THURSDAY, AUG. 28, 1924

There are a few sidewalks in this town that will cause the owners a lot of grief some of the days if some one should fall and break a leg or arm. The damage cost would make a new walk dirt cheap.

Now that Scio is about to get from under a heavy tax burden, a smile is beginning to grow upon faces that have worn frowns for several years. An optimistic feeling for the future is prevalent.

Some men think if you don't believe as they do that you are a dangerous radical and that the militia should be called out to quell you. If that's Americanism, excuse us for not agreeing with that thought.

Too bad the moonshiner is not the man who tries to butt a street car or locomotive off the track. If he was, the prohibition question would solve itself. Come to think of it, he never drinks the stuff, for he knows the danger in it.

Mrs. James W. Ferguson won the democratic nomination for governor of Texas, thus vindicating her husband, who had been recalled by the Klan, she says. Well, she can't do any worse than a lot of men have done in that position.

There is an opportunity for a Scio miss to be crowned queen of the children's pageant on Wednesday, Sept. 17, opening day of the Linn County Fair, which is to be known as "Children's Day." Let's get busy, folks, and have this honor bestowed upon one of our little girls, whose age is not under four nor over six.

One good way to stop the crime wave by young people is to investigate who is boss at home—the parent or the child. If the parent has been lax in discipline, and leaves the child to grow up on the streets, the law should lay its iron hand upon the parent to show where law enforcement begins—in the home. No parent should allow society or the jails to do for their children what they should do for themselves. If fathers and mothers would do their duty, the daily papers would have no streaming headline telling about some awful crime your boy or girl has committed.

Breaks Arm

Last Saturday Aunt Becky Morris accompanied her niece, Mrs. Calla Bigbee on a motor trip to the Gates neighborhood, returning home late Monday afternoon. Soon after her return she went across the street from her home to a neighbor's, and tripped on a loose board, thus causing her to fall and break both bones in her left arm near the wrist joint. This is the third time she has broken this same arm, the last break being in the same place as that of Monday. Dr. Prill reduced fracture and she is doing fine.

Orders Agent Restored

According to word received here, the Public Service Commission has ordered the Southern Pacific to restore an agency at Crabtree. It will be remembered the agency was removed about two months ago on account of insufficient business. The Commission evidently has found more business for the S. P., hence it is fair to presume the order would not have been made. If we are to have station agents and railroad accommodations, the railroads must be patronized.

Chas. O. Payne Dies

Thursday morning, Aug. 21, Chas. O. Payne, a former resident of the Thomas neighborhood, passed away at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Payne, near Jefferson, aged 38. He was born at Dotyville, Oregon, in 1886, and cause of death was bright's disease, from which he had long been a sufferer. Funeral services were held at Providence church Saturday afternoon, and burial took place in the cemetery there.

Work for Everybody

With the beginning of prune picking this week and hops next week, there will be plenty of work for everybody in the valley for several weeks. Prunes are going to prove better than at first expected, likewise the hops. By the time these are completed there will be the usual winter avocations opened. Then everybody will be happy.

Our weather is ideal since the rain. Corn and late potatoes are doing fine and grass is showing up.

Ed Kalina hauled two loads of clover seed up to the huller near the Richardson bridge Sunday afternoon, and got 7 bushels of No. 1 clover seed, worth $125.

Geo. A. Griffin bought 10 tons of hay and hauled it home Saturday. He now has about 50 tons.

The old man is selling off his old pelter chickens, wishing to stock up with Plymouth Rock pullets. Any one having any to sell please let S. W. Gaines know soon by letter or phone.

Walt Miller and wife of Turner came in Monday for a supply of vegetables to can.

Ed Kalina hauled his lumber Monday for his new potato house, as he does not want to lose any more potatoes from cold weather.

William Lee has purchased a car so he and wife can go out comfortably.

Corn crop this season will average with former years, as the ears are well filled, most every stalk with one or two ears. Good enough for this dry season.

We received a phone message late Monday that Mrs. Rebecca Morris of Scio had broken her arm. No particulars.

Mrs. Joseph Fares, who came here June 29 from Park City, Utah, to help care for her invalid nephew, R. H. McCarter, passed away Sunday, Aug. 24, at her nephew's home near Jefferson. Her death had been expected for several weeks, and she had all the care loving hands could bestow.

Mrs. Fares maiden name was Jane Ann Cowan. She was born at Ogdensburg, Y. Y., April 22, 1839, making her 85 years, 4 months and 2 days old. She was married to Joseph Fares in 1886, who preceded her in death two years ago. She had no children, and all her old friends had moved away, so she braved the journey alone to Oregon to spend her last days with some of her kinfolks and brought comfort and cheer to them. She leaves to mourn her loss three nephews, Fred McCarter of Baker, Ore.; Thomas McCarter of Oakland, Calif., and R. H. McCarter of Jefferson.

The funeral was held at the Masonic cemetery near Scio Monday afternoon, Rev. Erskine, Evangelical minister of Jefferson, conducting the services. It was well attended and the grave was covered with flowers.

Mrs. Emma Seifert of Lebanon helped nurse Mrs. Fares during all of her illness.

John DeWall, whose home was destroyed by fire some months ago, has started a fine new residence. It will be two stories with a basement 28x40 feet, and will be partly of tile. Mr. Riggs and Jack Goar are doing the carpenter work.

Alfred Schieman and wife of West Stayton have been visiting their father, Henry Schieman, for several days.

Herman Zeller went to Salem Saturday evening. Sunday he visited his sister, Mary Garrison, at Lyons. John DeWall has sold his Ford roadster to Walter Goar.

Eileen Moore of Salem is spending a week with her aunt, Mrs. J. G. Holt. Sunday was the little Miss' 10th birthday, and Mrs. Holt made her cake with 10 candles on it.

John Shepherd's have spent a few days at Newport. Last Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Shepherd had as guests Mr. and Mrs. V. B. Highbee and son of Leoria. The two families were celebrating their 9th wedding anniversary, as they were married on the same day.

Frank Gill and wife and Mrs. Mat Gill of Scio visited Sunday at Guy McKight's.

Mrs. Mae Higginbotham and three daughters of Silverton came Friday for several days' visit at the home of her sisters, Mrs. W. J. Kelly and Mrs. Frank Prokop.

The women and children are busy picking evergreens here.

Prokop Bros. attended the Shindler sale Saturday.

PER FAD

How come Claudine looks so cheery while the rest of you girls appear tired and strained? asked a supper customer in a rapid fire restaurant.

She wears shoes that are big enough to be easy instead of fashionable, replied Heloise, the head waitress. She always was a crank.
