EARTH'S INFERNO

JARS NORTHWEST

Portland, Hood River, Spokane, Tacoma Shaken. Inland Empire Feels Shock

Portland, Nov. 29.—What was designated by J. W. Daniels, professor at the Hill Military Academy, as a slight tremor, jarred the city just after 3 o'clock yesterday morning.

This visitation is said to have been lighter than the one which was recorded here about a month ago and which was felt by many people.

Professor Daniels says that such visitations are caused by the heated condition of the earth's interior, the pressure rising to a point which results in a jar to the outer crust.

"These disturbances are known as temblors, not earthquakes, and are of little consequence," explained Professor Daniels. "This one was very slight although it awakened me. There was not to exceed two seconds of tremor and it was so slight it did not even rattle dishes in my home as did the last one before it."

"Temblors are not of frequent occurrence here, this being the second one to visit Portland in my 13 years of residence. However, they may occur anywhere at any time and are not serious. They are more likely to happen in mountainous regions. Temblors have no relationship whatever to earthquakes."

Our Bohemian friends complain that Scio boys or young men create some disorder at the dances in that the boys refuse to buy tickets but crowd the door and sometimes get into the hall. Don't do this, boys, for it is wrong and sure to bring about trouble. If you have an invitation, buy your ticket and conform to the rules like gentlemen.

Monument to Pioneers.

To the pioneers and native sons and daughters of Linn county:

For many years back the matter of erecting a suitable monument in memory of the heroic pioneers who crossed the plains and established the first homes in this county has been discussed by their descendants. Particularly has this been the case during the annual picnics held at Brownsville by the Linn County Pioneer Association until the project has come to be a matter very dear to their hearts.

Personally I have conversed within the past few months with many of the sons and daughters of these old families, and for various reasons that need not be enumerated here they almost universally believe that now is an opportune time to begin this work.

So upon the advice and at the request of quite a number of these native sons and daughters I now take it upon me, as president of the Linn county Pioneer Association, to call a meeting to be held in the community house in Albany at two o'clock, p. m., on Wednesday, December 8, for the purpose of organizing at that time a Linn county memorial association whose principal object shall be to make the necessary arrangements for erection of a monument as outlined above.

It is earnestly hoped that a large number of the descendants of the Linn county pioneers be present at that time to aid with their counsel in preparing the plans for this very laudable work. A. M. TEMPLETON.

About Road Taxes.

It is believed that few precincts in Linn county will vote money for road building this fall. The reason is evident. There is too little road benefit for the amount of money expended. The 3-mill county general road tax was defeated. The people see the dollar of tax they vote shrink down to about 50 cents before it reaches the road, and it does not suit them. Men who have control of spending the road tax moneys seem careless whether little or much work is accomplished on the roads. The people are tired of voting liberal road taxes to be paid out to men who demand high wages but fritter their time away. The people want and will have results or they will quit voting road taxes entirely. As a rule the people are willing to vote money for both schools and roads. They have lost faith in getting adequate results on the roads and they are losing faith in the adequacy of the schools.

Senator Harding's plurality over Governor Cox at the late election official count was 63,657. Stanfield's plurality over Senator Chamberlain was 16,563. Only one of the measures received an affirmative vote—that extending the terms of certain county officers.

Misses Vella Brenner and Dorris Weddle are enjoying a vacation in Portland this week.

Mrs. Floyd Shelton and sons, Rex and Maurice, spent Thanksgiving with Mrs. Shelton's sister, Mrs. Victor Wigglesworth, of Portland.

ROGUE RIVER FISH

PEACE IS AT HAND

Commission Together With Josephine and Jackson Legislators Draw Agreement

Grants Pass, Nov. 29.—The warring factions on Rogue river are preparing to bury the hatchet. If Grants Pass fishermen approve a proposed compromise agreement the subject will become virtually settled thanks to the state fish and game commission.

So far as possible every point at issue will be adjusted on the basis of a square deal for all and special advantages for none. With this compromise as a foundation its ideas and agreements will be embodied in a bill to be submitted to the legislature.

Through members of the fish and game commission and members of the Josephine and Jackson county legislative delegations a program has been outlined which is calculated to bring all conflicting interests into harmony. This is on the basis of give and take, with due consideration given each factor and locality so that by mutual concessions and compromises the fishing troubles of Rogue river will be effectively terminated.

Hymeneal.

A quiet but beautiful wedding occurred on Wednesday, November 24, at Albany, when Miss Tracie Grace Menhart was united in marriage with Arnold J. Boyanovsky.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Menhart who recently moved from South Dakota to the Scio country. In a short time she has won many friends and she is a young lady who is qualified to take her part in matrimony.

The groom is the oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Boyanovsky, and has resided here a number of years. He is a young man of whom any community might be proud; ambitious and a friend of everyone, and so has taken unto himself a partner to make life happier.

The bride was becomingly dressed in light blue silk crepe de chine and silver lace. They were accompanied by her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Holechek.

The young couple are well known to the residents of this county and are held in high esteem by a large circle of friends who will join with us in extending this young happy couple congratulations and best wishes. They will go to housekeeping shortly on a farm east of Scio. —[Published by request]

K. P. Big Meet at Albany.

Perhaps there has never assembled so many supreme officials and grand lodge officers at a subordinate lodge as met with Laurel lodge, Knights of Pythias, in Albany Monday evening. Quite a bunch of Scio knights attended. There were enough supreme lodge men to fill all the offices in the initiatory work.

Lacomb Oil Well.

The oil well at Lacomb is down 850 feet and the operators are still hopeful of success. Crews of men keep the drill going day and night. The last eight feet has been through asphaltum and the bottom is now in a layer of slate stone.

The well is 12 inches in diameter at the top and diminishes as the shaft is lowered. It is now between 8 and 10 inches.—Democrat.

MARSHAL STORY, 78, SUCCUMBS TO WOUNDS

Marshal Dies After Being Hurt While Trying to Arrest Two Young Men.

Albany, Nov. 26.—M. Story, pioneer resident of Sweet Home, who was seriously hurt September 6 when as acting marshal he was attempting to arrest James Ward, died last night. He had been partially paralyzed since Ward attacked him and gradually failed.

The cases against Ward and Robert Bruce, his companion in the fight with Sweet Home officers, who were bound over will come before the grand jury next week and Mr. Story's death may result in a murder charge.

Mr. Story was 78 years of age. He had resided at Sweet Home for many years and had held various official positions there.

Ward and Bruce and another young man who took part in the encounter went to Sweet Home on Labor day and Ward, who is said to have been drinking moonshine, raised a disturbance in the Sweet Home hotel.

Dr. Schenck, mayor, called the acting marshal to arrest him. When Story approached Ward in front of the hotel Ward resisted arrest and a fight ensued in which Bruce went to Ward's aid and Dr. Schenck assisted the marshal. Both officers were struck with rocks. Dr. Schenck suffered the fracture of three ribs. Mr. Story was struck over the heart with a stone and seriously hurt.

The two young men escaped a posse of Sweet Home men who tried to arrest them, but were captured next morning by Sheriff Kendall. Each was charged with an assault on each officer and held to the grand jury, each furnishing $8500 bonds.

A few days before the arrest Ward had been arrested, pleaded guilty and paid a fine for having liquor in his possession. Ward has resided for several years near Crabtree and Bruce's home is at Waterloo.

WATKINS MAN IN THE FIELD

I understand there is a report in circulation that the Watkins people have retired from the Scio field. This is untrue. I am in the field with all the goods the company carries and will supply all old customers as well as new with all of our reliable goods. JOHN COCHELL, 16 2t Brownsville, Oregon.
