Good Cows Will Always Pay Biggest Dividend

Just because a poor milk-producing cow pays you a return, do not conclude that she pays. This is an unusually productive year for dairy cows, and with cheap feed you should make money on any sort of animal. Good cows will pay you a still greater return.

Watch Cream Separator to Conserve Butterfat

Many farmers are losing considerable butterfat because their separators fail to skim clean, say dairy experts at Iowa State college. Reports received from over the state show that skim milk often has from one-sixth to one-fourth per cent fat in it. This could be saved by adjusting the cream screw on the separator. Cream that tests high will keep longer and grade higher than that which contains considerable skim milk.
