RESTORING THE PARTHENON

There was a time when Greece allowed some of her most sacred treasures of antiquity to be removed to other lands, as any visitor to the British museum may testify. For some years now she has rigidly refused to permit even the loan of these to be taken away, and the intense interest which was more evident in archeologists from without is now eagerly shared by her own people. The project to restore the Parthenon has aroused alarm among lovers of Greece who perhaps feared that the Acropolis had been damaged in some measure without offense. The Greek authorities are determined to move very carefully in the matter. The present intention is only to restore to their places certain columns which lie nearly as they fell and are almost perfect, but not to attempt any kind of reconstruction.—Christian Science Monitor.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

by MARY GRAHAM BONNER

ELVES' BALL

"Come to the ball," said Effie Elf. "We are giving a ball, we want every one to come."

And she went around asking all the friends of the Elves, and the friends of the Elves are many.

"You'll be sure to come, won't you, Fairy Princess Twilight-Bell?" she asked. And Fairy Princess Twilight-Bell accepted with much joy.

"You'll be sure to come, won't you, Fairy Princess Joy?" she asked. And Fairy Princess Joy said she wouldn't miss it for anything, and that she would be right on hand. Or rather, she explained, she would be along on both her feet.

"You'll be sure to come, won't you, Fairy Ybab?" she asked. And Fairy Ybab said she would come and that the Fairies' orchestra would come too.

"Then," said Fairy Ybab, "when the numbers of the Elves' orchestra want to dance we will play for them!"

"That is wonderful," said Effie Elf. "You are always so unselfish, dear Fairy Ybab."

"Well," said Fairy Ybab, "it always seems rather mean to be selfish about music. If one can give a great deal of happiness by playing merry and pretty notes I think one should do so."

And then Effie Elf asked the rest of the Fairies, and all of the Brownies, and Gille Brownie and his brother, Bonnie, accepted for the whole family!

Effie Elf invited old Mr. Giant and Witty Witch and she invited Mr. Sun and Mr. Moon.

She invited the King of the Clouds and the Army of Raindrops and the Mist grandchildren and the Rainbow

"Princess Twilight-Bell Accepted With Much Joy."

Brothers. She invited the Gnomes and Peter accepted for all of his family. She invited the Bogey family and the Oaf family and she invited the Cloud Fairies.

Some one asked her how she expected to have all of the guests come. It would not be possible to have the King of the Clouds and the Army of Raindrops and the Mist grandchildren and the Rainbow Brothers and the others all at the same time.

And she was told that though these creatures did not hate each other—in fact they admired each other—that they all had different times for appearing.

Effie Elf said she knew that was true, but she had made her plans and she thought they would work out all right.

She invited her guests to come in the afternoon and to remain until night. Some of the guests had other engagements and told her they could not stay all those hours, but they would stay for a while and that pleased Effie Elf.

Well, the party began. And all the guests came. The Fairies and the Brownies, the Gnomes and the members of the Bogey and Oaf families, Witty Witch and old Mr. Giant—every one of them appeared.

And then, all of a sudden it began to rain and then every one remembered that it had been said that the King of the Clouds and the Army of Raindrops and the Mist grandchildren had all been invited.

And how dark they made it and how they did pour down and what a spot tering and a splashing they made. But Effie Elf had called her guests to come within the great Elfland tent so they could look out from every side without getting wet.

Before long Mr. Sun appeared right while the King of the Clouds was coming down, and he called out:

"Hello King, how are you?" It shows what a high up creature Mr. Sun is that he feels entitled to speak to a king in such a fashion. And the King of the Clouds liked to be greeted in that way by so noble and high a creature as Mr. Sun.

And then appeared the Rainbow Brothers and Mother Rainbow looked over them. All the Rainbow children came too, for Mother Rainbow always brings her children with her. They wore orange and green and pink and lavender.

Oh, then came the Cloud Fairies in fluffy white silvery costumes and some wore sashes of yellow golden cloud silk which were very gorgeous.

Later Mr. Moon came peeping over a hill and Mr. Sun excused himself politely after a bit. But oh, such a gorgeous ball it was, and every guest came to it!

Best Plan to Get Good

Cows Is to Raise Them

Profitable dairy cows may be secured in two ways. First, they may be purchased. This is, no doubt, the most expensive way, but necessary in many cases in order to get a start. In purchasing cows you take chances on getting individuals not as good as they look, for often the best judges of dairy animals are fooled in the value of cows. Then, also, there is the chance of bringing in diseases such as tuberculosis, contagious abortion, and udder troubles, says J. P. LaMaster, chief of the dairy division of Clemson college.

The second and best way to get good profitable cows is to raise them on your farm. All dairy cows depend for their value on the inherent tendency to convert feed into milk and on their proper growth and development. That is, they must have well-bred ancestry. Although the cows you now own may be grades and poor grades at that, you can insure the value of your future herd by breeding these cows to well-bred pure bred bulls.

A well-bred bull is not only a registered bull, but one having a sire coming from a line of high butterfat and milk producers, and out of a dam with a good butterfat record, nothing less than 400 pounds in one year, she also having come from a line of high producing ancestry.

The tendency of the normal cow is to revert to the original wild cow which gave only enough milk for her calf; so unless by selection you increase the ability to produce, you will soon have only boarder cows which will not pay you for the feed they eat or the labor necessary to manage them.

The most profitable system of dairy farming is to have the most of the cows freshen in the fall. In order to do this it is necessary to breed the cows during November, December and January. If you do not have a good bull or do not live near a farmer who owns a good bull to which you can breed your cows, begin now to locate one for your own use. The dairy division of Clemson college will assist you in locating a good bull.
