THURSDAY, NOV. 20, 1924

The Linn County Open Forum is about to resume. All of us remember the good times last winter and herald with delight the decision to again resume community gatherings.

The Tribune has a beautiful line of holiday greeting cards, suitable for all purpose. And they're inexpensive. Come in and look them over. They have the double envelope and we print your personal greeting.

To spite Gov. Pierre, the 1925 legislature will do a lot of things that will set Oregon back a neat sum financially. See if our predictions do not come true. Such a campaign as we just went through always produces such results.

Frosts and fogs make motoring dangerous. When driving, go slow, keep your side of the road and thus help the other fellow from causing accidents. Pedestrians when using the highways should walk on the left-hand side of the road—he thus protects himself and the motorists.

Christmas is only a little over a month away, and our local adverers should begin making their bid for the holiday trade. The Tribune is ready to serve you. Remember the hen advertises her new laid egg and the whole world patronizes her. Come into the limelight, let the people know who you are, where you are and what you have to sell.

When father touches elbows with his son around the banquet table, and when he joins in the games of athletics which his boy likes, say! look out! Our courts and jails are sure to have less business and inmates. When father and son are on intimate terms and understand one another, night carousals, booze parties and chicken stealing will be a thing of the past. And the "father and son banquets" will help turn the tide.

Wheat went to $1.55 on the Chicago Stock Exchange last Thursday, the highest in three years. Report said Canada was short 20,000,000 bushels more than expected, hence the high price. Nothing was said about the protective tariff on wheat in the dispatch, probably because gamblers do not know of such a tariff. Gamblers or no gamblers, high tariff or no tariff, we wish we had the 20,000,000 bushels last Thursday that Canada was short and we would have sold it—maybe.

Becoming Better Known

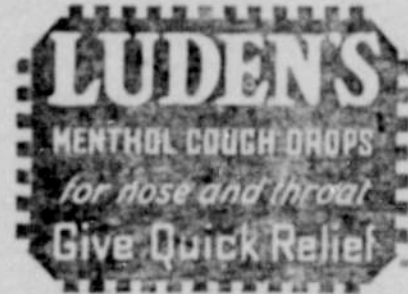

This section of the Willamette Valley is being recognized all over the country as one of the leading dairy and stock raising communities. V. E. Collins, butter maker for the Albany Creamery Association, and M. Patterson of McMinnville tied for first honors at the meeting of the National Butter Makers association in Mason City, Iowa, early in this month. Mr. Collins began work as a bottle washer at the Albany Creamery nine years ago, and was promoted to the position of butter maker five years ago. The first prize is a gold medal awarded by the national association and the second is $25 in cash by the Oregon association.

Later—Collins was awarded first prize.

Ed Schoer of Albany, breeder of purebred Chester White hogs, won first honors on some of his hogs at the fairs in Oregon and Washington, where he exhibited this year. His prize-winning aged Chester White sow, which has held the championship for three years, has been taken to Kansas City to be placed in the Royal Livestock Exposition, and later will be taken to the International Livestock Show at Chicago.

Claude Miller of Dallas is buying cream in this vicinity for the Marion Creamery Co. of Salem, and is working in the interest of the dairymen against the margarine law.
