City Council Met

Last Thursday night the city council met in regular session, the mayor and four aldermen being in attendance.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

The semi-annual report of the city treasurer was read and placed on file.

The usual number of bills were read, found okay and ordered paid.

The present extreme dry weather and the shortage of water gave the council much concern. There is, the council reasoned, too many lots and streets with unnecessary dead grass and weeds that are a menace to property if a fire should break out, and the street committee was instructed to have the streets mowed and the property owner thus encouraged to do likewise for the protection of his property. Water is too low now to fight a big fire.

It is cheaper to prevent a fire than augment it. Help prevent a fire today—tomorrow may be too late.
