STATEMENT

of the ownership, management, circulation, etc., required by the Act of Congress of August 24, 1912, of The Scio Tribune, published weekly at Scio, Oregon, for October, 1924.

State of Oregon, County of Linn.

Before me, a Notary Public in and for the state and county aforesaid, personally appeared E. J. McAdoo, who being sworn according to law, deposes and says that he is the owner of the Scio Tribune and that the following is, to the best of his knowledge and belief, a true statement of the ownership, management, etc., of the aforesaid publication for the date shown in the above caption, required by the Act of August 24, 1912, embodied in section 443, Postal Laws and Regulations, printed on the reverse of this form, to-wit:

That the name and address of the publisher and editor is I. V. McAdoo, managing editor and business manager, E. J. McAdoo, Scio, Oregon.

The owner is I. V. McAdoo, Scio, Oregon, and his wife, E. J. McAdoo, Scio, Oregon.

That the known bondholders, mortgagees, and other security holders owning or holding 1 per cent or more of total amount of bonds, mortgages, or other securities are: None.

E. J. McAdoo, Business Mgr.
Sworn to and subscribed before me this 24th day of September, 1924.

RILEY SHELTON, Notary Public.
My commission expires Feb. 14, 1925.

Read your voters pamphlet and then vote against the repeal of the income tax law, sustain the law that forbids the dairy substitutes, and against the radical changes in the workmen's compensation law.

Scio and Linn county fared quite well at the state fair, thank you. And we will fare still better if the fact is kept before the people and not allowed to be forgotten—that we have the first prize cattle, sheep, hogs and horses.

The world fliers finished their history making trip Sunday, when they landed at Seattle shortly after noon, this being the point from which the squadron hopped off a few weeks ago. No undertaking of an exploration character ever was more carefully planned nor gloriously consummated.

The most dangerous radical today is the gray-haired man at the steering wheel—in fact, while driving he is an anarchist, having no regard for the lives of others when he must pass everything on the highway. In politics he probably urges conservatism, believing to try to keep ahead of the procession is dangerous. The ways of man is hard to understand, especially in a free country.

Oregon has produced more world champion dairy cows than any other state in the union. This is possible both because of natural conditions and the fact that some of our citizens have devoted their lives to improving the quality and productiveness of these cattle. They work not only for their own good, but for the benefit of an endless chain of people who are helped by dairying. This being a dairying center, it should be natural for our people to support the present law against substitutes and not for its repeal.

A drug that destroys fear and makes a "cake-eater" feel like going out to lick Jack Dempsey or any other "pug," has been discovered in South America by scientists. The drug is known as caapi, is used like tea or coffee, is exhilarating and not particularly harmful. It can be brought to this country with but little cost. We have our order in for a consignment, and if we can keep it secreted from the wife until we can take on a shot of it, several people not a thousand miles from this town will have the opportunity of offering us their apology.

The political porridge has now simmered down to the two major parties focussing their oratorical guns on LaFollette. The issues do not seem to be on how best congress and the president can serve 110,000,000 people, but on how to ride into power on the appeal of the spell-binder to our patriotism. Most of our people are 100% per cent patriots 365 days in the year, and are proud of it, but they would like to see performance and not hear so much promises—the people are anxiously looking for another Lincoln, who will be long on performance and short on promise. LaFollette may or may not deserve all that is said about him, and the recent court decision in California in which his electors were eliminated from the ballot in that state will cause many thousands of votes to go to him that otherwise he would not get. Why question in that manner the integrity of the voter to use good judgment in voting? Why is it necessary for the politicians "to make up the mind of the voters?" The voter knows why, and he most likely will register a tremendous rebuke at the November election.

What Is "Chevon?"

Hereafter, if the efforts of a number of organizations and individuals have the desired effect, goat meat will be designated by a special name which will be comparable to pork, beef and mutton. The name selected by the goat-raising interests in the southwest is "chevon." In reply to requests for approval of this new name, the United States Department of Agriculture has stated that there seems to be no reason why this name should not be adopted and generally applied to the meat of this domestic animal, and therefore approves the name "chevon."

The word "chevon" was created, after long consideration of many suggestions, by organizations representing the principal Angora-goat producing region. It was made by combining parts of two French words, "Chevre," meaning goat, and "mouton," meaning mutton. In other words, "Chevon" means goat mutton.

SANTIAM FARM NEWS

Sept. 30

Our nice fall weather still continues with occasionally a small shower to remind us that Oregon will not fail on moisture.

Silo filling has been the order for the past week, with a fine quality of corn, as good or even better than usual.

The old one-eyed Pie Eater was lucky enough to return home Sunday evening, after a six-day visit and ramble over Portland seeing the sights and having a time of his life, equal to Samson when he slew thirty thousand Philistines with the jaw bone of a dead mule, which must have been quite interesting, as it was to the old man. He found everything floating along nicely, with Clifford Griffin superintending the farm and stock, also caring for his mother, Mrs. S. W. Gaines.

Geo. Griffin attended the fair at Salem two days, making some kind of a deal with his fine lambs; have not as yet learned the particulars.

The old man got a glimpse of the round-the-world airplanes while crossing the Broadway bridge in Portland Sunday. They passed over the lower end of the city some 400 feet high headed north for Seattle. I did not hear any salute, not even a man toot his whistle. I doubt if half the people in the city saw them, all were sadly disappointed, and some said "to h-l with you."

Uncle Tom Small filled his silo Monday, having good success.

Cora Lucas had bad luck, as the high wind of last week blew his silo down and badly damaged it, so he had to get a new supply of lumber. Will erect it in a day or so, as he wishes to fill it this week as his corn is getting quite ripe for ensilage.

Mrs. Jennie Lovejoy of Dallas, who has been staying with her mother, Mrs. S. W. Gaines, while the old man was out for a time, returned home Saturday.

Geo. Griffin has a fine lot of calves which he took to the pasture, as he did not wish to feed them.

Henry Slater is making his home with George and Clifford Griffin this winter, so they have a regular bachelor's hotel.

We are having a nice warm shower which will soon assure us plenty of grass, also purify the air and stop all forest fires, so people will feel natural and enjoy the fall rains.

The old man and good wife made a trip Tuesday to the Riverside Inn to see the lady and get a square meal, as the Santiam Farm was out of grub.

Here is Luther Burbank, plant wizard of Santa Rosa, Calif., discussing the potentialities of Pabeo Mulch Paper with W. L. Rhoades, an expert on the paper. In the foreground on the right is seen strips of the Pabeo Mulch Paper laid on Burbank's experimental station. It is stimulating the growth of Gladioli. Inset, Burbank inspecting the progress made by a crop treated with the Pabeo Mulch Paper, which no doubt is going to give to the world a newer and cheaper plant stimulant.
