Oregon Made Home Knitting Yarns

A great surprise for the home knitters of Oregon, but still a fact. Furthermore, this yarn is absolutely virgin wool yarn; the wool was grown in Linn county, sold by Mr. Senders to the Oregon Worsted Company (mills located at Sellwood), made into worsted yarn by Roy T. Bishop, son of C. P. Bishop, proprietor of the Woolen Mill Store of Salem. Oregon knitters try this yarn out. All colors. 45c per ball of 2 ozs. Samples sent on application. Address C. P. Bishop, Box 76, Salem, Oregon.

Hall's Catarrh Medicine

Those who are in a "run-down" condition will notice that Catarrh bothers them much more than when they are in good health. This fact proves that while Catarrh is a local disease, it is greatly influenced by constitutional conditions. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE is a Combined Treatment, both local and internal, and has been successful in the treatment of Catarrh for over forty years. Sold by all druggists. F. J. THURSDAY, MAY 8, 1924

The Tribune is receipt of a copy of the Benton Independent, a new paper just launched upon the sea of newspaperdom at Corvallis. Arthur W. Lawrence, former state printer, is publisher, and Don C. Wilson is editor. If the fourth issue is any criterion of future issues, we feel sure that the new paper will be a success from the start. Here's wishing so, anyway.

President Coolidge has vetoed the bill increasing pensions to soldiers of the civil war and their widows. As the ranks of the gallant men who shouldered arms at a time when the nation seemed to be divided are getting thinner with each succeeding year, good judgment and proper recognition of these men and women should have prompted the president to sign the bill. They deserve all they were to receive. It is said the world war soldiers bonus will meet the same defeat at the hands of the president.

The primaries are but eight days away, and every man and woman who has registered owes it to themselves, their county, state and nation to go to the polls and cast their ballot for the man who in their judgement is best fitted to serve the public. If we do not vote, we have no right to condemn an unworthy official for stealing our money, for selling out to the highest bidder, or doing anything else for their own personal gain at the expense of the public. A true American citizen is a voting citizen, no matter what his or her political affiliations may be. So go and vote on the 16th.

A great revival is in progress in Salem, and large numbers are being converted at each session, so report says. Two men got in an argument while at their respective places of work the other night, one just being a convert, and the other a member of one of the great denominations of the world, upon what the Bible says regarding eternal as well as temporal things. After a long session of it, the convert said: "I don't care a G-d- what you say, you can go to h-ll for all of me." Wonder if all converts so soon forget their vow. Better to not profess than to profess and immediately fall from grace. Too much like politicians.

Clemency is asked by the jury that just heard the evidence in the case against the four men of Bend, whom they convicted of using the mails to defraud in connection with the state soldiers bonus. How they could stretch their minds to ask clemency in the way of a small fine instead of allowing the law to take its course, we are unable to determine. They give, however, as their excuse for the asking, that they are prominent men and it is their first offense. If a poor man had stolen a side of beef or a loaf of bread, and it was his first offense, would the jury ask clemency? History does not so record. The best plan is for these men to serve their peni-tertiary sentence, and while there reflect upon their actions in defrauding the state and the soldiers.

The Methodist Episcopal church, now in quadriennial session at Springfield, Mass., may lift or modify the laws of the church against dancing and card playing, according to dispatches from the headquarters. They are doing this, it is said, in order that the church may come in closer contact with the young. In our opinion, when the church begins to temporize with "sin" it is losing ground with the young people as well as with the older people of their church.

EVERYBODY PAYS TAXES

It is easy to see the direct taxes. But the indirect way in which high taxes are the cause of high cost of living are so round-about that it is not always clear that in the long run the people who are consumers must pay all the taxes.

Heavy taxes on financial institutions and property and income, and receipts mean high interest rates for loans, expensive mortgages, and higher costs for houses built or rented.

Every time we pay one dollar to a railroad we pay five cents for tax. It is more than that on public utility service.

No matter who pays the taxes to the tax collector, we all pay our share indirectly, whether we own property or pay income taxes or not.

SOMETHING LACKING

Springfield's commercial club gave a most liberal response to the visit made by Harrisburg and Junction City delegates at their Monday evening session. Unfortunately a new member who had not yet been inducted with the germ of commercial club work, made a talk opposing the bridge for the reason that the east side highway did not run into Springfield. A ferry would be good enough for Harrisburg, he said, and ten hour service would be adequate for the people. He said Harrisburg was unfortunate in being situated where it is and insisted that the highway should still be built by way of Springfield.

If we could forget that the highway is now built into Harrisburg, forget that the grade and macadem is built from Harrisburg to Junction City, forget that the engineers have sounded the river and found a bridge feasible, and forget that the bridge plans are drawn, that two-thirds of the money is now ready to build it; forget all this and a speech such as that man made in a commercial club gathering in response to a visiting delegation would bring the blush of shame to every man in the audience who had the real spirit of community cooperation or the desire for a greater Oregon.—Harrisburg Bulletin.

There is one or more in every community.

In A Social Way

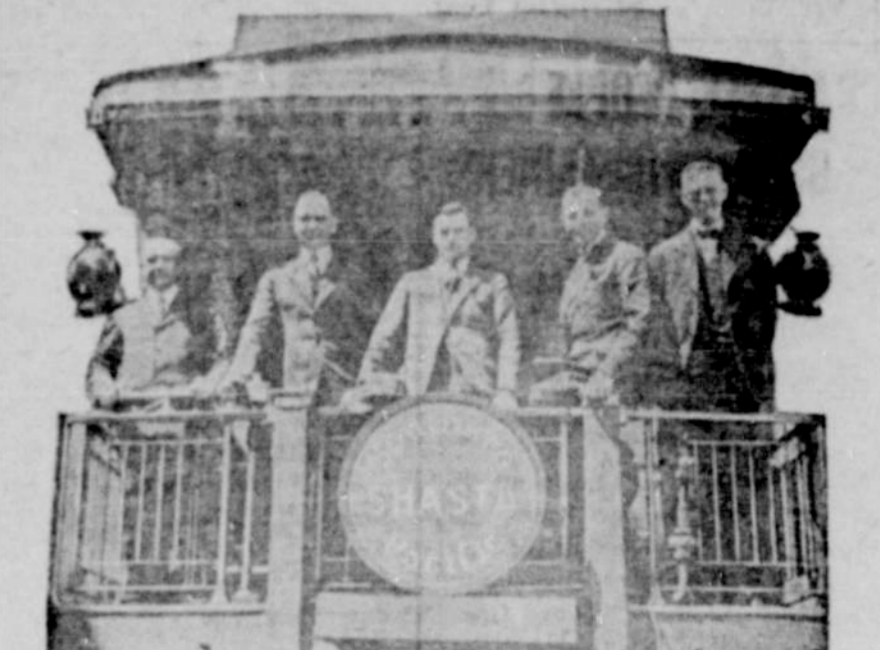

E. G. Arnold and wife and J. S. Sticha and wife entertained with seven tables of five hundred at the Sticha home last Friday evening. After the game refreshments were served followed by a social time which lasted until a late hour.

Mrs. L. F. Jones was given a surprise party Tuesday evening on the occasion of her birthday. Eleven of her friends slipped into her home taking a lunch with them while she was away.

Mrs. Paul Lardon gave a one o'clock luncheon to twenty of her friends Wednesday, which was followed by an afternoon of five hundred.

S. P. TO BOOST WEST ABROAD; EUROPEAN AGENTS SEE OREGON

European agents of Southern Pacific company who have just made a visit to Oregon in order to get a better knowledge of its attractions. They will "sell" the state in Europe. From left to right are V. Mylrea of Liverpool; G. Ruhr, Hamburg; V. Merello, Genoa; H. Desmidt, Paris, and R. G. Bonsor of London.

REGON is to become still better known to travelers and business men of Europe. Five European representatives of Southern Pacific company have just made a trip through Oregon in order to better acquaint themselves with the scenic attractions and economic resources of the state. With this more intimate knowledge of the state they will be in a better position to serve both the interests of Oregon and those of Europeans in carrying out their duties with the railroad company. Having been in Oregon they can more accurately and easily furnish information to people planning to come to the United States, or who ship or receive freight to or from the state. The foreign agents have been spending a month visiting various sections of the Pacific coast served by Southern Pacific, accompanied by L. H. Nutting of the company's New York office. They traveled during the daylight hours only so that the members of the party could get a good idea of the character of every section visited. The visit of the European representatives of the Southern Pacific is expected to be of importance in improving the business relations between the Pacific coast and the countries of Europe. It is said to be the first time that a transcontinental railroad has brought its foreign agents here for an intensive study of local conditions. Members of the party are V. Mylrea of Liverpool; G. Ruhr, Hamburg; V. Merello, Genoa; H. Desmidt, Paris, and R. G. Bonsor of London.
