They Work While You Sleep!

We are proud of our Classified column, because it is full of human interest—it brings people together as nothing else can do. If you have anything to sell, or want to buy something, there is nothing quicker nor surer. And the cost is cheap. Yes, we are also proud of our job department and the work we do. See us for anything in the printing line.

W. E. Arnold is the owner of a foredoor Ford Sedan, receiving his purchase from Fred Bilyeu last Saturday.

A Pie Social will be given at the Richardson Gap school house April 27th, 8 p. m. Everyone cordially invited.

Work on remodeling the Scio Mill is now in progress, and when completed will make it second to none for its size.

Mrs. George Bilyeu returned Tuesday evening from Junction City, where she was called by the illness of a grandson.

The members of the Christian church and Dean Morris are planning on painting the outside of their properties in the near future.

Reports from the bedside of Mike Kelly the first of the week were to the effect that he was not so well. Mr. Kelly was stricken with paralysis about four weeks ago, and had been slowly improving.

Rumor has it that some of our most enterprising citizens are taking steps to have a "home coming" in Scio on the Fourth of July. This is something that should take root and become a reality.

George Rodgers and wife took dinner Sunday with their son, Jess, and family. Mr. Rodgers is becoming quite a radio fan, and is making investigations looking toward installing a set on his farm.

Shelton & Co. have opened the poultry house recently vacated by Large & Hackleman, and will continue to buy chickens and other poultry. This no doubt will be good news to those who have poultry to sell.

We have been informed that the S. P. shops in Albany now have a payroll amounting to about $40,000 a month and that the shops are to be enlarged and bigger crew employed. This is by far the largest single payroll in Albany, while there are several smaller plants doing a fine business.

Someone unthoughtedly or purposely threw out some salmon heads behind the Scio Garage Sunday, Mr. Cyrus finding them there Monday morning. Salmon are deadly poison to dogs and people should burn or otherwise destroy all salmon trimmings. Some dogs are no good, but most are, so be careful.

The editor of this paper would like to have those who have borrowed his pruning knife, spade and screw driver return them. He is always willing to loan his tools if those who are kind enough to borrow will be just as kind to return them. They cost real money and he had to pay for them. It has been carelessness, we know, but carelessness soon forbids people from loaning to worthy borrowers. Please return them.

T. E. Fleming was in Albany last Wednesday.

Hon. S. H. Goin was up from his farm on business Saturday.

Mrs. Warren Burton, who has been quite ill, is reported as improving.

A large number of fans went to Lebanon Sunday to witness the roundup.

Alfred Myers, of Crabtree, is painting the tower at his home which improves the appearance of his place.

Cola Gaines, of Crabtree, is figuring with the painters with the idea of putting a new coat of paint on his home.

Wilson Richardson has let the contract for interior decorations in his home, and will make other improvements as soon as practicable.

J. L. Rodgers is having his home repainted, thus keeping up with the forward movement. He has also laid cement walks around his home.

If you have Royal Anne Cherries for sale, see us this week about them. Next week will be too late. We can contract with you for your whole crop. Scio Creamery Co.

The creeks in this vicinity were well lined Sunday with fisherman, who thus took advantage of the opening of the fishing season. It is said some remarkable catches were made.

See the tug-of-war between the Cowboys and a team from the citizens of the community at the Rodeo ground next Sunday afternoon. A goat roping contest will also be a feature.

E. D. Myers and family and Mrs. Frank Gill drove to Portland Saturday afternoon. Mr. Myers returned Sunday evening, the other members of the party remaining for a longer visit.

The Scio Business Men's Association will meet in regular session next Monday night. It is important that all members and others interested in the forward movement for Scio should be present.

Willie Dobrkovsky, the five year old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Dobrkovsky, pulled a milk can over on him Monday evening and broke his left arm near the wrist. He was immediately brought to Scio and Dr. Prill reduced the fracture.

Elbert Couey, George Parrott and Milt Powell came up from Portland Saturday night and spent Sunday on the banks of Thomas creek hooking the festive trout. While here they were guests at the J. B. Couey home. They were quite successful in bagging the limit.

While our plant is not as large as some, we positively pasteurize all our cream before churning "Meadow Shade" Butter. Best on the market, and your grocer will sell it to you, or you can get it at the Scio Creamery Co. There is no "No Admittance" sign over our door, so come in and see our methods.

I. V. McAdoo went to Vancouver, Wash., Saturday afternoon and returned Monday morning with Mrs. McAdoo, who had spent the week there with their son, Ferman. Sunday afternoon the Prunarians held a blossom parade, and it is said thousands of cars were in the line of march through the prune districts.

Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Ager and children were up from Warrenton several days last week visiting at the home of Mrs. Ager's parents, Chas. Rhoda and family. Mrs. Ager says the commission form of government was to go into effect there on the 15th and that a woman was to be the manager. The citizens of Warrenton feel confident, she says, that the managerial form will be a success and the woman prove equal to the occasion.

HOW TO SAVE MONEY WHEN SHOPPING

By MRS. HARLAND H. ALLEN (©, 1922, Harland H. Allen.)

"IS IT FOR YOURSELF?"

"For yourself" piped the smart young salesperson in the shop where I had strolled to look at hats.

For whom else would I be shopping for a hat on a hot summer afternoon? I wondered.

But as I watched a number of women buying hats—a short, fat woman going out with a low spreading hat that made her look shorter and fatter than ever; a woman of the tall, bean-pole type elevated still nearer the clouds by a high plume-crested crown—I decided that the question hadn't been so irrelevant after all. How often does a woman buy a hat that is really designed for herself?

If your face is full and round, do not choose a small, brimless hat, or one with a turned-up brim. It will only change the adjectives "full and round" to "soft and fat." What your face needs is a general lengthening and reducing effect, and this may be accomplished by medium-brimmed hats, by sailors, and by having the brims narrower at the sides than at the front.

A thin face that looks small and peaked under a large hat, may play up all its fullness and delicacy of curves under a small one.

The snubbiest nose can be coaxed to be quiescent under a large or medium-sized hat, while a brimless hat or one that turns up sharply in front would only accentuate the sauciness.

For the woman with sharp, angular features, "softness" is the keyword. Her problem is the same as the thin-faced woman's, only that she must be careful to avoid any lines that accentuate the angles of nose, chin, cheekbone or throat. Stiff sailors only multiply her woes, and yet how she usually does "fancy" them!

Youthful faces may fearlessly wear the straight brimless hat or the turned-up brims which throw the complexion in high relief. But the woman with age-lines, or the younger woman with worried, worn features should wear a hat that has loose, drapery effects, and brim enough to shadow the lines.

If you are of the medium-type of face with regular features, you are often told that "you can wear anything." This is never entirely true. There are certain lines and materials that will bring out your good points better than others do. So, "For yourself" is a pretty good rule to go by. It seems to me, when shopping for a hat.

Mrs. J. W. Parrish was in Albany last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dawson, of Albany were in Scio Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Ina Stoddart, of Larwood, is spending the week with Mrs. Anna Kotan.

E. D. Myers and family were shopping and visiting in Albany Friday afternoon.

M. B. Cyrus has sold a Star coupe to V. Prokop, which was delivered last Friday.
