Oregon Made Home Knitting Yarns
A great surprise for the home knitters of Oregon, but still a fact. Furthermore, this yarn is absolutely virgin wool yarn; the wool was grown in Linn county, sold by Mr. Senders to the Oregon Worsted Company (mills located at Sellwood), made into worsted yarn by Roy T. Bishop, son of C. P. Bishop, proprietor of the Woolen Mill Store of Salem. Oregon knitters try this yarn out. All colors. 45c per ball of 2 ozs. Samples sent on application. Address C. P. Bishop, Box 75, Salem, Oregon.

Since the supreme court declared the dog tax law constitutional we notice from the reports in the papers that the sheep men have been losing unusually large numbers of their flocks. It seems that the dog tax fund will have to be stretched out very thin, almost to the breaking point, to cover all of the reported losses. If there should be a deficit in this respect, we favor an additional tax on horses, cattle, hogs, goats and cats to fully reimburse for all losses of sheep by dogs, whether real or otherwise (?). Oh, my! How long shall this endure?

SANTIAM FARM NEWS

March 28
James Milligan made flying run to Crabtree Saturday, doing some trading and visiting his mother-in-law, Mrs. Turner.

Our good weather has shown up after five months of snow, rain and cold winds.

The general health of the people is slowly improving, and every one anxious to get out in the warm sunshine and make a little garden; but the old man still has his bronchitis.

Mrs. Jennie Lovejoy, of Dallas, pulled in Monday for a few day's visit with her mother, Mrs. Pie Eater.

Elmer Griffin has moved into his bachelor home and gone into the poultry business. Getting things arranged for the better half?

David Horsburgh's daughter is still in poor health with appendicitis. Mrs. Horsburgh called in Monday for a chat with Mrs. Gaines, her old aunt, as the sun was warm for a stroll.

The old man and good wife made a run for Scio Saturday and found the town floating along nicely, business flourishing, people full of life. For a square meal we called in at the "Bummer's Hotel," finding the lady of the inn, Mrs. Morris, feeling tip top with plenty of grub, but was about out of split wood, so the Pie Eater had to replenish the wood box for his dinner.

Our milk hauler runs a regular passenger truck from Scio to Lebanon, as it beats the train. Mr. Powell is certainly generous, taking passengers at half price.

The "Producers Call" is doing a great work in waking up our sluggish farmers, who are now advancing their best ideas on the best plans to reduce taxes and general extravagance in high salaries and worthless offices, which are eating the people up. Subscribe for the Producers Call and wake up before another election.

Coral Lucas is improving his farm by clearing up a patch of ground for corn, using quite a lot of powder to make a quick job.

The old man was in luck Monday, as he finished up his early garden just as the rain set in, having a fine lot of onion sets, peas, onion seed, beets, lettuce and carrots, so he can wait 'til the sun shines again.

The Santiam farm has a fine lot of seed corn of the Golden Beauty variety (earliest corn grown) at five cents per pound on the cob; also onion seed at $1 per pound, or five pounds for $3.

HISTORY OF THE SCIO SCHOOL

(An Interview)
"There was no difficulty in securing the building at present occupied by the Scio school children. The vote was 73 to 6 in favor of the building," said Mr. Riley Shelton, in reply to a question of a Sphinx reporter.

Mr. Shelton is notary public, public dealer in real estate, road supervisor, and authority on all things ancient and modern.

Mr. Shelton said that on the fourth day of April, 1895, a special meeting was held for the purpose of voting bonds for the construction of a new school building. Leaders of this movement were Henry Cyrus, Frank Crabtree, and A. J. Johnson. When the matter was brought before the house the vote stood 73 to 6 in favor of a new school building, and bonds amounting to $6500 were voted for the construction of the building. The bonds were to bear interest at 6.5 per cent per annum, payable in 20 years, and have all been paid.

In 1895 there were approximately 80 or 85 tax payers in the district, but they saw the movement through.

The board of directors at that time consisted of A. J. Johnson, George L. Sutherland, T. J. Munkers, and Riley Shelton, clerk.

Mr. Shelton said further that in 1895 two school houses were owned by school district 95. One was located on the present resident property of Dr. A. G. Prill, and was exchanged for the present school site. Two hundred dollars was paid to A. Montgomery on the exchange. The second school building was located out of town, near the present residence of Mr. Wallace. This building was sold to J. J. Barnes for $225 and was moved to Main street, just north of the telephone office, and at present is used as the Odd Fellows hall.

The basement and foundations of the present building were built by E. Goins for $750.

E. A. Stanton of Salem was the lowest bidder for the construction of the school house. His bid was for $5100 and was accepted, with the provision that the building should be completed on or before September 20, 1895.

W. C. Knighton was the architect. The building was completed as per schedule and the money which remained was used for equipment and other expenses.

Mr. Shelton stated further that in the beginning there were only three rooms, seating the primary, intermediate grades, and high school. The high school offered only a two year course at that time.

The first teachers were J. W. Crawford, principal, who received $75.00 per month and did his janitor work; A. N. Fulkerson, intermediate, who received $35.00 per month and did his janitor work; and Miss Minnie Munkers, primary who received $31.50 per month and did her janitor work.

If a janitor was furnished, $1.50 was deducted each month from the salary of the teacher.

Now a janitor is hired, as well as four grade and three high school teachers. The high school course is arranged so that students graduating are qualified for college entrance.

Joe Menheart made the Tribune office a pleasant call Friday. He is interested in dairying, and says he makes money at it.
