THE UNIVERSAL CAR

Light Weight
Means
Light Expense

Expense of operation is a factor of your consideration when buying a car.

The Ford vanadium steel, heat treated by Ford methods, is so strong that the Ford car is the standard light weight car of the world today. Over 3,500,000 in actual use to prove this fact beyond question.

Light weight means light expense in operation. Everyone can afford to drive a Ford. Depreciation cost, repair cost, tire cost, gasoline cost and oil cost all help sell the Ford, as well as the purchase cost.

Even the Ford Sedan, with starter, demountable rims and tire carrier weighs only 1875 pounds. Tee price is $795 f. o. b. Detroit, and the expense of operation is so low it is a real necessity for everyone in Oregon.

Drive a Ford Sedan, seating five—or a Ford coupelet, seating three—for business, to the theatre, for social calls or for touring comfort. Place your order now.
