

THE SCIO TRIBUNE

Published Every Thursday by THE TRIBUNE PUBLISHING COMPANY
 at Scio, Linn County, Oregon
 McAdoo & McAdoo, Owners and Publishers.
 I. V. McAdoo, Editor & Business Manager
 W. F. McAdoo, Circulation and Adv. Manager

Subscription, in advance - - - $1.75
 If paid at the end of the year - - - 2.00
 Six months, in advance - - - 1.00

Entered at the postoffice at Scio, Oregon, as second class matter.

ADVERTISING RATES

Local advertising, readers, per line - - 10c
 Display advertising, per inch - - - 25c
 Special prices on quantity contract
 Advertisements should reach this office not later than Tuesday to insure publication in current issue. Transient advertising must be paid for in advance of publication.

THURSDAY, MARCH 23, 1922

There is every sign now that spring has arrived, and one of the signs is the editor has cleaned up his back yard. No, he hired it done; too much like work, you know.

READ our big ad about the Dairy edition to be issued April 20th. If you can help us in the way of giving reliable information about the dairy industry hereabouts we will be very grateful. This paper wants to be of the utmost service to the entire community, and we must all do our bit.

THE Tribune has a new correspondent in this issue—from Larwood. It took us a long time to find one, but the time is well paid for. You will enjoy this weekly letter as much as you do the letters from Gilkey, Shelburn, Jordan, Shindler Bridge and the good old Santiam Farm. It is with pleasure we announce this

FREE!

A Catalogue of beautiful Oregon Woolens, showing how beautiful and serviceable our home wool can be made --- the best wool for

Men's Fine Suits

in the world.
Write for free

Catalogue

The Blain Clothing Co.

Value First

Albany, Oregon

The Store with a Square Deal for Every Customer.

and hope our friends will be as well pleased with the first letter as the editor is. Subscribe now.

THE service men, who fought and bled in freedom's cause in 1917-18, were refused audience by President Harding. How soon we forget our pledges of fealty to the sons of men who faced the bullet, bayonet and the gas for us. How quick are they thrust into jail if they decry their lot or steal a loaf of bread to stop their hunger. The Cleveland, Ohio, jail forcibly holds 157 ex-service men behind its bars. No relief, no work—and no remedy proposed the powers will adopt.

It develops that Harrisburg is the home of many a devout lover of dogs. If the poison that has been killing off some of the members of the canine family has been placed for that purpose it is up to that man to guard his secret well. The vows that have been made over the graves of Fido, and Buck, and Sport, and others, savors ill for him. And well it might. The dog is a friend that asks few favors. Yet he takes his place in the family circle as fixedly as the bark to a tree. He knows better than man how to withstand abuse, and it is not given to us human folks to demonstrate such heights of joy over the simple wave of a hand or a kindly spoken word. We can scarcely excuse the man who will not admit his love for a dog, but what of the man who would knowingly, willingly, and sneakily place poison out for the purpose of depriving someone of a friend like this.—Bulletin.

BENEFITED HIS COMMUNITY

On January 11, 1922, when Mr. B. H. Irvine a former resident of this community, but now of Lebanon, celebrated his 93rd birthday, he had lived to see more than he had hoped. He had seen his fondest hopes realized in the passage of the amendment to the constitution of the United States making the nation dry. He had been an ardent supporter of the cause from the time it came into existence, and while being wholeheartedly for it, never took issue with his opponents to the extent that friendships would be broken and enemies made. At one time he secured just a few seeds of a new wheat, of which no one knew the name, planted same, and it grew and multiplied, so he named it "Prohibition Wheat." Like the votes for prohibition, it grew and spread out among neighbors and friends, until it is now the most widely planted and known wheat in this section of the state. He has seen his community grow from scattering neighbors of several miles apart until the population is such that neighbors are within stone's throw of each other. He has seen impassable roads in the winter made passable the year around; he has seen the old stage replaced by the train, auto and the auto truck; he has seen the old coal oil lamp replaced by the more modern electric lamp on the farm; he has seen the horse, the ox and the mule replaced on the farm by the tractor, and threshing done from pounding the grain out of the head by feet and club with the new way of cutting, threshing and sacking at one operation. These have marked probably the most important high places in his long and useful career.

The best of his life's work is reflected in the happy family of boys and girls that came to honor his home and make his life the useful, crowning citizen that he is. Few there are that have reached this grand old age—but one other of whom we are aware, Mrs. Nancy Bilyeu, of Bilyeu Den, being the other, and these long and useful lives well-earned popularity should be honored by the citizens of this state as few have been honored in the past for they have helped to make Oregon a great state. May he and she live to see the century in years be their lot—and happiness and ease should also be theirs.

COUNTRY PAPER GUARDS NATION

Rises Promptly and Capably to Every Emergency.

IS NOT ALWAYS APPRECIATED

Cements Interests of Mass of Population—Avoiding Sensationalism, in Its Clean Wholesomeness Is Its Appeal to Best Class of Citizens—Country Press a National Power.

By WRIGHT A. PATTERSON.

The country communities—the village, the small town and the small city—are the backbone of the American nation. They are the communities to which the nation turns in time of distress and emergency. They are even more than the backbone of the nation. They are the bulwark of our modern civilization. Just at the close of the World war, Mr. Balfour, foreign minister of Great Britain, said to the writer in London that the entire civilized world must look to the small towns of America to preserve for the world the civilization that it had taken centuries to build, because the small towns represented a substantial solidity that the tremendous upheaval of the war had not affected, and it was only such a foundation that would preserve the structure of civilization.

The cement that keeps the people of these country communities together, working and thinking along uniformly sane and safe lines, that makes of them that "substantial solidity" on which world civilization can rely for a foundation, is the country press—the village, the small town and the small city newspaper.

Country Paper Wholesome.

The country newspaper goes to its readers devoid of that sensationalism that is so prominent in the metropolitan papers. It carries to its readers the news items that represent the joys and sorrows of their friends and neighbors, and keeps the hearts of the people of the community beating in unison. It goes to its readers with that sane and kindly advice on local, state, national and world problems; advice that is the result of thought and study beside the hearthstones of the nation, and not in the selfish marts of trade or the bright lights of city frivolity. It goes with the influence of a known and respected member of the community—its editor back of its every word, its every opinion. It goes to a people, the people of the country communities and the farms, that are more capable of thinking along sane, unselfish and practical lines than are those who are surrounded by the selfish and many times evil influences of the large cities.

But the influence of the country newspaper goes far beyond the community in which it is printed. National legislators in the halls of congress realize that this influence is a power to be reckoned with. That when the country press speaks in unison on any national subject it is but voicing the sentiments of that mighty force the people of the country communities, the people in whose hands, says Mr. Balfour, rests the destiny of world civilization.

Fights for Entire Country.

The country press represents and fights for those things that are of value to the country communities, realizing that in doing so it is fighting for those things that are best for the nation and for the world. It works and fights to uphold the country community, to prevent its falling a prey to the selfish greed of the cities. It champions the business, the social, the educational, the agricultural, the industrial interests of the country com-

Tell the advertiser you saw his ad in The Tribune.

Notice of Appointment of Administratrix

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned has been appointed administratrix of the estate of Karl J. Peters, deceased, by the County Court of the State of Oregon for the County of Linn. All persons having claims against said estate are hereby notified to present the same duly verified, at the law office of V. Lyle McCroskey, in the First National Bank building, in Stayton, Oregon, within six months from the date of the first publication of this notice. Dated and first published this 2d day of March, 1922.
 ELSIE PETERS,
 Administratrix of the Estate of Karl J. Peters, deceased.
 V. Lyle McCroskey,
 Attorney for Administratrix.

Radiators Repaired

and

Fenders Straightened, Tanks Soldered

or any soldering on an automobile.

Prices Right and Work Guaranteed

I have opened a shop in the Seck garage for this work exclusively. Will be there at all times between 8 and 6 o'clock at your service.

E. L. Richardson

LEBANON, OREGON

Milk, $2.50 Per Month, Delivered

Pure, Clean, Wholesome Milk

Square Deal Gilbert McDonald

Frank Richter

The Furniture Man

341-9 North Commercial Salem, Oregon

Let us quote you prices on your

Furniture and Wall Paper

Give us a trial it all we ask.

Dayton and Columbia

Heavy Service Bicycles

and

Indian Motorcycles

We carry a complete line of Motorcycle and Bicycle Tires, Oils, Supplies, etc.

LLOYD E. RAMSDEN

387 Court Street

Salem, Oregon

Are You Wise?

In the matter of dollars and sense, the wise person buys where good goods can be had for the least money.

Standard High Quality Merchandise

Can be bought here at prices that mean MONEY SAVED, and every article we sell MUST SATISFY or your money back. We are sole agents for the

Marswells Paints and Varnishes

Square Deal Hdw. Co.

220 N. Commercial St.

SALEM, OREGON

Tested Field Seeds

We have the most complete stock of farm and field seeds in the valley, including spring wheat, spring oats, fancy clover and grass seeds and a complete stock of tested garden seeds. Mail us a list of your wants or send for our new price list.

Poultry Supplies

The largest and best selected stock in the state to select from, including Incubators, Brooders, Poultry feed of all kinds, grit, bone, shells and fountains and feeders.

You will always find our prices are low as the best goods can be sold for, the kind you find it pays to buy.

D. A. White & Son

Seedmen and Feedmen

251-261 State St. Salem, Oregon