The attendance at our Sunday school is increasing but there is ample room for many more, whom we hope to see.

SANTIAM FARM TOPICS

October 25

As the old one eyed pie eater had not shown up in Scio for some time owing to the Cemetery Hill being impassable he had to employ John Griffin with tin lizzy to steam up and take his good wife and Mrs. Jenny Lovejoy around the horn to Scio by way of Richardsons Gap, 9 miles to Scio. On arriving the old arriving the old man got lost and had to call on the city marshal to escort him to the bank so he could locate him self again.

John Griffin went on a visit to Dallas to visit his sister, Mrs. Lovejoy, who returned with him Friday. John had had luck on his trip after leaving Salem as he broke the hind hub of his car and had to walk three miles to reach Dallas and get a new hub and soon had his car in running order.

I have been informed by my friends that some hunters have been seen the past week hunting on my farm; also informed that some smart alex had torn down one of my hunting notices. I have $5 to be informed who is the guilty one. Ed Kalina and wife made a run to Billie Bilyeu's Sunday on the Rodgers Mountain.

Miss Elan Millian called in Sunday for a short chat with her aunt Mrs. Gains, and also for a supply of grapes.

The old man while in the city Saturday had an invitation to attend the picture show at the church of Bible scenery also a fine supper by paying 50 cents and going home broke.

Elton Griffin, of Hamilton creek, came in Monday for a chat with his grandmother, his father, uncle Elmer and his aunt Jenny Lovejoy.

As John Hoffmans truck failed to run, Ed Kalina had to run to Crabtree Monday with cream, also having to return latter in the day with a veal.

John and Elmer Griffin made a flying trip to Scio Monday to have a new tire put on their car as the old one failed on them.

Billy Kalina's are quite proud of their new home, as Mrs. Kalina is near her parents and on her old stamping ground.

Our heavy rain Monday has again delayed the graveling of our road over the Cemetery Hill so it is more doubtful if it is finished this fall, so we will have to go by way of Richardsons Gap.

"Can you tell me the date the Baptist church burned—I mean, of course, the famous fire that all the old inhabitants talk about?"

The librarian looked up from her work. "No, I can't tell you the exact date, but I think I can find it for you quickly, for we have the files of the local paper since it was started. My impression is that the fire—the big fire, as they call it—was about 1873, and it won't be a very long job to look it up."

She went to the stacks in the rear of the library, pulled out a dusty bound volume marked "Herald, 1873," and spread it open on the table. "Ah, here it is," she said, after a minute spent in turning over the yellow leaves. The person who had inquired for the date, a member of the woman's club of the town, sat down and read the article. "This gives me exactly the information I wanted," she said.

"I thought it would," said the librarian. "I fear most people do not appreciate how valuable is the local newspaper from the viewpoint of local history. In fact, it seems to me that it is about our only source. Only when an event gets into print is it officially recorded and filed for reference. Flimsy as it is, the printed word of today is the counterpart of the ancient stone inscriptions that give us our records of a long-ago yesterday. I consider the bound volumes of our local papers perhaps the most valuable possession of this library."

There's at least one librarian who is giving "Subscribe for Your Home Town Paper Week," which will be observed November 7-12, the most hearty backing she can give.

OLD HOME TOWN PAPER TO HAVE A WEEK

Nation Wide Campaign Launched for November 7-12—Place in Community Life Emphasized.

November 7-12 has been set as "Subscribe for Your Home Town Paper Week," and this newspaper, together with the thousands of country newspapers the United States over—there are not far from 15,000 of them, weeklies and small dailies—is to participate.

The purpose of the campaign is not only to induce residents of the small communities and the home town folks who are far from their native heath to subscribe for the home paper, but also to emphasize the important place the home newspaper plays in the life of its community.

This campaign has the hearty support and co-operation not only of the newspapers but thousands of ministers and school principals, and many state agricultural colleges and farm and home bureau organizations.

Some persons, it is pointed out, have been inclined to belittle the place and function of the country newspaper. They have not realized that in reality the home paper is a community institution and that it enables the other institutions, such as the church and the school and all the rest to function better and more effectively. That it is a necessity if the town is to advance.

During the time between now and "Home Town Paper Week," November 7-12, this newspaper in its columns will have much to say about the Home Town Paper—not this newspaper in particular, but the home town paper the nation over, the home town newspaper as a real and distinctive factor in American life.

A Messenger to Garcia.

The local newspaper is the messenger to Garcia for your town. It goes out to the world as an advertisement for the community. To be a good advertisement it must be a good newspaper. To be a good newspaper it must have the support of the people of the community in the way of subscriptions and advertising. Are you doing your part toward making your paper a good advertisement for this community, one that will carry the kind of a message the people of the community wish carried to the world?

Wisdom Lies in Correction.
