What Whistles Mean

(EXPLAINED BY S. P.)

For the benefit of the curious the Southern Pacific Company tells what the locomotive means when it says, "toot! toot!"

Four blasts, two of medium length and two short is a warning that the locomotive is approaching a public grade crossing and is the engineer's way of saying, "Look out, I'm coming."

One short, sharp whistle means that the hand brakes are needed to help the engineer stop. With modern airbrake equipment this signal has become practically obsolete.

A succession of short blasts tells pedestrian, wandering stock and other trespassers to get off the track.

One long blast followed by three short ones, and the rear flagman walks back along the track to protect against a following train.

Four or five blasts of medium duration calls the flagman to the train.

Four short whistles is the engineer's way of asking for train order signal.

Two short whistles mean "Thank You" or "I get you."

One whistle of medium duration followed by two short blasts calls attention to signals displayed for a following section.

One long blast is given when train is approaching station, junctions, draw-bridges and railroad crossings at grade.

Two short blasts given three times is signal to trainmen that airbrakes are sticking.
