High School Notes

Three former students re-entered Scio High this week. They are: Pauline Sims, Lydia Shoure, and Coele Zysset.

The "Sphinx" will be out this week. We expect a bigger and better edition this year due to the unflinching support of the merchants of Scio and Albany.

Last Friday afternoon a half holiday was given to those who had an average attendance of 98 per cent.

Almost half the windows have been put in place at the gym. The floor is to be hauled and laid this week if possible.

Bobbie Thayer and Ray McKnight were informed Saturday that by the time school was out, they would be experienced librarians.

Four committees were sent Saturday to nearby towns, for the purpose of advertising of our gym dedication and dance.

The end of the first six weeks of school has passed and many of the students are very much surprised at their grades.

A student Body meeting was held Friday for the purpose of discussing the posting of the dedication bills.

An amusing comment on the quality of the government telephone service in Great Britain was recently made by an American woman temporarily residing in London with her husband and little boy. She said that, whenever her husband answered the telephone, she picked up the receiver to make a call. It was a household rule that she must without fail immediately entice her son out of the room and as far away as possible, in order that the boy might not hear her husband swear, as he inevitably would.

Dr. Johnson's Dictionary.

Doctor Johnson received for the dictionary which made him so famous, about $8,000 and spent seven years completing that work. For his other writings he received small amounts.
