THURSDAY, JAN. 5, 1922

The infant year was quite a lusty little fellow, and like most infants had to develop itself by copious "tear-drops."

The big committee, having the Oregon 1925 Fair in charge, meets in Portland today. Plans will be worked out at this conference that will make the big fair a reality. It will be a black eye to Oregon if the fair is not held, because of its wide advertising.

That religious scrap down at Brownsville seems no nearer of solution than it was when it began. The trouble started over a home to be erected by and for the American Legion, in which Rev. Milo Bentley took sides, and "the devil has been to pay" ever since.

The governor is to be commended for promptly vetoing the bill liquidating the debts of returned soldiers prior to receiving their bonus. This bill was decidedly class legislation and shows again the unfair and unjust laws proposed by lawyer legislators to make business good for their fraternity. Many a business man, farmer and laborer would like such a law for their benefit, and as much entitled to it. Yes, Governor Olcott is to be commended, and his reasons for the veto were sound.

There is every reason for the organization of a commercial or community club in Scio. There is no good nor sound reason for none. A live club, with citizens alive to the necessity of keeping Scio and the surrounding country before the big wide world, would bring investors and homebuilders to our door, would open new industries and stimulate those already here, would make co-operation a reality, and nothing would be allowed to go elsewhere that rightfully belongs here. By all means there should be a booster club of some kind here.

In another column will be found a communication from "Cash Customer," in which he lends encouragement to our home buying program and then tells why he goes elsewhere to trade. We do not know that he is correct in the per cent he saves, but think he could do as well here as elsewhere if he really wanted to. However, he is right when he says the price quotations influenced him, because people want to know what an article will cost them and read the ads to find out, and then go where they think the price more nearly suits them, forgetting friends and accommodations. The merchant who quotes prices is the man who is always busy. People have become educated to look for prices, which have the power of pulling trade. We still insist the best place to trade is Scio.

The Albany College Campaign

The College has an endowment fund and a 48 acre campus, making $300,000 of assets.

But the buildings on the old campus are worn out.

A building campaign was laid out seven years ago but was abandoned on account of the war.

To help the college renew its plans the New York Board of Education recently offered the Albany college approximately $100,000 on condition that the college raise $200,000 before March 31, 1923.

One half of what we raise here, and all that the board contributes go into the endowment fund to insure the support of the college.

One half of what we raise, or $100,000, is for new buildings on the New Monteith Campus.

It will build the first two units of an ultimate college group.

The Linn county section of a state wide campaign will begin Sunday Jan. 22, as "Albany College Sunday," and continue for a week. The amount to be raised is $50,000. The campaign will then proceed to the entire state for the remaining $150,000.

The Campaign committee consists of L. E. Hamilton, chairman; W. L. Jackson, Secretary; Ralph McKeech, treasurer; G. A. Flood, P. A. Young and J. H. Rebnett.

It is cordially hoped that each community in Linn County will co-operate in making this their own home college.

OBITUARY

(Communicated)

Fielding J. Denney, son of Thomas H. and Berrella F. Denney, was born Sept. 23, 1849, near the John Day river, in the immigrant train when his father and mother were crossing the plains to Oregon, and died Dec. 29, 1921, at the age of 72 years, 3 months and 6 days. Arriving at Willsburg, southwest of Portland, they spent one year there. In the meantime his parents had taken a donation land claim near the present town of Beaverton, in Washington county, to which they removed the following year.

It was here the subject of our sketch grew to manhood.

In 1871 he bought a sawmill on Gales creek, about 15 miles west of Forest Grove, which he retained only a short time, and in August, 1873, he took up a homestead on Alesia Bay, where he spent the greater part of his time for five years.

He proved up on his homestead, returned to his home in Washington county, and later went into the business of buying oak timber for ship building, and it was for this purpose he came to Linn county in April, 1881.

On Oct. 18th of the same year he was married to Mary A. Goin. In March, 1882, he purchased the farm upon which he had resided for almost 40 years.

Besides his widow, he leaves to mourn his loss one daughter, Mrs. Rilla Funk; a granddaughter, Bethel Bilyeu; a sister, Mrs. R. B. Brown, of Garden Home, Oregon, and three brothers, Lewis, King and Aaron Denney, of Beaverton, Oregon.

Mr. Denney was a successful farmer, but was very much interested in journalism and found time to write articles on psychological and political subjects, as well as temperance.

He was very much interested in educational and civic improvements in his country and state, and in his passing he will be greatly missed.

Funeral services were held Saturday and interment took place in Shelburn cemetery.
