Lacomb Good Host

Monday night was the second meeting in the Forks of the Santiam, and Lacomb was the meeting place, for the local community club and the Linn County Open Forum so far held this year. That it was the equal of the Crabtree meeting, no one will deny, and that all who attended were well repaid also goes without saying. Leonard Gilkey presided.

Many and varied were the numbers on the program, and also varied were the many speeches that were delivered by leaders from all sections of the county. D. V. Poling of Albany made the principal address of the evening, emphasizing that the oftener the people come together, the more cemented will become the community and county, and the greater good will come to all. J. C. Irvine, E. M. Reagan, W. L. Jackson, J. L. Davenport, Henry Pyle, Mr. Smith, James Turnidge, I. V. McAdoo and others, ably backed the first speaker in his statements. Among the questions to be discussed at future meetings will be good roads, timber cruising, and bringing in settlers. These are live questions as well as those of getting acquainted.

The musical program consisted of songs by the audience, solos, duets and instrumental numbers. The most unique of all was a phonograph and saw number by H. H. Hern of Lacomb, who manipulated the saw by using a small mallet following the phonograph. All acquitted themselves with credit.

At the close of the session, which was the best yet held in this community, a bounteous lunch consisting of sandwiches, coffee and cake was served, which was provided by the Lacomb community club. All who attended, and the hall was packed, were more than repaid for their attendance.

The next meeting will be held in Scio on the first Monday in April, and Scio will have to go some to keep up with our friends of the last two months. And she will do it.

To Open Road to Fish Lake

Dr. A. G. Prill, J. S. Sticha and E. D. Myers represented Scio at a county meeting of citizens in Albany Monday night, for the purpose of devising ways and means of opening a road through private right of way, to Fish or Clear Lake, either by purchase or condemnation. After a full discussion, it was decided to hold another meeting in Albany at 1 o'clock Friday to meet with the county court, at which time definite action will be taken to give the court the benefit of the judgement of the people on the question. This is a much needed road, and will make a more direct line from central east Oregon to the Willamette valley.

Do You Know

That Tom Large is the handsomest bachelor in Scio? And this is Leap Year, girls!

That Scio is fast becoming the best place to trade in Linn county?

That the Scio Mill & Elevator Co. is shipping its feed and flour out of Scio by the tons now, when it used to be by the sack?

That the Scio light plant furnishes the best current of any like concern in the valley?

That if all dairymen would patronize the Scio condensery there would be more money in circulation here, and there would be no talk of it leaving Scio?

That the Ballin sawmill is reaching out far and wide with its orders, thus putting Scio on the map?

That for stability, no bank in Oregon compares with the Scio State Bank?

That if every family in the Forks of the Santiam took the Tribune, it would have a circulation of 1500 and could lower its subscription rates?

Garlands Sell Home

Wm. Garland and wife have sold their home in Scio to Sylvester Kreck, late of Canada, where he was engaged in the mercantile business, who will shortly move his family here and occupy the newly acquired home. Consideration was $1500. Mr. Kreck has one grown son who is studying pharmacy, and who will enter some one of the colleges for the completion of his chosen line of work.

The Garlands will move to Albany about the 20th of this month, where Mr. Garland will follow his trade, painting. They have a lot in that city, on which they expect to build this fall, already having purchased the lumber, but which is too green to put into a house. We are sorry to lose this estimable family, but are also glad to welcome the newcomers.

Will Hold Sale

James Dobrkovsky has taken up a homestead in California and will hold a public sale at his ranch, near the Richardson Gap hill on Thursday, March 13, when he will dispose of all his property except the ranch to the highest bidder. He expects to leave for his new home early in April. We are sorry to lose Mr. Dobrkovsky from our midst, but wish him luck in his sale and in his new home. See his ad on another page. Sale begins at 1 o'clock p.m.

Veedol Oil—Fordol

For your Ford overcomes chatter. At the Ford Garage, Scio, Oregon.

Mrs. Charles Pannel is quite ill at her home. Mrs. M. E. Scott is nursing her.

Like Willamette Valley

Dr. Banks and wife, Mrs. Florence Aiken banks, have recently bought the Highway Garage building in Albany, which is occupied by the Miller Auto Sales Company, for a consideration of $35,000.

Dr. Banks is a prominent prohibition lecturer and has traveled 50,000 miles per year during the last 15 years. In all his travels he says he has found no place like the Willamette valley. He has looked every part of the country over and thinks there are greater possibilities here than anywhere else. He says the climate and natural resources are the best ever and he sees possibilities of great development in the future.

Dr. and Mrs. Banks have such great faith in the valley that they are centering all their holdings here. In addition to their recently acquired property they own a prune orchard near Corvallis and land in Lane and Douglas counties. Mrs. Banks' parents were pioneers of Douglas county.

Jersey Club Elects

The annual meeting of the Linn County Jersey Cattle Club was held in the First National Bank building in Albany Saturday afternoon. W. H. McConnell of Shedd was elected president; Ed Schoel of North Albany was elected vice-president; Mrs. S. B. Holt of Scio was made secretary; and C. C. Dickson and C. H. Brown were chosen members of the executive committee.

Thirty members of the club were present at this meeting. Prominent among the speakers were O. M. Plummer, manager of the Pacific International Live Stock association; E. A. Rhoten of the Pacific Homestead; Horace Addis of the Oregon Farmer; and L. G. Allen of Oregon Agricultural College, assistant state club leader.

Scio Hotel to Improve

As soon as the weather condition will permit, the new owners of the Scio Hotel, Mr. and Mrs. Donovan, will repaint, put in new sidewalks, rebuild the woodshed and construct a new garage on the back of the property. The Donovan's are trying to make the hotel as near up to date as the patronage will permit, having just completed repapering the entire building.

One of the quickest ways to kill young chicks is by feeding them mouldy grain. Do not try to save a few cents by feeding some of the grain that was left over from last year and allowed to become mouldy. Examine it carefully and if there is any doubt don't use it. Get the chicks out on the ground as soon as possible. Do not make hot house chicks of them.

See This Egg

Friday morning Joe Patry came to the Tribune office and said we want to see a real egg—and it sure is. The egg measures 11½ inches around the long way and 9½ inches around, and weighs over 11 ounces. One not accustomed to big eggs would say right away it is an ostrich egg, but dear reader it is not—it is just an ordinary egg from an ordinary white goose.

Mrs. Jesse Hildreth brought to the Tribune office Sunday evening a White Leghorn egg that beats all so far, when we consider the size of the hen laying the egg. This egg weighs exactly four ounces and is 6½ inches around and 4 inches long. She naturally feels quite proud of this egg and the hen that laid it.

Drinks Lye, Dies

Charles Junior Duback, the one and a half year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Duback, drank some lye at its home in Portland on Monday of last week, and succumbed to the terrible experience on Wednesday, and was brought to Scio on Thursday and interred in the Masonic cemetery, the funeral service being held at the home of G. L. Flanagan. Rev. Cultard of Crabtree officiated. The little child is a granddaughter of Grandma Schieman, who lives at Thomas. Surviving are his father and mother, and two sisters, Moreva and Geraldine. It was a most lovable child and the many friends of the family sympathize with them.

Register Now

Unregistered voters in Linn county desiring to vote at the primaries must register by April 15, 1924 is the announcement made by County clerk, R. M. Russell, as this is the last day for registration for the primaries. Those who are qualified but unregistered can vote by bringing in two freeholders and having their vote sworn. The County Clerk urges registration now to save further difficulties. Those who voted in one of the last two general elections are properly registered.

All those who have moved from one precinct to another and women who have changed their names must re-register if they wish to vote.

Falls From Platform

Wednesday afternoon, while Commodore Hassler of Lebanon was loading some feed at the Scio Mill & Elevator Co.'s mill, he slipped on the wet platform and plunged headlong about six feet to the ground, sustaining a badly lacerated face. He was able to go to his home, but will have a hard time explaining to his Lebanon friends just how it happened—that the bruises came from a fall. The injured man is a brother of Henry Hassler of Scio.

Mine is Looking Better

Rudolph Wesely returned Sunday from a ten-day sojourn and labor at the Crown Mine, and says that the outlook for the property there is getting better with every foot of ore taken out. Two tunnels are now being driven, one of them is 100 feet and the other is but 12, but these are showing a probable assay of from $36 to $80 per ton. The vein in the longer tunnel is now seven feet wide and shows better than eight feet, and growing richer all the time. All is not gold that glitters, for there is considerable high grade copper in the ore, as well as some lead and zinc. When the company is able to put the necessary machinery on the ground, all this ore will be taken care of and the returns to the owners that much increased. No one will rejoice with the promoters more than the Tribune when the 17 years' toil of the faithful few are rewarded. And may the day be speeded.

Bridge at Mrs. Prills

Mrs. A. G. Prill entertained ten friends at bridge at her home Monday evening. Miss Josie Koten was awarded first prize and Mrs. E. D. Myers received second prize. Those present were Mrs. H. A. Ballin, Mrs. Rolla Shelton, Mrs. E. G. Arnold, Mrs. J. S. Sticha, Mrs. Fred Bilyeu, Mrs. E. J. Holland, Mrs. E. D. Myers, Mrs. A. W. Hazev, the Misses Josie Koten and Vella Brenner and Mrs. Prill's house guest, Miss Edna Therber of Springville, New York. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess after the games.

Breaks Two Ribs

Last Thursday afternoon while Roy Hoagland was shingling the house of W. S. Carpenter, he fell from the roof and landed on a picket fence and broke two ribs on his left side, besides sustaining several other minor bruises. He had fastened a 2x4 onto the roof, but too close to the edge, and the nails holding the scantling gave way, precipitating him to the ground.

Attend Pickle Meeting

Mike Bilyeu, Joe Patry, John and C. A. Silvernagel, F. Kayler, A. A. Muck, John Bender and John Shimanek were in Albany Tuesday to attend a meeting of pickle growers and to call on the county court in regard to a bridge in which they are interested.

Rev. J. Y. Stewart will preach in the Christian Church Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. The subject of the sermon will be "The Value of the Spiritual." Come.

John Silvernagel was an Albany visitor Tuesday.
