Arbuckle Jury Hung—Out 41 Hours

After 41 hours of deliberation, the Roscoe Arbuckle jury announced to the court that it was both mentally and physically impossible to reach a verdict. One woman on the jury refused to be swayed, and is said to have told another member she would stand for Arbuckle's conviction "till hell freezes over." The other eleven jurymen fluctuated back and forth, finally announcing themselves as in favor of acquittal.

W. E. Fisher, a native of Oregon and resident of Linn county for 55 years, passed away at a Portland hospital at three o'clock Tuesday morning as the result of an operation performed about three weeks ago.

John Sticha and wife were water bound in Albany last week and had to come home by train, returning later for their car.
