Bible Thoughts for This Week

Sunday.

AN END TO WORRY:—Be careful for nothing; but in everything by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known unto God. And the peace of God, which passeth all understanding, shall keep your hearts and minds through Christ Jesus.—Philippians 4: 6, 7.

Monday.

REWARD OF THE RIGHTEOUS:—Mark the perfect man, and behold the upright: for the end of that man is peace.—Psalm 37: 37.

Tuesday.

RIGHT REASONING:—Let us reason together, saith the Lord: though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow.—Isaiah 1: 18.

Wednesday.

MAN'S APPEAL:—O Lord, revive thy work in the midst of the years.—Habakkuk 3: 2.

Thursday.

THE ONLY HELP:—For I the Lord thy God will hold thy right hand, saying unto thee, Fear not; I will help thee.—Isaiah 41: 13.

Friday.

DELIVERANCE AT HAND:—I will be with him in trouble; I will deliver him.—Psalm 91: 15.

Saturday.

TRIED AND PROVED:—As for God, his way is perfect; the word of the Lord is tried, he is a buckler to all that trust in him.—2 Samuel 22: 31.

Linn county fair Oct. 3-4-5-6. Let's go.

School started yesterday, and the care-worn faces of the mothers of Scio have already taken on the sunshine of relief from worries incident to vacation.

The state fair starts next Monday, and it is said the exhibits will excel former years in volume, while the livestock and machinery exhibits are striving to beat all records. Many from this community are taking their livestock to the state fair and hope to bring home the blue ribbons.

The petitions for the placing of the name of O. E. Eichinger on the ballot at the November election is now in circulation and can be found at the stores of J. F. Wesely, N. I. Morrison and at the Tribune office. Come in to either place and place your name thereon—a fine chance to elect a man from this community as sheriff of Linn county. And a good man at that.

Yes, the community fair is a thing of the past, and it was some fair, if what we have been hearing is the honest belief of the people hereabouts. Anyhow, it shows what can be done in the Forks of the Santiam when the people get together and decide to do it. It was a success, the displays excellent and many, and the big basket dinner hugely enjoyed. Again next year? You betcha.

Surprise and favorable comment was heard from all quarters last Saturday by people who had not seen the new gymnasium. It is bigger and better than they thought, and expressed the wish that it be finished up with all speed. It can and will be if the proper assistance is given the student body in this meritorious undertaking. It affords a building large enough to house most any sort of entertainment that comes our way, besides giving the students a good place for their gymnastic training. Help now, tomorrow will see it finished, so to speak.

The railroad strike is now a thing of the past, if the 30 or more roads who have broken away from the solid organization of railroad managements can be taken as a fact. There are yet a few who are obstinate enough to hold out against long odds, and who are thinking the government will assume control of them. How much better it would have been had this same bunch of roads done this at the start, thus saving their property from going to pieces and the public much money from the waste of its products. It is always better to negotiate rather than litigate, as the railroads will now testify. Railroading, like anthracite coal mining, requires skilled workers, and when they are not employed the property always deteriorates. Soon, it is hoped, prosperity will be running our way, and people become happy and contented. All hail to the railroads that have signed up with the railroad workers.

Entombed men at the Argonaut mine, Jackson, Calif., were reached Monday, after more than three weeks of hard work by the rescuers. When the explorers through the shafts of the mine found some of the men, 47, all were dead, and it was hoped that when other parts were explored that some of the men might yet be found alive. There has been much news come out from this mine that the public can hardly believe, and some scandal has been attached to it. The company owning the mining property erected a stockade from which the reporters were furnished the news, such as the company wanted the world to know, but one of the reporters broke over the "canned" news proposition and this fact brought about a regular stampede, with the result that he was ejected from the grounds and his employer was forced to discharge him. This is in line with all such happenings, like that of Herrin, Ill., the railroad strike and other things that effect capital and capital's hold upon the great American public. Some pay attention to the details that save men's lives, but others have a way of beating the law and furnishing the news that places them in the limelight of great benefactors and coerce and thwart newspapers that dare publish the facts, this incident being only one to prove the statement.

Yet men who delve into the bowls of mother earth are radicals when they demand safety and fair wages.

TO THE DAIRY COW—OUR FOSTER MOTHER

The dairy cow is nature's finest food laboratory. She gathers a bit of grass from the field, a little grain from the bin, a wisp of hay from the mow, and within that body of her's Nature evolves milk, that greatest material gift of mankind.

From the time the spark of intelligence is started, to the day we lay down the mantle of life, whether we are in sickness or in health, whether poverty pinches us or plenty surrounds us, the dairy cow produces the greatest, the cheapest, the most life-giving of all foods.

She is an humble servant who works for us by day and by night, in sunshine and shadow, in winter's cold and summer's heat. She pays off the mortgage, builds the home, enriches the soil, pays the grocery bill, clothes the body, renews the bank account and prepares the way for all posterity.

For all this faithful labor she asks only loving care and good food.

THE PORTLAND EXPOSITION

With the time drawing closer to the November election, it is more and more apparent that Portland is determined to stage the 1925 exposition. This desire upon the part of the city of Portland is commendable, but we believe the zeal is overshadowing the real benefits to be gained. If we read the signs right, Portland, like the rest of the state, is taxed almost to death, and the imposing of $3,000,000 more on her shoulders is a burden we fear she will always regret.

The history of all expositions shows that dire results have always come to the community that staged a world's fair. It was so in the case of Chicago, with Buffalo, with Jamestown, with St Louis and Seattle, and it might be the same with Portland, and it has been said such was the case after the close of the Lewis & Clark exposition. But if Portland is anxious to stage the big show, it probably will be the best to let her do it. There is much in its favor.

The greatest gain in the staging of the big show at Portland is the international advertising that will be accorded Oregon, and Portland in particular. We do need more people and more industries, and the way to get them is to tell the world so. The fact is, Portland alone is the only part of Oregon to be taxed for the 1925 exposition, and that being the case, the rest of the state can surely let her finance her own undertakings, and assist in every way in making it a success. The right for her to levy this tax is being asked by the city of Portland of the state, and in our judgment it is the proper thing to do to give her this right.
