THURSDAY, July 24, 1924

Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana has been selected by Senator Robt. M. LaFollette as his running mate on the independent ticket. We wonder if he can "wheel 'er" straight into the white house?

A subscriber wants to know what is meant by saving "Up Salt Creek." That expression, dear reader, is a forceful way the voters have of telling the defeated candidate of their delight in "pickling" him on election day.

The Community Club meets at Crabtree on Monday night, August 4th. While we have received no word of what the boosters are doing down there to make the meeting a success, we believe there will be some surprises for those who will attend. Send in your program for publication next week.

A subscriber down Jefferson way says: "You ask what has become of that old hackneyed phrase 'We view with alarm.' Why, that's easy; it's gone to hunt for that other out-of-date phrase 'We point with pride.' Ask us something hard! Hurrah for LaFollette!" Alright. If La

Follette is elected, who'll be minister to Siam?

The big Linn County Fair is soon to appear in the offing; in fact is to start on Sept. 17th and lasts four days. It is to be a big fair, because some 20 or more communities are to be represented, the largest in the history of the county fair. The premium list is the largest ever. And that's why we say "the big Linn County Fair."

That caravan to Clear Lake starts next Thursday, and promises to be the biggest thing that ever happened in and for Linn county. The promoters would like to see as many go from this community as possible. It will be a wonderful educational trip and a fine three-day outing. If you go take rations to last as long as you expect to be gone.

Just now great interest is being manifested by state and county political organizations in the national candidates, and of course the press of the state is deluged with inquiries as to the prospects of this or that candidate and also with free stories, saying, "if you use this in whole or in part, or use something in your own way, we would thank you to send us a copy." Generosity begins with the newspaper and ends there, so it seems. If these publicity seekers want to know what the press is saying, why don't they subscribe? The paper would come regularly and an already over-worked philanthropist would in a small way be getting some returns from well spent labor.

COURTESY IN THE FOREST

According to figures of the U. S. Forest Service, nearly ten million people visited the national forests of the United States last year, of which 1,576,000 were to the forests of Oregon and Washington. The report shows that over eight million of these people came in automobiles.

The Forest Service has been actively engaged in building roads and trails, opening up the forested regions for use and for pleasure.

More and more people are using these routes of travel. Practically every traveller brings in fire in some form—campfires, matches, tobacco, cigarettes.

The number of careful campers increases each year. More and more people are learning the awful possibilities of fire in the woods. They are learning the rules of the game, and are playing square. But each year there are enough people who do not know—or who do not think—to bring the number of man-caused fires up to seventy per cent or more.

Every citizen should learn care with fire before he goes into the woods, even though it means changing the habits of a lifetime. Every forest visitor should appreciate the privilege extended to him and treat his hostess, Dame Nature, with due consideration and refrain from burning the roof over his head.

If each forest visitor were to release carelessly only one spark of fire, that would mean a ten million spark power menace. Rather should these forest visitors enlist as a loyal force of ten million American citizens—using their privileges, but not abusing them—and making a united effort to prevent forest fires.

The Destroyer

Worry is a monster
That no one understands,
Tearing at the nerve force
With hard and cruel hands.

Beating down all laughter,
Twisting at the brain,
Breaking peace and calmness,
Giving only pain.

Worry is a trickster,
A robber, thief and knave,
Mocking foolish victims,
And the griefs he gave.

Yet we walk with worry
Day on troubled day,
When a little logic
Would drive the beast away.
