

Meat Animals at Pacific International

This beautiful Shorthorn bull won grand championship honors at the Pacific International Livestock Exposition last fall. Frank Brown, of Carlton, Ore., the first president of the Exposition and one of its board of directors, stands behind the animal, and his little grandchild occupies the place of honor.

Beginning with Saturday, November 1, hundreds of animals, bred for symmetry of outline and for the greatest proportion of meat consistent with constitution, will be on exhibit for the admiring public. There will be the Shorthorns, in their red, white and roan dress; the Herefords, massive white faced animals with wide spreading horns; the Aberdeen-Angus, black as night and without horns of any kind. The Milking Shorthorn and Red Polled cattle, the later solid red, will also be shown.

The hog show is one of great merit and excellence, and Poland Chinas, Duroc Jerseys, Chester Whites, Berkshires and Hampshire swine will come to contest for honors from many states.

In the sheep department are a bewildering display of breeds. The long, medium and fine wool breeds will all be represented. Angora and milk goats will also be shown.

The poultry department has been increased in size and the exhibits will be more numerous and of finer quality with a number of new breeds shown. The commercial egg division will be of especial interest to poultry raisers.

The Exposition is remarkable for its variety of domesticated animals shown. It is worth visiting for the sake of seeing the progress made in the production of these animals which minister to man's wants and needs.

SANTIAM FARM NEWS

Oct. 21

Ed Kalina is digging his crop of spuds, which are fine, saleable potatoes, but is finding only a few in a hill. He dug over 100 bushels Monday. A son-in-law and two sons of Frank Pruitt are picking them up. The son in-law arrived home Sunday from a year spent in Los Angeles, and is not a California booster. Ed has just built a large potato house and has it practically freeze proof.

Cola Gaines' hired hand of Crabtree is putting in 40 acres of summer fallow on the Santiam Farm.

Elmer Griffin of Salem came in Saturday noon to stay over night with his mother, Mrs. S. W. Gaines, returning early Sunday morning.

We all had the pleasure of attending the K.K.K. meeting at Scio Saturday night, which was considered grand. The parade was sure fine, as it was the first sight of the kind we ever saw. Oh, but wasn't the speaking grand, as we all learned something we never knew before. We were assured it was the truth. It surely ought to wake up our sleepy, disinterested protestants. I believe it the best organization on earth for the welfare of the American people. I am not a member, but I wish I was. I wish every American could or would read the Western American—it surely would convince our blind protestants that trouble is ahead. (Don't get excited, Uncle Sam, as no one is in danger, if anyone knows of any specific instance where danger lurks that person or persons owes it to a community to bring it before the courts and thus quickly stop "the impending rebellion," and we'll help all in our power. Until this is done let's have faith and confidence in our neighbors, as we want them to have faith and confidence in us.—Editor.)

Mrs. Walt Bilyeu and son Vandare and wife of Kalama, Wash., called in to see the old people, as they are great friends and glad to meet each other after a year's absence.

Uncle Tom Small is fattening an old rooster to feed his foxes this winter, as he is expecting them most any time. He has the pens all in readiness to receive them.

The old Pie Eater has a fearful cold and a good dose of bronchitis, which he has most every winter, and it is not very agreeable.

John Davenport of Roaring river has sold his fine mountain home to his son-in-law and has moved on the old John Gaines farm, which he now owns.

JORDAN ITEMS

Oct. 21

Joe Schwindt and sons were Jordan callers Thursday.

Miss Mabel Privett returned from Portland Saturday, where she has been visiting the past week.

Mrs. E. Phillips and children are guests of her parents in Mill City at present.

K. M. Chronic and son made a business trip to Salem Thursday, returning the same day.

The small son of John Shelton sustained slight burns on his face and hands when he fell into the fireplace from his chair. However, he is improving fast.

Mrs. Annie Garrett was a Scio shopper Friday.

Frank Jungwerth has rented the Krautz house in Jordan and will move in soon, we understand.

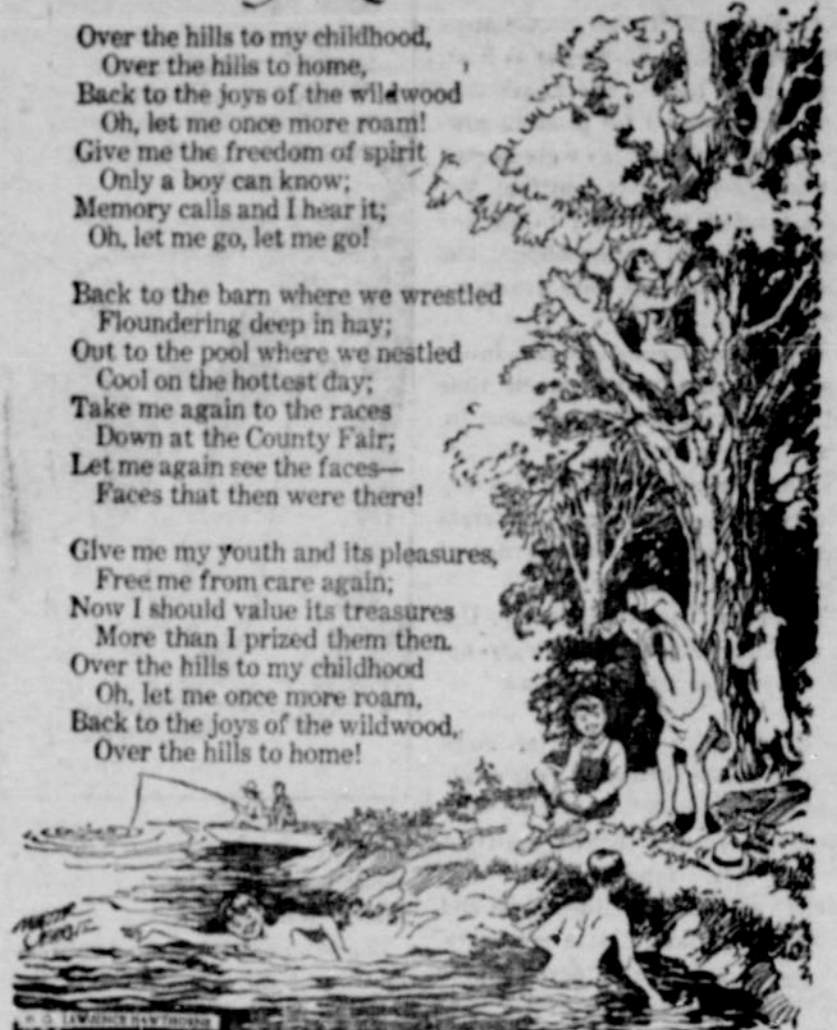

Mr. Weich returned from eastern Oregon Saturday, where he had been the past week. Too windy and dry for comfort over there, he says.

Over the Hills
by O. Lawrence Hawthorne

Over the hills to my childhood,
Over the hills to home,
Back to the joys of the wildwood
Oh, let me once more roam!
Give me the freedom of spirit
Only a boy can know;
Memory calls and I hear it;
Oh, let me go, let me go!

Back to the barn where we wrestled
Floundering deep in hay;
Out to the pool where we nestled
Cool on the hottest day;
Take me again to the races
Down at the County Fair;
Let me again see the faces—
Faces that then were there!

Give me my youth and its pleasures,
Free me from care again;
Now I should value its treasures
More than I prized them then.
Over the hills to my childhood
Oh, let me once more roam,
Back to the joys of the wildwood,
Over the hills to home!

The Krayniks children from Pleasant View are attending school at District 124, which seems to be somewhat enlarged from patrons of the surrounding districts. The Misses Pauli are teaching there.

Doc Jungwerth and family came from Gates Sunday to make a short call on his mother, Mrs. Endres. No place like the old home, especially in the autumn.
