

LOCAL NEWS BREVITIES

New city officers are to be elected November 2.

G. L. Sutherland was an Albany visitor Tuesday.

After several years of silence on the river Albany again hears the cheerful screams of river steamers.

E. A. Boynton of Live Oak, Cal., arrived in Scio Wednesday evening, called here because of the death of his brother.

Dr. J. Murphy, formerly a resident of Scio, is manager of a big milk goat dairy near Portland.

Some of the boys now in the hills hunting know what it means to take a daily cold bath.

The quantity of raw milk being taken to the condensery daily is reported to be rapidly increasing.

For sale, a good horse and nearly new buggy. See Rolla Shelton, the rural carrier about it.

The rains of this week probably spell entire loss of the clover seed yet unharmed.

Monday morning old Jupe acted as if he had started in on a winter engagement.

We now have a complete line of up to date phonograph records. J. S. Sticha.

Practice has begun by the school basketball teams. The first victim will probably be the Turner school team.

Miss Rose Wesely is filling the position of bookkeeper at the condensery, Miss Shelton having joined the ranks of matrimony.

Charley Warner has leased the Randall farm, lately vacated by J. L. Rodgers, and will keep bachelor quarters—maybe.

The Albany races proved to be a success. The track was in fairly good condition, considering the weather.

Dr. Ficq was in Albany Thursday last to see the horse races on the new fair track. Doc says the fair grounds were better suited for snipe shooting than anything else.

Mrs. Frank Titus is being urged to go into the lumbering industry again in the capacity of chief cook at the Scio L. & L. Co. sawmill.

Our public and high schools seem to be moving along as nicely as a piece of well oiled machinery. Prof. Tobie promises to make good.

It is said a national election will occur on the second of next month. You would not think so if the lethargy of voters be taken as a criterion.

Miss Selma Downing of Oklahoma has sent her grandmother, Mrs. Rebecca Morris, a small box of cotton just as it was picked in the field. It is a curiosity to anyone who has not been in a cotton country.

As the geese and ducks have appropriated our carp pond we will soon have to give it a new name and ask that it be taken into the wild fowl reserve, though the aforesaid fowls are exceedingly tame.

Vilas Philippi, tiring of city life, with nothing to do, has leased the Borovicka farm, about 5 miles east of town, and will move the family thereon as soon as the roads are passable, but will drive the Velie himself, because he can stay awake.

Our power project will doubtless have to be extended over into next year unless we have a long spell of good weather this fall. When the dam is completed the rest of the work can be rushed to completion regardless of the weather.

Don't forget to vote for the additional city bonds asked for, on the 23d instant. Without this increase the $40,000 already issued will be a total loss and besides the city will have numerous lawsuits on its hands to force compliance with contracts already made.

T. H. Boynton, over 60, died at the hospital Monday night of heart disease.

The hospital is now filled with patients, one of whom is under the medical care of Dr. S. C. Browne.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Titus are considering making a visit to Klamath Falls.

This present election is developing an unusual large crop of liars. It is a dangerous habit some are forming.

Ducks were herded from our carp pond Tuesday morning with a collie. The ducks and the dog seemed to be well acquainted.

Prof. Will C. Miller, who lives in the suburbs of Shelburn, thinks the recent hail and wind storm was a stem winder. It did him considerable damage.

Born—Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Gilkey are the proud parents of a second daughter, Helen Esther, who came to gladden their home Thursday, October 7th.

William I. Perkins and Miss Chrystal Gaines, both of near Scio, were married in Albany Monday afternoon. They will reside on a farm near Scio.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Yocubets of Crabtree, spent a short time in Scio Monday. They said "if it weren't for the mud holes and chuck holes the roads would be fine, as there is no dust."

It is reported that both ends of the dam at Jordan are now in and only a few feet in the center is yet lacking. Seventy-five per cent of the work on the entire project is completed. We may have both light and power, generated at Jordan, before Christmas, if not sooner.

Contracts have been made which will cover most of the proposed $20,000 bond issue. A failure to authorize this bond issue means the city will be defendant in numerous lawsuits.

Roy Snodgrass, a Lebanon stockman, with his horse collided with a rantankerous steer last Saturday. Roy's head struck the curb of the sidewalk resulting in a fracture of the skull. He was in a serious condition at the Lebanon hospital the first of the week.

Lost—On road between Mill City and Scio, via Jordan store, a black traveling bag containing clothing, watch and toilet articles. Finder please notify Roy V. Shelton. Reward.

McLain Shelton.

A very pretty and quiet wedding occurred at noon October 10, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Shelton of near Scio, when their daughter Dorris was wed to Clair McLain. Rev. W. H. McLain, father of the groom, read the simple ceremony which was witnessed by only the immediate relatives of the contracting parties. Harvey McLain and Ruth Shelton acted as groomsmen and bridesmaid.

A bountiful dinner followed the service, after which the two left on a short honeymoon.

The bride wore a pretty silk mull gown and carried a bouquet of pink carnations. The decorations were of asters and jasmine. Many beautiful and useful presents were received from relatives and friends.

Both groom and bride are well known residents of this community and are former students of the Scio high school. The latter has been employed as bookkeeper in the Scio condensery for the past two years.

After a few days they will be at home at Monroe where Mr. McLain is employed in sawmill work.

T. Kittahara, Japanese gardener, was killed almost instantly when a Southern Pacific train struck a truck in which he was riding on a crossing about two miles north of Salem.

The rainfall for September was the heaviest in 32 years, says the soils department at Oregon Agricultural college which keeps track of the weather statistics. A total of 5.4 inches of moisture fell during the month, the normal fall being 1.6 inches.
