Oregon Made Home Knitting Yarns

A great surprise for the home knitters of Oregon, but still a fact. Furthermore, this yarn is absolutely virgin wool yarn; the wool was grown in Linn county, sold by Mr. Senders to the Oregon Worsted Company (mills located at Sellwood), made into worsted yarn by Roy T. Bishop, son of C. P. Bishop, proprietor of the Woolen Mill Store of Salem. Oregon knitters try this yarn out. All colors. 45c per ball of 2 ozs. Samples sent on application. Address C. P. Bishop, Box 75, Salem, Oregon.

Hall's Catarrh Medicine
Those who are in a "run-down" condition will notice that Catarrh bothers them much more than when they are in good health. This fact proves that while Catarrh is a local disease, it is greatly influenced by constitutional conditions. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE is a Combined Treatment, both local and internal, and has been successful in the treatment of Catarrh for over forty years. Sold by all druggists.

ERA JUST ARRIVED

Will the United States stop building motor cars, close up its factories and return to horse-drawn vehicles? Absurd question! Yet there is only one alternative; if we are not to lose the economic and social benefits of motor transportation, we must supply roads upon which the power vehicles may run.

It is impossible to separate the water from the wave, the gold from the bracelet, or the track from the locomotive. It is equally impossible to separate the road from the truck, or the passenger car from the highway. They are halves of a whole; transportation is never vehicle alone, or highway alone; it is both together.

Our roads were planned and built for a means of transportation which is gone. The earliest highways were for horse riders, the stage-coach came next, after which we had the buggy and the wagon. The narrow road, the steep grade, the soft surface were all admissible for these; none of them are economic for the swift and powerful motor.

We have "improved" our highways—some of them—and widened a few, but we still build a road with the idea that it will "last" but a few years, and need "constant repairs." We still build in widths predicted upon slow moving vehicles, and we still wind our highways up hill and down dale and around devious curves because it is "easiest" and "cheapest" so to do.

That era is gone! The new one is fairly here. We must either build our roads for our modern vehicles, or scrap motor transportation. As the latter is unthinkable absurd, it seems logical to believe that the era of the wide, expensive, permanent, hard surface road is here.

We often wonder if the politician, or office seeker, really feels down deep in his heart that he is for the people. He may when he is a candidate, but after election the action is reverse. Seldom is a law beneficial to the people passed, and if one is, it is so worded that the supreme court can declare it illegal. There is a growing belief among the electorate that too many lawyers are in our law-making bodies, hence the laws are made so that lawyers will have more business, thus adding to the cost of living and litigation. A good plan would be to repeal all laws now on the statute books, and pass laws more in keeping with the Ten Commandments—there would be so few laws then that none of us would be law breakers and not know it. To-day every person breaks some one or more laws and does not know it until haled into court. Even some of our law enforcement officers are law breakers, sometimes not knowing it and sometimes willfully. We think something ought to be done along this line.

George Parker paid the penalty last Friday at the state penitentiary for the murder of Sheriff Dunlap last May. It is said an effort will be made to repeal the death penalty by referendum vote at the May primaries. We hope this will not carry, if the attempt is made, unless there be a safeguard thrown around the proceedings prohibiting pardons or any other freedom for those convicted of murder. Without the death penalty, every one convicted of murder would have hopes of eventual freedom, if nothing is provided to keep the murderer in solitary confinement. Dr. E. H. Hobson, formerly of Scio, was one of the attending physicians.

ACQUAINTANCE has a good deal to do with our community life. Without knowing one another, we seldom do business with each other. The proposed federation of community clubs is the drive wheel of community interests and will work wonders in the growth of Linn county and each community. The more we know each other the better we will feel toward our community and mankind in particular. We will learn thus to circulate our dollars in our own county and thus keep the wheels of industry moving the year around, and each of us will be that much richer. Cooperation is spreading all over the country, and it is good that Linn county is one among them.

Hollywood is again in the limelight. This time it is an attempt at murder by the chauffeur of Mabel Normand on the person of a man named Dines. Until the stars and near stars of the motion picture industry purge themselves of the odiousness of their acts, the public will soon become tired of patronizing them. It is just as easy to keep morally clean as debauched, and a whole lot better.

Again have the Albany papers become entangled in an editorial war. The management of both papers are evidently sane enough to realize that the public does not care an iota about the personal difficulties of the editors to read the stuff. Let each attend to giving the news and the public will render sufficient support to each to make their business a paying one.

The happiest people we know to-day are the ones who have but recently installed the electric line to their homes in the country. They claim they are now in the light, when before they were in the dark. And we rejoice with the Cracker Neck folks and West Scio.

WHILE the cold weather is with us and we have nothing else to do, so to speak, is a good time to enroll your name on our subscription list—you will thus get the news of your community and keep posted on what is going on at home. The price is $1.75 per year.

Butter Wanted—Oregon
Butter To Sell—Oregon

From buying nearly 5 million pounds of butter in 1910 Oregon stepped into the butter selling class with a surplus of nearly 3 million pounds in 1920. The difference in the two headlines to this story is a difference of ten years in point of time.

The dairy output of the state increased 46 per cent in the decade. Oregon bought 4 million pounds of butterfat a year at the beginning of the decade, according to federal census reports. She supplied all her needs and had 2 1/2 million pounds to sell outside at the end of it.

Oregon has proved that it is a great dairy state, capturing most of the high production honors and holding many of the world championships as breeding stock. Query: If this increase in output goes on as the cows, feeds and climate favor, how is the ever increasing surplus to be sold?

The best answer will be sought at the agricultural economic conference to be held at the state college Jan. 23 to 26.
