We now know why the people are so long-suffering—they have to tolerate such fellows as Hall.

Hall is as sore as he can be "Cause he lost out for governor, And he can rub the sores, you see, Until they are running over.

COMES word from Washington that the bonus bill is again held up. The "highway men" are having a good time with it,—but get no money.

ROBERT BOETTCHER, who has been employed on the Albany Herald for the past year, and who is the son of Prof. Boettcher, has leased the Lebanon Criterion for a year. If he likes the publishing business on his own hook he will buy the plant, so it is announced. The Tribune extends him welcome into the newspaper field of Oregon, and wishes him prosperity.

IT'S a poor excuse for a man or a business institution that will knock his or their town or community. A knocker is worse than a two edged sword—you cannot dodge him. He works on the sly and his sting is deliberate and hurtful. If a man or institution don't like the place well enough to boost it, they should either keep still or sell out and leave. There is no room in any community for the knocker.

THROUGH the years that have passed since prohibition went into effect we have lived through a deadly strife—war between owners of illicit stills and officers who enforce the law. Perhaps never before has this warfare been brought so close home to us as it was last night in the murder of Sheriff Kendall and Rev. Roy Healy. With the tragedy hot in our minds—with their blood hardly cold on the ground where they fell mortally wounded, with our love of peace and respect of the law, we who call ourselves good citizens must arise from our lethargy and see the poisonous liquor traffic stamped out—now and forever.

WE might enter into the controversy between the Southern Pacific and Union Pacific regarding the recent decision of the U. S. supreme court in dissolving the S. P. from the Central Pacific, after they had been under the same management for the past half century, but our entering would create no stir. It is obvious that to take the Central from the S. P. and allow it to become merged with the Union Pacific serves no ends, unless it is robbing Peter to pay Paul. Why cannot the courts, commissions, railroad labor boards and other bodies leave well enough alone? Meddling with business relations that have been satisfactory to the general public for the past half century and the reduction of wages to a bare existence always puts a monkey wrench in the wheels of progress and retards growth and expansion.

ABOUT the only thing so far advanced by any candidate for office toward reducing taxes is the abolishing of a few of the commissions. There is no outstanding figure, and has been none, with a real program. Generalities and promise to "work for lower taxes" is as far as they get, and this promise is so old and threadbare that the blind can see through it and the deaf can hear the noise as the wind whistles through the holes in it. The abolishing of a few commissions certainly would do no harm—some are useless and were instituted for the purpose of paying a political debt—but the dent this would make in our taxes could not be noticed, and the politician knows it and of course it sounds big. The way to reduce taxes is to make Oregon so attractive that the home-seeker will come here in preference to all states, and after we get him here we should not bleed him white in the price we ask for our land. How will this reduce our taxes? By there being more of us to pay the same tax as now and hence a lower tax to each. Our taxes are high now because we are so few to maintain a state the size of Oregon and get by on less.

Attention, Dog Owners

This is to notify all dog owners in Linn county that chapter 186, page 275, general laws of Oregon, passed in 1919, relating to licensing dogs, will be strictly enforced according to law. All persons owning dogs that were eight months old or over at the present time are liable for the tax of $1.00 for males and $2.00 for females. Failure to pay same provides for a fine of $10 for first offense and $25 for the second. Anyone knowing of dogs without a license let me know, and I will keep the information secret.

Airing Troubles in Court

August Norman, Scio farmer, pleaded not guilty to the charges of assault and battery Monday in the justice court after he had been arrested by constable Ben Clelan and accused by Sophia Pepperling.

The plaintiff declared that Norman had telephoned her to get a cow belonging to her that had broken into the defendant's cabbage patch and that the defendant had captured. When she called for the cow Norman assaulted her, the plaintiff complains.

Norman denies that he struck the plaintiff. The case has been set by Judge Olliver for trial next Saturday morning at 10 o'clock.—Albany Democrat.

Autos Collide

An automobile driven by Fred Mespelt of Scio and one driven by Mrs. I. A. McDowell of Albany came together at Second and Montgomery streets Saturday evening as Mr. Mespelt was turning north into Montgomery and Mrs. McDowell
