The Wise Are Advertisers
You have seen the little white hen strutting around the barnyard advertising the fact that she had just laid a warm, white egg, guaranteed strictly fresh. She knows she has a good product and has no hesitation in ADVERTISING it. You patronize the hen that advertises her product; then accord the same fair treatment to the business men who seek to reach purchases through advertising—they know they have a good product and they want you to know it.

The advertisers in this paper are straight shooters, they have to be if they get and hold patrons. Their products are where you can inspect them, and they always make good any article that is wrong. They are deserving of your trade, because they are taxpayers, and have the welfare of the community and the county at heart. Cooperate with the advertiser and get best results. The cooperative movement is under way and the best way to keep it going is to lend a hand. Loyalty to our own community and county is quite as essential as loyalty to our country.
