governor may be telling of so many shortcomings of the republicans that the dose is too large for the public to swallow easily. Hence some of the people go to the other extreme and say that all of his statements are lies.

SEAT AGAIN DENIED 3 OF 5 SOCIALISTS

Three Declared Unfit to Serve Because of Being Found Guilty of Disloyalty.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 21.—The assembly of the state legislature tonight by a vote of 90 to 45 in each case, expelled three of the five socialists—Waldman and Claassens of New York and Solomon of Kings county—and voted, 87 to 48, to permit Dewitt and Orr to retain their seats. The two last, however, took the floor and verbally tendered their resignations.

The dramatic situation that attended the ouster in March were lacking at the session tonight.

The Tribune man made a short trip over to the Tallman country Tuesday afternoon. About all the grain fields have been threshed, though we noticed two or three small fields of shocks. Clover fields still contain winrows of unthreshed clover straw. It is hard luck for the farmer to spend a year in producing a crop and then have it spoiled by unseasonable rains. We were told of one or two localities where about all spring grain was yet to be threshed, and which is badly sprouted.

Cletrac the Best.

Today, Robert E. Peery is having the Bartu Motor Co. deliver a Cletrac tractor and a set of plows to his farm up Crabtree creek. After having one year's experience in farming with a Case tractor, and after examining many other makes of tractors, Mr. Peery came to the conclusion that for all the different kinds of work about a farm the Cletrac is best. The Bartu Motor Co. says that when you sell a farmer a Cletrac you can be assured of having one more satisfied farmer in the neighborhood.—Adv.

CORN THAT MAKES GOOD BEST FOR SEED

Good Ears From Full Stand Are So Because of Inherited Producing Quality.

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, Sept. 21.—"Seed corn should be selected from plants that have made good in the field—demonstrated their ability to produce under field competition," says W. S. Carpenter, extension specialist in farm crops at O. A. C.

A full stand of corn is three stalks to the hill, he explains, the equivalent of a stalk every 14 inches in the row, rows 3½ feet apart. (These distances vary with soil and moisture conditions.) Each plant should bear one good sized ear.

"Our best farmers select their seed from hills of this kind," Mr. Carpenter says, "from hills having a full stand and having neighbors with a full stand."

A good ear from a hill with a single stalk is not a normally grown good ear. It had the advantage of more room, light, moisture and plant food. It is likely to produce good corn under similar favorable conditions in the next crop, but may fail to do so when forced to compete for its food and moisture supply in normal hills.

For silage corn the stalk should be rather more growthy than for grain. Medium to large stalks with a goodly number of broad leaves are desirable.

Good seed-corn kernels are uniform in size and shape. The rows are straight, with butts and tips well filled. The kernels are deep and slightly wedge shaped, but without wide spaces between rows. Let the ears have well dented, roughish kernels. The selected ears may be kept in good condition by gathering them before freezing, drying them out, and storing in a dry place.
