FARMERS TO VISIT EXPERIMENT STATION

Week of June 11-16 Set Aside
by O. A. C. Extension Service for Inspection

County excursions to O. A. C. to inspect the purposes, methods and results of experiment station work will be made by farmers and their families, conducted by county agents, in the mid-June season. Field crops, fruits and vegetables and even live-stock and dairy cattle are making about their supreme efforts of the entire year at this time, while farmers have a little breathing spell just before the bulk of harvest work.

"Detailed information on just what these visitors may expect to see in these excursions will be supplied by the department heads," says W. L. Kadderly, assistant county agent leader, in making the announcement. "The general plan will be similar to last year's programs, with such improvements as were suggested by experience."

Counties now expected to send delegations are Columbia, Multnomah, Clackamas, Washington, Yamhill, Polk, Marion, Linn, Benton, Lincoln, Lane and Douglas. They will be grouped according to convenience, and the lower valley and Columbia river counties will be given Monday so they may start Sunday if they wish.

This Week, June 11-16, will be one of the quietest of the whole college year, between the third term and the opening of the summer session. This will give the instructional, experiment station and extension service staffs opportunity to direct the field tours and meet hundreds of farmers to discuss special problems with them.

The exact day allotted to delegates from the several counties will be determined and announced soon.

Albert E. Bond, a pioneer farmer of East Knox Butte, for more than 60 years, died at the family home Tuesday morning, following an illness of several weeks. He crossed the plains to Oregon in 1850, and located on the homestead where he spent practically all his life.

The Albany State Bank is installing a new vault which will be one of the largest and finest in the country.

City Council Meets

Last Thursday night the city council met in regular monthly session, with the mayor and McAdoo absent.

There was not much business before the meeting, except the first reading of the "nuisance" ordinance. This ordinance will make it a misdemeanor for anyone to maintain an old or dilapidated building, or allow rubbish to gather and become a menace to other property, and will carry heavy penalties for same for each day they are allowed to remain unmoved.

The several regular monthly bills were read and allowed.

The work of repairing the water tank or replacing same will be begun as soon as possible, according to the water and light committee.

Drives Without License

Bob Studnicka of Scio had a car in Albany being repaired. It being finished he started taking it home, by having it towed by a truck for the car carried no 1923 license plate. Arriving at Jefferson, however, the truck went on into Marion county after a load of hay and Studnicka drove the car on toward home.

He was stopped by two deputy sheriffs who happened to be in that country and came back and reported to Justice Victor Olliver that he had been told to report for driving without license tags. Olliver had not seen the deputies and was forced to ask his willing prisoner to postpone his visit to the court.—Albany Herald.

Arm is Broken

The little two year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Rowen, of the Jordan settlement, while attempting to walk last Wednesday, April 4th, accidentally fell and broke her right arm, or rather the large bone of the arm. She was brought to Scio on Thursday and the arm set. The child not having made any strenuous outcry with the break, the parents did not know of the break until they noticed that the arm was crooked the following morning, and no outcry was manifest at the setting of the arm.

Fred Giselman, of Monroe, and a former produce man in Scio, was arrested in Eugene the other day on the charge of having stolen a barrel of wine from another resident of Monroe. While here it is said Mr. Giselman was an untiring worker for prohibition. The contents of the barrel is being analyzed and if found to be intoxicating, the alleged thief and the original owner are to be prosecuted, said the report.

A family reunion was held at the F. T. Thayer home Sunday, when nearly all the children were present. Those present were: Mrs. V. T. Wigglesworth and children, and Neva Thayer, of Portland; Freida Thayer, of Oregon City; Mrs. C. Wirth, and children, of Vancouver; Mrs. Floyd Shelton, of Scio; and all had a most enjoyable time.

Mrs. Lawrence H. Bowby, of Albany was badly bruised and her seven year-old daughter received a scalp wound which required seven stitches when an automobile in which they were riding collided with a truck in Portland last Sunday.

The school board of Waterloo has voted to add two weeks to their school term this year.

"Don't Kiss The Cook"

When the senior class of the High School presented its play, "Don't Kiss the Cook," at the school auditorium last Friday night, the room was well-filled with interested persons who came to see and learn how the trick is turned. It is a splendid comedy, taken from the story "Come Out of the Kitchen," and the cast presented it very well, considering the vicissitudes through which it had to pass. The class numbers but five, and of course had to draw from other classes and from outsiders. While everyone was well pleased, the play would have brought out more applause and greater satisfaction given if so much prompting had not been needed. The players should remember that a well spoken play, properly accented at the crucial time, will bring applause to a much poorer play than "Don't Kiss the Cook." The gross proceeds from the entertainment was in the neighborhood of $70.

Patrons, Take Notice

About the 19th of April I expect to leave for Eastern Oregon on an extended trip, lasting probably eight weeks, and all those who are contemplating having their teeth attended to before I return, should see me immediately.

Dr. C. Fieg, Dentist, Scio, Ore.

A fair sized crowd attended the superb picture, "When Knighthood Was in Flower," at the Peoples Theatre last Saturday and Sunday. The house should have been packed to see such a production in Scio, for it is seldom one so meritorious can be shown here. We want at this time to acknowledge the proffer of two tickets from Mr. Wesely to see this picture, but owing to having made other arrangements, were unable to accept. It is the first time since we have been in Scio that a free ticket to any entertainment has been offered the editor and his wife, and this little remembrance naturally makes us feel quite kindly to him.

Thistle Fight Patriotism

Patriotism is the stuff in us that makes us work for the welfare of all, ourselves included, when it is apt to cost us a real sacrifice. Fighting the Canada thistle will make this same demand on our loyalty. The man who, whether he be a farmer or landlord, is careless or indifferent about cooperating with his neighbors in this important fight cannot be called a real patriot, though he may be called a variety of other things.

When the county commissioners issued the call for all farmers to meet in their respective school houses on April 16, to discuss and adopt plans of thistle control, they thought chiefly of keeping down the tax burden. And since the thistle fight is wholly a farmer's fight, they can evade a further tax burden by giving their whole-hearted support to this project.

At the meeting mentioned above, the school board will be provided with plans worked out by the county agent in connection with the county court and these plans are only a slight modification from those of last year.

We believe that the patriotism of the farmer as well his calibre will be indicated by his presence or absence from this meeting.

Appeal From Judge Payne

We wish to call the attention of all Linn county farmers to the meeting on April 16, at 8:00 p. m. to be held in each school district of the county, pertaining to the control of the Canada thistle.

We believe that every forward looking farmer will endeavor to cooperate to his fullest capabilities for three reasons: first, because the benefit he himself receives by having land free from this pest; second, because he has, or should have, some regard for his neighbor; and third, because the purchasing of land where the thistle does not exist is more attractive to the prospective buyer. No man, knowingly, will buy a piece of land that is fouled with this weed, unless he can buy it at a very reduced price.

We wish to appeal to every farmer to cooperate faithfully on the plan proposed by the county court and the county agent to the end that Linn county may at least hold the thistle in check and eventually eradicate it, without causing the county a big expense bill which would later have to be added to our taxes.

We believe that every farmer should regard it as his duty to attend the above mentioned meeting and endeavor in every way possible to carry this project thru successfully.

B. M. Payne, Co. Judge.

Gets Her Divorce

By default, Jane Compton was granted a divorce from C. D. Compton in the circuit court of Albany last Monday, Judge Percy R. Kelly, presiding. Mrs. Compton, besides the divorce, gets $15 a month alimony for two years, or until Lucy, a minor, becomes 18 years of age. She also gets the place in which she lives, by a recent deed executed by C. D. Compton.

Verna Buck, of Scio, was also granted a divorce from her husband, Florian Buck, on the grounds of desertion. This also was a default case. Three other divorces were also granted on Monday.

BUSINESS MEN TALK FOR BOND REDUCTION

Interest in Relieving the City of Much Interest on Bonds
Monday Night's Theme.

The main topic of the Scio Business Men's Association last Monday night was the tax question, and how best to relieve the city of so much indebtedness and also stop the excessive interest bearing bonds. All present were for some sort of plan that would reduce the bonds about $28,000 and thus stop the interest on that amount.

The business men feel that the time has come when the city of Scio must do something to bring people to us for homes and a suitable place to live in ease and comfort, but they were confronted with the ever-present tax burden and the fact that it was the "wild animal" that was keeping people from locating here. The business men realize the debt is of the city's own making, and that the city must reduce it—in other words those already here and who are responsible for the indebtedness must put their shoulder to the wheel and remove the "animal" from our midst.

The plan most talked of, and which seems the only feasible plan, is to vote an additional 80 mill tax and raise $12,500 for the next two years and pay the first bonds and the outstanding indebtedness when the bonds become due in 1925. This procedure would reduce the interest tax some $1500 a year, and would make the next series of bonds that become due in 1932 an easy matter to pay, so thought the business men. This would make for the city for two years a millage of 170 on the taxable property in Scio.

So far, the business men point out, there has been nothing done toward paying off the bonds as they become due, and as history is a good thing to go by, there would never be any provision made, and this would keep the taxpayers continually paying a high rate of taxes for years and years. The Tribune is open for editorials from our citizens on the question from time to time, for the purpose of enlightening the people upon the mood in which they receive the subject or reject it. It must be remembered this will make our taxes $17 on the $100, but when once paid all this indebtedness will stop and will put the home owner on easy street. But give us your views.
