POOR OLD DAD

The sands of time are slipping
From beneath his weary feet;
With life's joys and sorrows mingled,
He will soon lie down to sleep—
The sleep that knows no waking
Until the new creative morn,
Unconscious that he ever lived,
Or for what purpose he was born.

He spent his days in weary toil
His children to clothe and feed,
Who oftentimes in their thoughtless morn
Caused daddy's heart to bleed.
His eyes are dim, his hair is gray,
He knows that soon he'll pass away,
Give room to others to pursue their
way

To repeat the same old "round-delay"
That's been going on since Adam's day.

Three score years, and then some
more,

He has carried life's heavy load,
Thru life's long and changing path-
way

Over its rough and rocky road.
He once was young, happy and gay,
Just like the young folks of today,
But now his feet are slipping,
Quietly slipping from the world
away.

Do all you can to make him happy,
Do no deeds that cause him pain,
For when he is taken from you
He will not come back again.

Make his last days brighter,
As he faces life's setting sun,
For you must travel the same old road

Which poor old dad has done.
Never think because he is old
And out of date, you say,
But to be kind, gentle and loving,
Be this to him every day.

The old arm chair soon will be vacant,
No more he will enter the door,
Asleep in his casket, complaisant,
He's passed to that echoless shore.

The children no more on his lap will
climb,
Or ride his foot horse, one at a time,
And be happier still when he gave them a dime.

Life then was happy and sweet, you
see,
Indeed, it was almost sublime,
When he doddled his children on his
knee,
Or astride his foot they would
climb.

Sad! Yes, sad are the changes,
Made by the swiftness of time—
Dad won't be here much longer,
He will pass to the silent clime.

Santiam Farm News

August 5th

Everything out this way is quiet with no excitement.

Billy Richardson and G. A. Griffin made a business trip to Albany Saturday. They were out of a job.

David Horsburgh finished up threshing Sunday forenoon, and has his crop all in the dry; happy as a lark.

Geo. Griffin has sold six fine sheep. Henry Preever killed and dressed them Monday and took them to Portland on Tuesday for the top price, as they are fat and fine.

They threshed out three farms Sunday, as it was a good day.

Billy Richardson and Geo. A. Griffin shipped a truck load of fine pigs, 17 head, to market Tuesday; will average some 200 pounds.

Henry Preever put up over night with G. A. Griffin; they are both bachelors and are disgusted with women, as they don't like men.

Uncle George Bilyeu and wife of Scio called in Sunday afternoon for old acquaintance sake, having a nice chat to pass away the time.

The Sunday school was a little light, as most all were with the threshing crew. The school went on just the same.

Mrs. Inez Stoddard's house near Larwood, occupied by Dr. Rossine, caught fire one day last week, but by prompt action he was able to cope with the situation.

Ed Kalina finished up the last crop of cutting for Joe Kalina today, Tuesday. Harvest will soon be over as there are only three small jobs yet to thresh.

FIE EATER.

RUPTURE

EXPERT COMING TO
ALBANY AND SALEM

Will give Free Demonstration on Monday and Tuesday, August 11 and 12, in Albany at Albany Hotel, and on Friday and Saturday, August 15 and 16, in Salem at Marion Hotel, from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m.—TWO DAYS ONLY.

On above date the noted rupture appliance expert, C. F. Redlich, will give a free demonstration.

"You will at once realize the difference between his highly efficient, absolutely sanitary appliances and the inefficient uncomfortable, smelly and thoroughly unsanitary elastic web trusses with their bulky, plainly visible pads and their abominable chafing legstraps or the various mail order steel or wire trusses which never fit right. All of these unscientific devices make your rupture steadily worse instead of better, as you well know. Mr. Redlich's appliances, scientifically fitted by an expert in person, will give security and comfort for years to come, not only to those with recent and small ruptures, but also to old, neglected cases. They are by far the cheapest in the long run.

Many ruptures are now healed by these improved mechanical methods which formerly necessitated operations; but do not delay.

Children should never carry a rupture into manhood or womanhood, as they can be easily restored to a normal condition by a proper mechanical method. These clean and sanitary devices will here be most appreciated.

It will not cost you anything to be shown and a visit may mean a great deal to you and those dependent on you."
