Oregon Made Home Knitting Yarns

A great surprise for the home knitters of Oregon, but still a fact. Furthermore, this yarn is absolutely virgin wool yarn; the wool was grown in Linn county, sold by Mr. Senders to the Oregon Worsted Company (mills located at Sellwood), made into worsted yarn by Roy T. Bishop, son of C. P. Bishop, proprietor of the Woolen Mill Store of Salem. Oregon knitters try this yarn out. All colors, 45c per ball of 2 ozs. Samples sent on application. Address C. P. Bishop, Box 75, Salem, Oregon.

I pledge allegiance to my flag and the Republic for which it stands, one Nation, indivisible, with Liberty and Justice for all.

THURSDAY, Feb. 14, 1924

Jim Reed, senator from Missouri, has announced himself as a presidential candidate before the democratic national convention. If he is nominated, he will get a blank vote from the world war veterans and bone dry elements of his party. Jim is for Jim, even though it is pretty hard for him to control his own vote.

Politics is a queer thing. If you are a democrat, a national figure in the republican party is the bunk and his reasoning faculties faulty, and the same rule applies to the republicans toward democrats. The only difference apparently between the two parties is that one is "agin" what the other is "for." In rottenness, both are equal.

About 300 attended the community meeting at Oakville last Friday night, people attending from Corvallis. Yes, the interests of one community is the interest of all, and when we get to understanding that thoroughly we will all prosper. Our money will circulate in Linn county for the things Linn county produces and will only go out for the things we cannot get at home.

What has become of the peace plan investigation started by the old warriors in congress? Did they hear from "back home," or was the name of the winner of the $100,000 prize offered by Mr. Bok the knock-out drops? Will the "investigators" please report on this and tell how much it cost the government to attract the attention of congress from performing real service for the country?

Now that Fall, Doheny et al have been "spotlighted," attention just now is being directed to Forbes, the Veterans Bureau director, who has robbed the world war veterans of millions of dollars. Higher-ups became so accustomed to robbing during the war that they have no conscience, and Forbes is as bad as a murderer if the charges against him are true. In other words, the parties who pulled off the Teapot Dome and Pearl Harbor naval oil reserve leases and robbery of the veterans are traitors to their country, and should be so treated.

The roads in this part of Linn county are in better condition now for this time of year than for the past several years, and there is a reason. In the first place, we have a commissioner from this end of the county, and second, the county court has seen to it that real work has been done for the money expended. Now, if the court will get busy and work out a yearly program of hard-surfacing the roads, similar to Marion county and pay for each year's work without floating bonds, their names would be engraved in gold on the pages of history.

Two fool jackasses (say, get this dope) were tied together with a piece of rope. Said one to the other, "You come my way, while I take a nibble from this new mown hay." "I won't," said the other, "you come with me for I to have some hay, you see." So they got nowhere, just pawed up dirt, and oh, by golly, that rope did hurt. Then they faced about, these stubborn mules, and said, "We're acting like human fools. Let's pull together, I'll go your way, then come with me and we'll both eat hay and like it, too," and swore to be comrades good and true. As the sun went down they were heard to bray, "Ah this is the end of a perfect day."—King City News.

day night of James M. Calavan. James Calavan was born in Kentucky in 1845 and crossed the plains to Oregon when a small boy. His parents located on a donation land claim in Linn county. Mr. Calavan lived for a number of years on a farm in the Jordan neighborhood.

Mr. Calavan lived at one time on the farm now owned by Frank Prokop, five miles southwest of Scio.

Mrs. J. L. Oglesby of Shelburn died at her home there Sunday evening.

Legionair Pleased
The play put on by the Sokols at the Z. C. B. J. hall last Saturday night drew a large crowd who were well entertained and well repaid for their attendance. While the play was essentially a Christmas story, it was replete with pleasing situations and performed in a manner that would put to shame some of those who follow the stage for a livelihood. The scene where the little fellow started out to find his father, who had been in the army for five years, and where the little one fell in exhaustion in a snow storm, brought tears to the audience. The settings were pronounced the finest ever seen in Scio. Another play will be put on by the Sokols about March 8th.

If all the electric energy now generated in the United States in one year could be hooked up to a modern passenger train and locomotive, it would spin an express train like the Shasta limited, the crack Southern Pacific train, 80,000 times around the globe at the continuous rate of 60 miles an hour.

Contagious Diseases Reported
The state board of health reported the following number of contagious diseases for week ending on Feb. 2:
Tuberculosis 18, diphtheria 36, scarlet fever 26, smallpox 35, measles 412, chickenpox 17, mumps 8, septic sore throat 1, erysipelas 3, pneumonia b, influenza 2.

Stopping in Scio a traveling man said to a man on the street, so we are informed:

"It has been 20 years since I was here last. Many buildings gone up since then?"

"No," replied the resident, "none that I know of."

"Any gas or electric company here?"

"No."

"Planning for any?"

"No."

"Well," said the traveling man, "I've been all over this country, and this is the first town I have seen that is what you might call actually finished."

The above or similar remarks are heard every day, and are knocks against the town in which you live. Don't do it, it keeps your taxes high and prevents the sale of your property and holds back needed improvements.
